SUPPLEMENT TO
APPENDIX TO BOOK II.
OF THE
MEMORIALS OF ARCHBISHOP CRANMER.

NUMBER LXVIII.

[This document belongs to the second volume of this work, in the Appendix to which it occurs, p. 675. But its intrinsic importance is so great, that the present editor has thought it right to reprint it literatim from the original in the Inner Temple Library. Its importance will appear from the following valuable passage in Dr. Nares's Memoirs of Lord Burghley, vol. i. pp. 449—452. "That the king had such things in view," (i. e. the adoption of the Salic law) "possibly moved thereto by the extraordinary writings put abroad in his own time against the rule of women, particularly by Knox, . . . is clear from a Device still preserved among the Petyt MSS., in his own handwriting, and printed by Burnet and Strype. . . . From the same MSS. Burnet and Strype have also printed a very curious document, purporting to be the original assent of the council to Edward's limitation of the crown by will, signed by twenty-four counsellors, and among others, Cecil. . . . It may be doubted how far it could be drawn up with any direct view to Northumberland's project of making the crown pass immediately from Edward to the Lady Jane. . . . The principal point to consider would be, whether the council had a view only to the king's device of limiting the succession to the heirs male, or whether they then intended to consent to the Lady Jane's being brought into the succession as a female heir, being thereby preferred to the late king's two daughters. The allusion to the Device occasions all the difficulty. The king's own device seems to have been to exclude the females totally, though in the course of the proceedings, through the machinations of Northumberland, he was brought in fact and reality to prefer the Lady Jane to his two sisters. We are disposed to think he was deceived, being too weak to investigate the matter thoroughly. In truth, the instrument itself, as it appears in Strype's Cranmer, Appendix 164 (68), is most curious; for if the king's device was to exclude the females, two very trifling words make all the difference." And then Dr. Nares remarks upon the alteration by interlineation and erasure from "the Lady Janes heires masles," to "the Lady Jane and her heires masles ;” as below. “ From the whole it appears how much it was at one time at least the king’s own device to limit the succession to the issue male coming of the issue female, which are his own words, though scratched through.” The succeeding observations pp. 453, et seqq. are well worth attention.]

[See p. 17 of this volume. So many versions exist of this important document, that the editor has thought it advisable to insert it in the Appendix, with the various readings; for which purpose a special collation has been made of each of the copies referred to. The Latin version, as published by Burnet, is given in a parallel column. Dr. Jenkyns's example has been followed in adopting one of the MSS. in the library of Emmanuel College as the-text. At first the editor was disposed to consider this as less authentic, since it had some readings not supported by the other versions: especially in the passage "Nor no man can say the contrary and speak truly" &c.: but on consideration it appeared to him that Dr. Jenkyns's judgment, never to be lightly questioned, was sound. The passage alluded to seems to be one of the final corrections of the archbishop himself, when all hope of license from the queen was past. It is also more explicit, and in point of style and effect better than the former reading. The other corrections are for the most part obvious improvements. The Copy at Corpus Christi College, which is in Cranmer's handwriting, is probably the original draft. It bears marks of haste, in some less correct phrases, and in this unqualified expression, "Whereas the mass not only hath any foundation," correctly altered afterwards thus, "whereas the mass in many things hath no foundation." The initials in the notes are to be thus explained. C. The MS. in Corpus Chr. Coll. E. The second MS. in Emmanuel Coll., used as text by the editor of the Parker Society's edition of Cranmer's works. Immanuel.

Jesus Immanuel

M^{res} Jane Wilk : Tas Cranmer

The true comforter in all distresse is onlie god thorow his sonne Jesus Christ and who so ever hath hym, hath company ⁿenough althoe he were in a wildernes all alone, and he that hath 20 thowsand in his companye, if god be ^xabsent, he is in a miserable wildernes and desolacion. In hym is all comfort and without him is none. Wherfore I besech yow : seke your dwelling there, ^yas yow maye truleye and rightlye serve god, and dwell in him and have hym ever dwelling in yow. What can be so heavy a burden, as an vnquiet conscience, to be in such a place as a man can not be suffered to serve god in ^zChriste true religion? If ^ayow be loth to depart from yor kinne and frendes, remember that Christe calleth them his mother, ^bsuster and brother, that doe his fathers will. Wher we finde therfore godd trulye honoured, according to his will, ther we can lacke neither frende nor kinne. If yow be loth to depart for ^csclaundering of goddes worde, remember that Christ when his howre was not yet come, departed out of his countrey into Samaria, to avoyde the malice of the scribes and Pharisees, and commanded his Apostles, that if thei were pursued in one ^dplace, then thei should flie ^eunto an other. And was not Paul lett down by a basket, out at a wyndoe, to avoyde the persecution of ^fAretha? And what wisdom and policie he vsed from time to time, to escape the malice of his enemies the actes of the Apostells do declare. And after the same sorte did the other Apostles: albeit when it came to such a poynt, that thei could no longer escape daunger of the persecutours of goddes true Religion, then thei shewed them selves, that their flieng before came not of feare, but of godlye wisdom, to do more good and that they wold not rashlie without urgent necessitie, offer them selves to death, which had bene but a tentacion of god. Yett when they were apprehended, and could no longer avoyde, than thei stode boldlye to the profession of Christ, then thei shewed how litle thei passed of death, how much they feared god, more then men, how much they loved and preferred the eternall life to come, above this short and miserable life. Wherfore I exhorte you as well by Christes commaundement, as by the example of him and his apostles, to withdrawe your self from the malice of yor and goddes enemyes, into some place wher god is most purelye served, which is ^hnot sclaundering of the trueth, but a preservyng of your selfe to god and the trueth, and to the societie and comfort of Christes litle flocke. And that you will doe, doe it with spede, lest by yor owne folie you fall into the persecutors handes. And the Lorde sende his holie Spirite to leade and guyde yow where so ever yow goe. And all that be godlie will saye, Amen.

Most lamentably mourning and moning himself vnto your highnes Thomas Cranmer, although vnworthy either to write or speake unto your highnes, yet hauing no person, that I know, to be mediatour for me, and knowing your pitifull cares to heare al pitiful complaintes, and seing so many to haue felte your abundant clemency in like case: am now constrained most lamentably, and with most penitent and sorrowfull heart, to aske mercy and pardon for my haynous folly and offence, in consenting and folowyng the Testament and last will of our late soueraigne Lord King Edward the syxt youre graces brother, which ^qwill god knoweth I never liked, ^rnor neuer any thing greued me so much that your graces brother did, and if by any meanes it had bene in me to haue letted the makyng of that wil, I would haue done it, and what I said therin, as well to ^shis counsell, as to himselfe, diuers of your Maiesties counsell can report, but none so wel as the Marques of Northampton, and the Lord Darcy then Lord Chamberlayne to the Kynges

Majesty, which two were present at the communication betwene the Kynges Majestye and me. I desired to talke with the kings majesty alone, but I could not be suffered, and so I fayled of my purpose, for yf I might haue commoned with the king alone, and at good leasure, my trust was that I shuld haue altered hym from ^tthat purpose, but they being present, my labour was in vayne. Then when I could not disswade him from the said wyll, and both he and his priuy counsell also enformed me that the Judges and his learned counsell sayde, that the act of entayling the crowne made by his Father, coule not be prejudiciall to him, but that he being in possession of the crown, might make his wil therof, this seemed very straunge unto me, but being the sentence of the Judges and other his learned counsell in the lawes of this realme (as both he and his counsel informed me) me thoughte it became not me beyng vnlerned in the law, to stand against my prince therein, and so at length I was required by the kynges majesty him self to set to my hand to his wil saying that he trusted, that I alone would not be more repugnant to his wil than the rest of the counsel were (which words surely greued my harte very sore) and so I graunted him to subscribe his will, and to follow the same, whiche when I had set my hande vnto, I did it vnfainedly and without dissimulation. For the which I submit mysefve most humbly vnto your majestye acknowledging mine offence wyth most greuous and sorrowfull hart, and beseching your mercy and pardon, which my hart geueth me, shal not be denied unto me, being graunted before to so many which trauailed not so much to disswade both the king and his counsel, as I did. And where as it is contayned in two acts of parliament (as I vnderstand,) that I wyth the Duke of Northumberland should devise and compasse the depriuation of your Majesty from your royal crowne, surely it is vntrue, for the Duke never opened his mouth to me, to moue me anye suche matter, nor his heart was not suche towardes me, seekyng long tyme my destruction, that he woulde ^ueither truste me in suche a matter, or thinke that I would bee perswaded by him. It was other of the Counsel that moued me, and the Kynge himselfe, the Duke of Northumberland not beyng present. Neither before, neyther after, had I euer any priuy communication wyth the duke of that matter, savyng that openly at the counsel table, the duke said vnto me, that it became not me to say to the King, as I dyd, when I went about to disswade hym from ^xthe sayd will.

Nowe as concernyng the estate of religion, as it is vsed in thys Realme of England at this presente, if it please youre highnesse to licence me, I woulde gladly write my minde vnto your maiesty. I will neuer, God willyng, be author of sedition, to moue subiectes from the obedience of their heades and rulers, which is an offence moste detestable. If I have vttered my mind to your Majestye, beyng a Christian Queene and Gouvernour of this realme (of whom I am most assuredly perswaded that your gracious intent is, above al other ^ythinges, to prefer gods true word, his honour and glory) if I have uttered I say, my mynd unto your Maiesty, then I shall thynk my self discharged, for it ^zlyeth not in me, but in your Grace onelye, to see the reformation of thynges that be amysse. To private subiectes it appertaineth not to reforme thinges, but quietly to suffer that they cannot amend: yet neverthelesse to shew your maiesty my mind in thinges appertaining unto god, methink it my duety, knowyng that I do, and considering the place which in tymes pst I have occupied: yet will I not presume thereunto wythout your graces pleasure first known, and your licence obtayned, wherof I most humbly prostrate to the ground, do beseche your Majesty, and I shall not cease daily to pray to almighty God for the good preservation of your maiesty from all enemies bodily and ghostly, and for the encrease of all goodnes heavenly and earthly, duryng my life, as I do and wil do, whatsoever ^acome of me.

THE QUEEN.

Instructions for Mr. Thomas Goldwel.

Cotton Library, Titus
B. 2. fol. 170.
[British Museum. Original.]

Mr. Goldwel. After ye have made my moste humble salutation, wyth all dewe reverence to the Queenes Highnes on my behalff, and presented my lettres to the same, then pleasyng her grace to here yowr commyssion gyven by me, and to understand the cause why I doe send yow to her, ye may expounde the same in that fourme that foloweth.

171 Furst of all seeyng that the hole cawse of my sendyng yow to her Highnes at this tyme is grownded upon the requeste that her grace maketh unto me in her lettres sent me thise dayes past from the Emperours coorte dated in London the xxviij off Octobre, in the Latten tonge, Wherunto her grace doyth demaunde answer off me in twoo poynts. One is, touching the difficultye she feareth by sygnes, she seeyth all redye touching the renouncyng of the tytle off the Supremacye of the Church in her realme, when it shall be put furth in the parlament which sygnes be that wheras her Maiestie alreadye hath cawsed to be putt furth to the Parliament the abolysheng off those lawes, whiche concerned the annulation of the legitimate matrimonye off the gracious ladye the Qwene mother to her grace, the same passing the Upper howse, and putt furth to the lower, albeit in the effect they wold nott refuse to agree to all that myght make to the stablesheng off the ryght off her Grace to the Crowne yett thei dyd nott gladlye heare off the abolysheng, specyally off that lawe that gave the tytle off the Supremacye of the church in the realme to the crowne, suspectyng that to be an introduction off the Popes authorytie in to the Realme, which thei can nott gladlye here off. And for this cawse can not gladlye heare of my legation in the Popes name. Whereupon her grace in the same lettres doyth exhort me to staye my voyage untyll a more opportune tyme, And asketh my counsell, in case the lower howse make resistence in the renounceng of the tittle off supremacye, what her grace were best to do, and what waye she had best to take. One other poynt is, that her grace desyereth in the same lettre to be certyfyed by me, how it cam to pass, that a Commyssion geuen by her to Mr. Frauncesco Commendone in secreat, was publyshed in the consistorye, as her graces embassadour, resydent in Vennyce doth certyfy her.

^b [Endorsed, "Your instructions," in the handwriting of the document. Strype's endorsement is, "From

Thise be the twoo poynts wherein her grace reqwyreth my answeere. And for to obey her demaunde which to me ys a Commaundemente, I do send yow nott onlye to present my lettres, but also my mouthe, and wyth this present instructions for more satysfaction of her grace in all poynts.

As towcheng the furst poynt, which is of most weyght and so greate, toucheng the honor and wealth of her grace both spirituall and temporall, as none can be more, ye maye shewe her grace, that my furst advyse and counsell shall be, to obteyne of God by prayer that which I praye him to gyve me wryteng this, which is, to have spiritum consilii et fortitudinis. And this her grace must nowe praye for, that as in the attaynenge the crowne his hygh providence shewed by manyfest tokens to have geuen her thise twoo graces, so in the mayntayneng thereof he wyll confyrme thise twoo gyftes in her mynde. Her Highnes knoweth yf she had relented att that tyme for any peryll, when that bothe mannes counsell and force were against her, she had loste, so yf she for onye feare do relent and do nott renounce that title of Supremytie, which toke the name of pryncesse and right heyr from her, she can nott mayntayne that she hath gotten al redye by the spirite off Counsell and fortitude.

So that my furst counsell ys this, that obteyneng by prayer thise twoo gyftes, which her Grace had att that tyme, to show her

selfe no lesse ardent in the leaveng of the tytle of supremacytie for to maynteyn her ryght, then the Kyng her father was in the 172 acqwysition therof to the pryvation of her ryght, whiche so moch more she ought to do, and be more fervent in this then her Father was in that, bycawse that was done agaynst all lawe both of god and man, and this that her majesty doyth now, showeng her selfe moste fervent herein doyth fulfyll both Goddes lawe and mannes, and thatt is her verye dewtye, yf she shuld lose bothe state and lyfe wythall, as she hath knowne she ought to do by the example of the best men of her realme, which for this cawse, resysteng the Kynges unlawfull lawes lost both.

And, nowe the goodnes of God putteng no such hard conditions to her grace, nor layeng afore her yies onlye præmia futura, wyth losse of temporall, as he dyd to those men, but præmia cælestia with terrena joynded togyther, that servyng to the honour of God, which is in this poynte to rendre the tytle of supremacye of the churche in earthe to whom God hath geven ytt, she doyth stableshe her owne crowne wythal. Yf now she shuld relent herein for enye feare off ^cman, beyng brought to that state that other men shuld rather feare her then she them, specyallye in so good a cause, this afore God and men were moste perpetuallye to be blamed. Wherefore whatt my counsell ys herein on this maner now rehearsed, ye may enforme her Highnes.

Nowe to com to the execution of the thing, after her grace is determened to have hit done, casteng awaye all feare, the same stondesth to have hytt putt furth, and cawseng ytt to passe by the Parliament, This is an nother cownsell necessarelye to be pondered, consysteng the hole after my opinion in the propone-ment of the parson that hath to putt furthe the same, that wyth lesse dyfficultye, and more favour ytt may passe.

Here ye maye saye, that I moche pondereng the same, and consydereng that it must be a personne of authoritye, that shuld propone the same, yf it shuld take effect ; When I looke in my mynde apon all them, I know off the lordes both spirituall

and temporall, and personnes of the lower howse that myght have authorytie to do the same, I do see none, butt other he hathe defended the contrarye cawse by his sentence and wrytinge, as the spirituall men have done, which taketh awaye a great part of authority to perswade other, when men heareth them accepteng that mattier that afore tyme thei have op-pugned: or else to speake off the temporall lordes or other, beyng all entangled wyth pryvate proffet, enioyeng gooddes of the church by reiecteng the authorytie off the same, thei can nott speake with thatt freenesse off spirite as suche a matter reqwyreth.

Wherfore ye maye conclude wyth her grace myn opinion herein, that after long consyderation hereoff, I see no parson but oone that ys able wyth authorytie and all favour to propoune this matter, and that parson ys her grace herselfe, God haveng brought hytt to hyr hande alone, she beyng in this matter and all other immaculate, and wythout blott, ordred off God to defende hys cause and her owne wythall.

And this, ye maye saye, the Cownsell that ytt pleased God to putt in my mynde is, thatt her grace do in this case, as I remember the Emperour dyd in his owne cawse passyng by Rome, where as his mynde was to iustifye his qwarell touching the warre betwyxt him and the Freanche Kyng afore the Pope and the Cardynalls, when doubteng yf onye other person shuld propose the same it myght have contradiction off that partie that dyd favour Fraunce, he determened wythout ony conferencye either wyth his Cownsell or other, to putt furth the 173 matter him selffe. And so when nother the Pope nor no other loked for eny such thing, his Holynesse and the Cardynalls beyng now congregated, he entered in amongst them in the consystorye, and made a long oration in iustifyeng his cawse, and obtayned thatt he wold wythout ony resystence.

Underneath this maner my poor advyse shuld be, that her maiestye shuld personallye com in to the parlament, and putt furthe the same her selffe. And I dare be bolde to saye, what for her authorytie, and the iustenes, and the equitye of the cawse hytt selfe, she shall have no contradiction: and yf nede were also to shewe her selfe to the lower howse, the thing hytt self so neer toucheth her wealth both godlye and temporallye, that ytt shuld be taken rather cum applausu then otherwyse.

Further, and joyunctlye wyth this hytt shall be necessarye her highnes make mencyon of the Popes legate in my parson to be admytted, and sent for, wherein her grace hath this furst to entreate, thatt the lawe of my bannyshment may be abolyshed, and I restored to name and bloode.

And herein her grace doith know whatt extreame iniustyce hath bene done to me, and all our howse. And touching my parson, what was ever done that could be layde agaynst me, whye I shuld be bannyshed, which never thought nor dyd in that cawse I was bannyshed for butt thatt wherebye I deserved rather greate rewarde then enye payne, beyng so geven wyth hart and mynd to the Kyngs honour and wealth both off hym and the realme, that wyth no reward, which was offered me greate, the Kyng him selfe could not persuade me to do or sentence ony thing agaynst his honour and the wealth off the realme, and to his dampnation. Here is all the cawse why I suffred bannyshment with so great losse off those kynnesfolk that were derer to me then my lyffe. And this beyng done by the consent off the parliament, though, I doubt nott, agaynst their mynde, the Parlament ys bound afore God and man, to revoke me again, and specyallye now comyng wyth that Commyssion, that bryngeth the stablesment off your graces crowne to the comforth off the hole realme both temporallye and spirytuallye.

And this her grace may boldelye saye, off all the tyme off my exile wherein God hath gyven me honor more then I dyd requyre, or wold have had if it had layne in myn owne choyse and gooddes suffycient to mayntayne my state, yff ever ytt be founde that for eny respect of person for ambytion, pleasure or lucre I swarved from that I judged the honor of God, and, in matters off my contree from the wealth theroff; I am content not onlye nott to be accepted at this tyme, butt perpetuallye to be bannyshed. But yff they prove all the contrarye, and that wyth the Kyng your Father, nott onlye as a faithfull subject, butt wyth that love also that no servant could shewe to his master more, nor sonne to his father, I shewed ever to exteame more his honor and wealthe, then myn owne gooddes or contreye, and never ^dprocured other then the wealthe off the same, then lett them beleave now, that I never wold come unto them after so manye yeares absence, your grace bearyng the crowne, wyth other commyssion then that I know surelye shuld be to the honour, comforth, and wealth of your grace and the hole Contreye.

And so touching this poynt of my counsell that her grace requyreth of me, here ye have explicated how the hole matter wherein my counsell is requyred may be concluded. For otherwyes at this time I see nott what myght be taken, nor can imagyne no other so good as this waye whiche me seam- 174 ythe God hath ordered shuld be taken and preferred above all other.

After this ye shall showe her grace, yf this waye be nott followed or dysferred, what I most feare. And this ys furst, that the popes holynes beyng all redye perswaded to graunte to ^ethe staye of my iorneye contrarye to his furst comyshion, when her grace showed more fervenceye to receyve the obedience off the church, that the next comyshion I shall have, shall be to retourne backe in to Italye agayn.

And the cawse whye I feare this, ys, that the Pope shall thinke by offreng to her grace and the realme, all those graces, that do parteyne to the reconcyliation off both to the church, when he seeyth it ys nott accepted wyth thatt promptnes it is offred, he shall think that bothe afore God and man he hathe satysfyed all that coude be requyred off him, touchyng the demonstration of his paternall affection to her grace and the realme, in the whiche the College off Cardinalls peradventure wyll iudge, that his Sanctytie hath bene overmoche bountefull, specyallye when they heare off this my stayeng, beyng made wythout their consent, which thei wyll ever take for a greate indignytie, hearyng no gretter, nor more urgent cawse theroff then hytherto hath bene showed, and knoweng how her grace can not maynteyne her ryght nother afore God nor man wythout haveing recourse to his holynes, and to the See Apostolyk, off whose Authorytie and Dyspensation the hole ryght of her cawse doyth depende, as som of them then wold have had his holines at the begynnyng not to have sent his legate untill he had bene reqwyred, so moche more now, after he hath ^fsend, and he nott accepted, thei wyll all be off opinion, that he shall be revoked and then what peryll both her grace and the hole realme stondesth in, by the reason of the Schisme yett remayneng, it is manyfest of ytt selfe.

And yet this is nott al my feare of my revocation, but that which may follow, that I feare more, which is this, that where as now, yff I had bene accepted wyth that promptnes and syncere affect as I was sent of the popes holynes, and that I brought wyth me, my parson I trust shuld have brought more comfort to her Highnes, and the rest of the contreye, then ony straunger, as the popes holynes thought when he made me legate, so nowe on the contrarye for the selfe same circumstantyes and cawses that parteyne to my personne nott beyng accepted, it shall more aggravate the cawse att all tymes that the realme hereafter shuld require to be absolved off the Schisme, and all other that wold seke to prevayle against her graces tyle, by the reason off the Schisme, for the selff cawse that I was nott accepted, retourneng again to Rome, wyll take this for a great proffe of the obstynat endureng in the same, which all dyvyne lawes doyth most condempn; so that my parson, I desyrenng nothing more then to bryng comfort to her and the realm, nott accepted, shall be cawse of more discomfort, which as I saye, God of his marceye forbed.

Expounded under this maner my feare, which stondesth in my revocation, nott for my selff, but for the damage that may com to her Maiestye and the realme therbye, the same beyng verye lykelye yff my staye be dyfferred ony longer space, knoweng that his holynes and the colledge wyll nott suffer suche indignytie, then yow may declare wythall, the remedies, that I thought best to be used at this tyme to avoyde this inconvenyencye.

And herein yow may show how the furst remedie is, that 175
the pope and the colledge of Cardinals be wel perswaded that my staye ^g here is but for a smale tyme, and for to bryng a more suer conclusyon and mak the waye more playn, as I have cawsed the popes holines to be enfourmed by a servant of myn sent by poste to Rome, showeng the tenour of the byll her Grace wrote by Herrye my servaunt wherin was conteyned that her Highnes shortlye trusted that the matters of the parlament shuld have that conclusyon that I most desyered. And apou this hope that messenger had to showe his holynes that I had sent my stuffe afore towards Flaunders, and now also for confirmation of thatt hope I have sent a parte of my companye afore to tarrye me there. So that this yow may saye ys the furst remedye I can fynd to kepe the pope and the collegde in hope of a brave and good resolution.

One other chyfe remedye is, becawse I perceive the Emperours Maties Counsell hath ever bene, that her grace in matters of religion and in the renounceng the title of the Supremacye shuld procede wyth gratt moderation, and nott to be hastye therein, untill other matters temporall were better settled; for this cawse, besyde that what I could do by ^h lettres, if it were possyble, as moche as was in me, to remove his Matie from the opinion, that dilation in this matter shuld be profyt-able to her Highnes, or the realm, as she may perceve by the copie of my letters, wrytten to the emperour, ⁱ sent by Herrye Pyninge, I have lykewise ^k perswaded hys Maties Confessour, whome I founde here a man of greate sanctytie and learneng, that for the love he beareth towards his Matie touching his soule wealth, and honor off the worlde besyde, and affection to her grace, that he wold personallie repair him self to his Majesty, and by al means possible attempt to remove this worldlye feare, and herein I have gyven him instructions, wheroff yow have the copie with yow, that yowe^l may show the same to her highnes.

The thurd remedye is, that which I attempt now by sendeng yow to her Matie, that she maye be well enfourmed of the peryll which in myn opinion is now more greate, then when the duke of Northumberlonde dyd sett agaynst her, and the same must be overcom wyth that meanes that her grace then had the victorie, which was by putteng her hope and trust holye in God, and in the iustyce of her cawse, casteng awaye all feare worldlye, whiche doyng, her highnes may be suer her cawse perteyning to the honor off God and wealth of his church, for the whiche his sonne dyed for, thatt ys Lord off all, she shall fynde leste difficultye, and moche redyer healpe, then she can now imagyne.

And this now shall be suffycient yow enfourme her grace touching the mattier wherein it hath pleased her to ask my advyse and counsell.

Touching the other matter wherein her highnes semyth to be offended for the relation made openlye in the consystorye by Mr Francesco Comendone, off those things, which her Matie had told hym in secrete, off this yow may say, her grace beyng enfourmed off the treuthe, hath more cawse, to accept that which was done moste gratefully, then in onye part to be offended therewyth. And the truthe is this, he dyd nott open onye thinge that was tolde him in secrete, nor dyd nott make^m his relation as I thought my self he had done at the begynnyng, as off things hard of her graces mouthe, butt that he had harde off other catholyke and devoute personnes, that knew her 176 Graces mynde, which was in generall off the devoute mynde that her Matie bore to God and the church, and off that parti-

culer poynt that she wolde have had showed onlye the Popes holynes nothing was spoken and al this was done to confyrme the Cardynalles myndes touching the approbation of that the pope had done in makeng so soddenlye his legate afore eny information was gyven what mynde her grace bore to the obedience of the church, which som dyd nott approve at the furste, and after this relation made by Mr. Francesco that had bene in Englande, all were well satisfyed, so that all tourned to the honor of her Maiestie, and to corroborate all that was done to her servyce. And that she maye the surelyer be advertysed how all things passed in this matter, I have caused to be copied one part off a letter which the Popes holynes wrote unto me upon this acte; and the same yow maye show unto her Grace.

And becawse I do know what greate servyce it myght be to her grace to be trewlye enfourmed in all partes that parteynith to the retourne off trewe obedyence to the church, both touching the tyme and maner and the consequence thereoff, and to discerne the craftes and wyles that the enemye of mankynd ever useth to make it seame trewe obedyence, when it is nott, whereupon dependeth the hole grounde off the mayntenaunce of the state that God hath gyven her Grace, and how few there be in the realme, al beyng maculate therein, that can or wyll endeavour them selffe to explicate the peryll and showe the remedye; Therefore consydereng that I in person can nott come so sone to gyve her Highnes enformation as I know the necessarytie of the matters to be concluded doith reqwyre, yow may show her Maiestye thatt amongst those gentlemen off my companye, whome I have sent afore to Flaunders, there to remayne, there be twoo, of whome if it wyll please the same to take enformation off, and as her grace fyndeth itt to the honour of God and wealth off the realme in this furst settleng of the obedyence of the church, so to execute the same, I wold think that her grace shuld be well satisfyed, and satysfye all good men wythall, thise being men of that qwalytiees, that ye know, which have godlye prudence and humaine, ioyned bothe to gyther, off the which, one I knowe by long experience, that hath bene manye yeares so conversaunt wyth me as no man more famyliar, off whome I have ever judged my selff to have that treasour that fewe greate Pryncys hath the lyke, and off the other to have as great pleasure ⁿfor the tyme he is content to serve me, but whether her hyghnes wyll serve her selffe to be enfourmed off them in this furst settelleng off her state, this ys in her graces pleasur.

This onlye I wold desyer her Maiestie, wylleng the same if they shold com, that they myght com to be knowen to come from me, for the cawses that I have showed yowe.

^o Further, your Commission shalbe to expounde to her Highnes my hole mynde and sentence towching the demande hitt pleased her grace to make in her gratiouse Letters dated the xxviiij of Januarye concerninge those personnes whom for the good opinion her Grace had of theyr Vertue Lering and Catholyke good mynde she intended to make Bishopes how that they may be provided fore withowte derogation to the authoritie of the See Apostolique, her Grace nott intending further to extend the powere of the crowne regall, then hit was custumable in use afore the Scisme enteryd. In this poynte wherein 177 her grace demaundeth myn answeare, yow shall make the same conformable to that whiche by long and often conference with me, ye knowe to be myn utter sentence: wherein ye nede nott to have any further explication by wrytinge.

Beside this towching the ii actes of parlament oon of the legitimation of the matrimonye betwene the most graciouse Quene her Mother and the King her father, the other of the sacramentes to be used under the maner, that they were Pused the laste year of King Henry the VIIIth her graces father whiche both it pleased her Mat^{tye} of her goodnes to send unto me for my satisfaction of mynde, to knowe how they were passed by consent of the Parliament, yow may shewe her Grace that these too perfectly inacted and concluded, be those in treuthe, that of al actes that could be made to my comforte, none could bring me more satisfaction. Whereof the onlye cause ys that I know nothing can passe by the parliament more to the stablissment of her Hieghnes State both afore God and man then the sure stablissinge of these too. and for this cause, whatt so ever lacketh to the stablissing therof, me seemeth, I am bounde to utter plainly to her grace and trewlye to say whatt doth nott satisfye me in those actes, my hole satisfaction dependinge of the fruite, that may redounde to her grace and the realme, when they shalbe perfectlye concluded.

And therefore herein yow shall nott lett passe to enforme her Grace pleasing the same to give yow benign audience, as wel wherein they were nott to my utter satisfaction, as also wherein they satisfyed me, and brought me ^{some} comfort. And first of all how the former Acte of the ratifyeng the matrimonye seemed unto me myche defectuous in that the Parliament taking for cheffe grounde the wisdome and goodnes of the Parentes of both partyes in makege the Matrimonye doth nott folowe that wisdome in the conclusion and stablissing of the same.

Theyre wisdome in making hitt was that they thought nott sufficient to conclude the Matrimonye notwithstanding the consent of the partyes onlesse by the Popes dispensation and authorite of the See Apostolique the impedimentes of conjunction named in the lawes of the Churche were taken away, and hitt so made legitimate.

And hereof the Acte of the Parliament, that wold iustifye the same with derogation of an other Acte made to the condemnation of that matrimonye maketh no mention. Which me seameth as great a defecte, as yf oon shulde take a cause to defende whiche hath diverse causes al concurrent to oon effecte, whereof the oon dependeth upon the other, and oon beyng principall above all the other, and wolde in the defense thereof name the other causes, and leave owte the principall: for so yt ys in the cause of the Matrimonye. The consent of the parties and parentes depended upon the dispensation of the church and the See of Rome withowte the whiche the wisdom of the parentes dyd nott thincke hitt coulde be well iustified as the effecte dyd shewe in demaunding the same. And this ys that whiche nowe ys lefte owte in the justification, that the Parliament hath made, alleaging onlye the wisdom of the two Parents the Kings of Englande and of Spayne.

And yf it be here sayd, as I understonde some do say, that the dispensation was asked of those princes nott because it was so necessary that the mariage coulde nott be iustified withowte that, butt as they say ad majorem cautelam, how this answer can nott stande to that effecte, I have so sufficiently informed 178 yow that yow of your selfe I dowbte nott withowte further declaration by wrytinge can expounde the same. Therefore leaving that to your memorye and capacite to flye multiplication of wrytinge, this only I wyll putt yow in remembrance of, that yf the dispensation of the Pope in that mater was asked of those ii Princes ad majorem cautelam, which was to stoppe all menes mowthes making pretense of iustice that might have bin brought fourthe or objected againste that matrimonye unlesse thys dispensation had bin obteyned: At the least for this cause in this Acte shulde also have bin made mention of the dispensation, folowing the wisdom of those princes ad maiorem cautelam, beyng now more feare of pretended justice against that matrimonye as the effecte hath and doth shewe, then ever coulde be imagined by the wytte of those Princes, when they obteyned fyrste the dispensation.

As towchinge thother acte of the confirmation of the sacramentes, ye shall shewe also wherein hit seamith to me defectyve, whiche ys that whereas the grounde of the makinge therof as the acte doyth expresse, ys taken for to redresse the temerytye of them whiche being affected to the nueltye of opinions, dyd other take them awaye, or abuse the administration of them against the auncient and laudable custome of the Catholique church.

This beinge a verey necessarye and piouse cause to make that acte, in the prosecuting and concluding of the same I fynde this greate defecte, that never being approbate by the church that those p[er]sones which remayne in scisma, shuld have the right use of the sacramentes, butt rather to suche ye interdicte the use of them. This Acte maketh the gate open to them that be nott yett enteryd into the Unite of the church to the use of the Sacramentes, declaring hytt selfe howe they shulde be ministered with relation to that tyme and yeare of that King, and namyng him that ys knowen to be cheffe author of the scisme. Whatt defect this is it seemeth manifest of yt selfe.

This shewed wherein both these actes were defectuouse and therebye nott bringing me full comfote, ye shall then expounde wherin at the readinge of them I toke ^rsome comfote, which was that the conclusion of both was passed graunted and inacted by the Parliament: so that towching the effecte there coulde be no difficultye hereafter ^sin the Parliament, the ^tsame beinge now bounde to the approvinge and observancie of theyr owne acte. And wherein they were defectuese, this owght to be supplied by the princes authoritie, that ys. to saye by her graces authoryte as right Quene. To whom it apperteyneth, as cheffe head of the parliament and of the hole realme withall, in all actes that the parliament dothe determe, both to interpretate that that ys obscure and to supplye and make perfecte that which ys defectuouse as well in the tyme of the parliament, as when yt ys dissolved. So that now these both actes being passed by the parliament, they are brought to her graces hand to interpretate and supplye, as yt shall be judged by her graces wisdom howe they may beste take effect and to do the same other owte of the tyme of parliament, or in an other parliament, byndinge them by theyre owne decree ratefyeing the mariage, and the use of the sacramentes accordinge to the forme of the catholike churche, to admitt the authoritie of the See of Rome whiche nott admitted nother thone Acte nor thother can take effect and admittinge and stablishing of the same both those actes, by this oon, (wherin ys comprised the reduction of the realme, to the unite of the churche) shalbe stablished and made perfecte.

179 For conclusion of al this ye shall informe her grace, that as I consider dayly the wonderfull goodnes of God to her Hieghnes with all paternall cure of her sowle parson and state, and his all so manifest protection everye waye and by so meny wayes calling her grace to stablish this unite of the churche in the realme, whereof the breakinge hath bin cause of so great miserye in the realme both spirituall and temporall with travayle temporall of her Majestye and utter jeopardye of losying her State.

So also I do consider whatt ways the enymye of man kynde Satan qui expetivit cribrare ecclesiam tanquam triticum hath used and continuallye useth to lett that her grace can nott putt in execution that wherunto God continuallye doth call her. I dare be bold to say in this particular cause, that that the Apostle sayth generally speakinge of Sathanas malice, non ignoramus cogitationes ejus.

And so herein I do se how by all meanes he dothe tempte to make her grace fall from that simplicitie quæ est in Christo Jhesu, the whiche God hath ever hytherto mainteyned in her. And this I have noted of the especiall goodnes of God toward her, how all the rest fallinge from the unite of the church at the tyme of her fathers reygne when she was in most trowble and travayle, yett her hieghnes never committed eny thing that was prejudice to the same, beinge protected of god in that simplicitie, and bringeng that mynde with her to the crowne, Sathan knowinge that by open temptinge her to do against that, by the way of commission he shuld nott prevayle, he dothe attempte to make her to fall by this other way of omission, wherbye his malice trusteth, that commission shall folowe. Against the whiche albeit my verey truste ys, the prayere of the church at this tyme for her grace shall defend her, yet untill I se by her graces goodnes so necessarye and godlye acte of the reduction of the realme to the perfecte obedience of the church concluded I can nott be without some feare, and therefore be more sollicitouse in advertiseing her Matye of the greate peryll, whereof fewe or none do or wyll speake unto her: And nott onlye to advertise her grace, butt withall to shewe the reamedye, wherof yow being sufficientlye informed, this shall be the ende of my commission by wrytinge, prayeng Almightye God to inspire her hieghnes to accepte your sayings on my behalfe, as he hath inspired me with all sincere affection by suche meanes to utter the same.

^uFor the conclusyon of all thatt ys comprysed in your instruction, as that the whiche conteyneth the hole somme of my poore advise and counsell it pleasyth her grace to aske of me, yow shall saye, that my moste humble desyer is that in all deliberation her grace shall make toucheing the mayntenaunce of her state, the same wyll euer well pondre and consydre what the providence of God hath showed therein, above that which hath bene showed in her predecessours kyngs of the realme in this one poynt, whiche is to have the crowne not onle as a kyngs dowghter and heyr, but hath ordered that this poynte off ryght inherytaunce shall depend, as it doyth, of the authoritie he hath geven to his church, and off the See of Rome, whiche is the See Apostolyk approveng her mother to be legitimate wyffe off Kyng Henrye the Eyght, wherebye she is bounde both afore god and man as she wyll showe her selffe the very doughter off the sayde Hyng Henrye the Eyght ryght heyr off the crowne, so also to showe her selffe ryght doughtier off the church and of them that be resyde . . . [in] the^x See Apostolyke, who be the ryght heirs to Peter, to whome and hys successours Christe chiefe hedd of the Church in heven and in earthe hath gyven in earth to bere hys place, toucheng the rule off the same church, and to have the crowne thereof. Which well consydered and pondered her grace shall sone see how in her person the prouydence of God hath ioyned the ryght she hath by her father in the realme, wyth the ryght of the church, thatt she can nott prevayle by the one, excepte she ioyne the other wythall, and they thatt wyll seperate thise twoo, take away not onlye halfe her ryght, but her hole ryght, beyng not so moch heyr because she ys kyng Henryes onlye doughtier wythout yssue male, as she ys his lawefull doughtier, which she hath by the authorytie off the church.

Which thing prudentlye and godlye considred she can nott but see what faithfull counsell this is, that above all acts that in this parlament shall be made, doth aduertise her grace, to establesh that the wych parteyneth to the establesheng off the authoritie off the church and the See of the same, wyth rendring to hym that is ryght successour to Peter therein his ryght tytle off hedde in the church in yearthe, wythout the which she can nott be ryght hedde in the realme, And this estableshed, all controuersye is taken awaye, and who wyll repyne vnto this, he doth repine to her ryght off the crowne.

Wherefore this is my furst aduyse, that this poynte above all other shuld be entreated and enacted in the parlament, And so I knowe her graces full mynd was and is that it shuld be, but she fearith difficultyes, and hearapon dependeth that her grace asketh my poore aduyse how this difficultyes may be taken away.

Vnto this yow may saye, that they muste be taken away by the healpe off him that by his highe provydence above mannes expectation hath gyven her all redye the crowne, which wyll have as well this second act knowen of the mayntenaunce thereof to depend off him, as the furst in atteyneng therto. And to have his healpe the meane is, by humble prayer, wherein I wold advertise her highnes not onlye to gyve her selff to prayer, but also by almes to the nede excitare the myndes off other to prayer, these be the meanes off moste effycacye, and wyth this to take that ardent mynde to stableshe the authoritie off the Church casteng away all feare off man, that she toke to have her crowne, and not so moche for her owne sake as for the honour off god, which gave her the crowne, And yf ony dyfficultye shuld be feared in the parlament herein, leve the honor to take away the difficultie thereof to none other, but assume that parson to her selffe, as most bound therevnto, and to propone yt her selffe, which I wold trust to be off that effycacye that yff inwardlye ony man wyll repugne, outwardlye the reasons be so evydent for this part that ioyned wyth the authoritie off her parson beyng proponent, none wyll be so hardye, temerarious, nor impious, that wyll resyste.

And if in this deliberation it shuld seme straunge to put furth these matters in the parlement, as I have sayd in the instructions wythout comunicateng the same wyth ony off her counsell, I wold thinke ytt well her grace myght conferre it wyth twayne off the chefest that be counted off the people moste nere her fauour, one spirituall and an nother temporall, wyth declareng to them, furst how touching her consyence afore god, and her ryght afore the world she can neuer be qwyett vn tyll this matter be stablished touching the authoritye of the churche, reqwyreng their vttermost healpe in that as if she shuld fyght for the crowne, her majestye may be suer the putteng the same furth wyth that erneste maner, they wyll not lacke to serve her, and thei may serve greatlye in the parlament after her grace hath spoken, to prosecute ^yand iustifye the same wyth efficacye off wordes to gyve all other example to follow, her grace leaveng this part vnto them, that if the name off obedyence to the Pope shuld seme to bryng as it were a yoke to the realme or ony other kynde to seruytute, besyde that ^zit shuld be profytable to the realme both afore god and man, that her grace that bryngeth it in again wyll neuer suffir it, nor the Pope himselfe reqwyreth no such thing, and herein also yf they saye that my person beyng the meane to bryng it in wold neuer agree to be an instrument thereof, if I thought ony thraldome shuld com therbye, thei shall neuer be deceyued off me. And yff thei wold say besyde I wold neuer haue taken this enterpryce apon me except I thought by the same to bryng greate comfert to the countreye, wherein the popes authoritye beyng accepted I wold trust shuld be so used that it myght be an example off comfort not onlye to that countreye butt to all other that hath reiected it afore and for that cawse hath bene euer syneth in great myserye. This is the somme off all my poore aduyse at this tyme, in this case, whereoff I besech almyghtie God so moche may take effect as shall be to his honour, and welth to her grace, and the hole realme besyde.

Some of yowe knowe by what meanes I was brought and trayned vnto the will of our late Soueraigne Lord Kynge & Edwarde, and what I spake against the same, wherin I refer me to the reportes of your ^h honors. Furthermore this ys to signifye ⁱ vnto your Lordshippes that vppon munday tuysday and wensday last past were open disputations here in Oxforde agaynst me Mr. Rydley and Mr. Latymer in thre matters concernynge the sacramente. First of the real presence, secondly of transubstantiation, and ^m thyrldy concernynge the sacrifice of the masse. Howe the other two ⁿ were vsed I cannot tell, for we were separated, so that none of us ^o knewe what the other sayd nor howe they were ordered. But as concernynge my self I can ^p reporte, that

I neuer knewe nor heard of a more confusede disputation in all my lyfe. For albeit there was one appoynted to dispute agaynst me, yet every man spake hys mynde and brought forth what hym liked, with out order, and such hast was made, that no answer coulde be suffered ^q to be geven fully to any argument. And in such weighty and large matters there was no remedye but the disputations must needes be ended in one day which can ^r scantly well be ended in thre monethes, and when we had answered ^s them, then they wold not appoynte vs one day to brynge forth our proffes that they might ^t answer vs agayne, beinge required of me therevnto. Where as I my self have more to say than can be wel ^u discussed in 20 dayes. The meanes to resolue the truth had ben to han suffered vs to answer fully to all that they coulde say, and then the agayn to ^x answer to all that we ^y could say. But why they wold not answer vs, what other cause can there be, but that either they feared ^z the matter ^a that they were not hable to answer vs, or ^b elles (as by their hast might well appeare,) they came, not to speake the trouth, but to condemne vs in post haste, before the trouth might be thoroughly tryed and heard; ^c for in all hast we were all thre condemned of ^d heresy uppon friday. This much I thought good to ^g certifie ^h vnto your Lordshippes, that yowe may knowe the indifferent handlynge of matters, leavyng the iudgemente therof vnto your wisdomes, and I besech your Lordshippes to remember me a pore prisoner vnto the quenes

AN ITALIAN TO HIS FRIEND, CONCERNING CAR. POLE.

Nonne solitus fuisti affirmare, Cardinalem illum tuum Polum optime nosse justificationem sola fide in Christum? mirifice curam perem promotam doctrinam nostram, quam mundus odit? Expectare autem tempus atque occasionem, qua se patefaciat? Certe audivi ego te centies omnia hæc affirmantem ^but audierunt quotquot erant tibi aliqua necessitate conjuncti, et gustarunt bonum Dei verbum. Quum aliquis eorum aliquando quereretur, diceretque se non posse ferre Polum ita esse addictum Papis, atque ita palam, et tam malo exemplo consentire quotidie Missis, atque aliis illicitis cultibus, tu solebas prodire et affirmare, illam esse dissimulationem ad tempus, sed patefacturum se brevi, magno cum fructu Ecclesiarum Dei. desines nunc ita de illo sentire ac loqui? Non objicies patrocinium tam injustæ causæ? Non fateberis una nobiscum, Polum tuum aut veritatis et pietatis studium abjecisse, et peccare in Spiritum Sanctum ad mortem? aut nunquam serio in religione egisse? Ea vero colloquia, quæ apud eum aliquando instituebantur de Christo, de Evangelio, de viva fide et de justificatione, huc spectasse, ut nobis tandem pulchre imponeret? O miserum illum, et infelicem! Proh! quam atrociter læsit æternam Dei, Christi et Spiritus Sancti majestatem, atque omnes piorum ecclesias. Nam in regno Angliæ docebatur, et summa cum lætitia audiebatur, Justificatio sola fide in Christum, satisfactio peccatorum per Christum, certitudo salutis nostræ per Christum, vera pœnitentia, vera absolutio, verus ac legitimus usus Sacramentorum, atque aliæ hujusmodi doctrinæ, omnino conformes propheticis, Evangelicis, Apostolicisque oraculis, atque usui veteris Catholicæ ecclesiæ, ita ut essent inde sublatis, extirpatique illi fœdissimi abusus, abominabilesque superstitiones atque idolomania, quæ scatent, regnantque in Papatu.

193 Cum vero ageretur de his fœcibus rursus in illud regnum invenhendis, divinis vero doctrinis abolendis, Polus tuus obtulit hic suam operam, quia speravit se autoritate et gratia plurimum illud valiturum. Ac statim regnum ingressus est, præcedente scilicet idolo crucis, et cum omni illa pōmpa atque abominatione, qua Legati Antichristi uti solent. Populo vero imperavit in palatium convenire, genua flectere ante se, (quin et Rex et Regina una procubuerunt in genua, nec puduit illum Antichristi Vicariam id sustinere), ubi autem populum admonuit hactenus a vera fide deviasse, atque hæreticum fuisse, addidit se absolutionem Papalem velle impartiri, eumque Sanctæ Romanæ Ecclesiæ reconciliare: et confestim erecta manu, cruceque illata, populum ipsum absolvit, id est, arripuit atque avulsit, (quantum in se quidem fuit,) a studio veræ pietatis, ac ipsiusmet veritatis. Arripuit, inquam, atque avulsit a sinu atque custodia ipsius veri pastoris Dominis nostri Jesu Christi, projeitque recte in sentinam pristinorum abusuum atque errorum, et sub meram tyrannidem Antichristi insigni proditione posuit. Quid potest sceleratius, quid horribilius excogitari? Præsertim de homine, qui favere nostræ causæ aliquando visus est. Annon agnosces nunc, quem virum tandiu et tantopere, colueris, et pæne ut divinum aliquod numen adoraveris? Annon desines tandem? Quum tuus ille amicus nuper sub nomine Athanasii edidisset scholia in orationem ipsius Poli, in que Evangelium vocaret ^c Semen Turcicum, Principes vero Germaniæ Turcas, tu ^d miris tergiversationibus Cardinalem defendebas; indignissimum putabas, qui ita vexaretur: quin jurabas, eum longe aliter nunc sentire, quicquid aliquando sensisse visus fuerit. At quo pacto poteris excusare, quod nunc in Anglia gessit? Adde, multorum literis nuntiari, restitutam illic fuisse statuum divo (ut ipsi inquit,) Thomæ Cantuariensi, proditori olim sui regis pessimo. Proh Deum inmortalem! hoc ne etiam tuus Polus potest pati? Sed Dei beneficio factum esse audio, ut nunc caput illi imagini amputatum sit, et corpus in partes ^e discerptum.

Quin adde, agi nunc in misera illa Anglia de lupanaribus etiam restituendis. Sed quidni? Quemadmodum enim umbra corpus, sic prostibula ac reliquæ foeditates ac vitia, in primis vero idola, Papatum consequuntur. Sed audi reliqua, audi quæ filius Dei non poterat legere, quin adhuc magis perhorrescat, ac intimis medullis contremiscat. Thomas Archiepiscopus Cantuariæ, una cum tribus quatuorve aliis Episcopis vere piis ac sanctis, qui justificatione ^f sola fide in Christum, gratuitamque peccatorum remissionem docuerat, exutus archiepiscopatu, et deterrimo carcere conjectus, vitam degens in tenebris, in squal-

^c [This does not appear in the Cardinal's Oration, as given by Foxe. The only allusion to the Turks is in the following passage. "Let Asia and the empire of Greece be a spectacle unto the world, who, by swerving from the unity of the church of Rome, are brought into captivity and subjection of the Turk. All stories be full of like examples. And to come unto the later time, look upon our neighbours in Germany, who, by swerving from this unity, are miserably afflicted with diversity of sects, and divided into sects. What shall I rehearse unto you the tumults and effusion of blood that hath happened there of late days? or trouble you with the rehearsal of those plagues that have happened since this innovation of religion, whereof you have felt the bitterness, and I have heard the report? Of all which matters I can say no more, but such was the misery of the time. And see how far forth this fury went. For those that live under the Turk may freely live after their conscience, and so was it not lawful here."] lore, in egestate, singulis horis gladium carnificis expectans, tum demum igne absumptus est, tyrannide certe inaudita. Joannes Hoperus Wigorniensis Episcopus, et D. Joan. Rogers, et Doctor Rolandus Taylerus, veri martyres Christi, passi sunt ignes constantissime.

Contra Stephanus Gardinerus falso Episcopus Wintoniensis (nam Joannes Ponetus verus illius ecclesiæ pastor, et verus servus Jesu Christi exulat) cum octo aut decem aliis Episcopis 194 impiis et sanguinariis, qui Evangelium atque ipsissimum Christum fuerant accerrime insectati, nunc sub Cardinali tuo Polo, in summo splendore, summisque divitiis et luxibus illic regnant. Ecce itaque Christum in vinculis, omni infamiæ ac tormentorum genere confectum, exutum vestibus, et tanquam ovem ductam ad macellum. Et vicissim ecce Barabbam latronem, aliisque tragicis facinoribus coopertum, liberatum, exultantem, et ferocientem. Atque ecce milites dividentes inter se spolia Christi. Ecce, inquam, ecce, ut videmus, accidere membris eademmet, quæ capiti nostro Christo acciderunt. Necessè enim est ut simus conformes imagini ejus.

In summa, Tuus Cardinalis regnat et triumphat, fruiturque honoribus fere Papalibus, fruitur actione gratiarum, gratulatione ac gloria ex tota Rom. curia atque ex omni regno hypocritarum: denique fruitur spe potiundi Pontificatus. Verum ego illi vicissim nuncio, omnes eos qui spiritum Dei sentiunt, (atque hi sunt nostra ætate plures, quam ille forte putet, et quotidie crescit numerus) cogi pejus de illo sentire, ac loqui, quam aut de ipso Julio tertio, aut de quovis alio dissolutiore ac sceleratiore Cardinale. Quandoquidem tum Antichristus ille, tum reliqui ex Cardinalium grege, aut potius armento, palam atque aperte nobiscum pugnarunt: et nunc imprimis pugnant; quia victoria Poli eos reddit insolentiores: Polus vero insidiis, ac sub prætextu pietatis. Quamobrem cum hac ætate, ac in reliqua posteritate, rasi et uncti, atque id genus hypocritarum encomiis ac laudibus illum onerabunt, celebrabuntque, omnes piorum Ecclesiæ non poterunt non queri, se tam indigne fuisse delusas ab eo. Quamquam esset id Polo utcunque ferendum, si nullam aliam pœnam experturus esset, præter dedecoris atque infamiæ sempiternæ. Alia enim manet multo gravior. O iterum illum miserum, infelicemque: Nam non multo post justissimi Dei nostri ira et vindicta aget, aget illum præcipitem in profundum abyssi, ubi cum diabolo atque angelis ejus, sempiterno igne cruciabitur.

Illud vero hic addere opus est. Nam sedes illa Romana stulte sibi persuasit fore, ut nunc tota Germania redeat ad ejus obedientiam; scilicet, quia videt Angliam utcunque rediisse; partim circumventam multis fallaciis dolisque, partim aperte vi coactam. Quare cum audierit Comitum Augustæ celebrari, ex toto Cardinalium grege selegit Moronum, quem mitteret eo legatum, hominem, qui in agnoscenda et persequenda unitate persimilis est Card. Polo. Ab eo itaque expectandæ sunt similes fallaciæ, similis hypocrisis, atque impietas, ut non lac lacti magis simile sit: qui unum videt, alterum videt g. Hæc ille. His, hoc unum addendum putavi, quod hoc anno, a Xti incarnatione 1557, circa undecimum diem Februarii, Martini Bucerii ac Pauli Fagii, doctissimum divinæ veritatis interpretem, cadavera, Cantabrigiæ sepulta, exhumari et comburi Polus, in mortuos ipsos etiam tyrannizans, jusserit. Similiter et corpus piissimæ matronæ, et uxoris D. Petri Martyris, Oxonii tumultum, effodi, atque in sterquilinio sepeliri: ut insigne crudelitatis suæ exemplum posteris relinqueret.

The effectes of salvation they so mingle and confounde with the cause, that if it be not sene to, more hurt wil come by them, then ever came by the papistes : in as much as their life commendeth them to the worlde more then the papistes. God is my witnes that I write not thys but because I wold Gods glory and the good of hys people. In freewyl they are playn papists, yea Pelagians: and ye know that modicum fermenti totam massam corrumpit. They utterly contemne all learning. But hereof shall this brynger shewe you more. THE PRISONERS FOR THE GOSPEL, THEIR DECLARATION
CONCERNING K. EDWARD HIS REFORMATION.

To the King and Queens most excellent Majesties, with their most honorable high court of Parliament.

Foxii MSS.

We poor Prisoners for Christs religion, require your honours, in our dear Saviour Christs name, earnestly now to repent, for that you have consented of late to the unplacing of so many godly lawes, set furth touching the true religion of Christ before, by two most Noble Kings, being Father and brother to the Queens Highnes, and agreed upon by al your consents; not without your great and many deliberations, free and open disputations, costs and paines taking in that behalf, neither without great Consultations, and conclusions, had by the greatest learned men in the realm, at Windsor, Cambridg and Oxford, neither without the most willing consent, and allowing of the same by the whole Realm throughly: So that there was not one Parish in al England, that ever desired again to have the Romish Superstitions and vaine Service, which is now by the Popish, proud, covetous clergy placed again, in contempt not only of God, al Heaven, and al the holy ghostes lessons in the blessed Bible: but also against the honors of the said two most noble Kings, against your own Country, fore agreements, and against al the godly consciences within this realm of England and elsewhere. By reason wherof Gods great plagues must needs follow, and great unquietnes of consciences; besides al other persecutions and vexations of bodies and goods, must 197 needs ensue. Moreover we certify your honours, that since your said unplaceing of Christs true religion, and true service, and placing in the room therof Antichrists Romish Superstition, heresy and idolatry, al the true preachers have been removed, and punished, and that with such open robbery, and cruelty, as in Turkey was never used, either to their own Countrimen, or to their mortal enemies.

This therefore our humble suit is now to your honourable estates, to desire the same, for al the mercies sake of our dear and only Savior Jesus Christ, and for the duty you owe to your native Country, and to your own souls, earnestly to consider from what light to what darknes this realm is now brought, and that in the weightiest, chief and principal matter of Salvation, of al our souls and bodies everlasting, and for ever more. And even so we desire you at this your assembly, to seek some effectual reformation for the afore written most horrible deformation in this church of England. And touching your selves we desire you in like maner, that we may be called before your Honors ; and if we be not able both to prove and approve by the Catholic and Canonical rules of Christs true religion, the church Homilies and Service set furth in the most innocent K. Edwards days ; and also to disallow and reprove, by the same authorities, the Service now set furth, since his departing ; then we offer our bodies, either to be immediately burned, or else to suffer whatsoever other painful and shameful death, that it shal please the King and Queens Majesties to appoint. And we think this trial and probation may be now best, either in the plain English tongue by Writing, or otherwise by disputation in the same tongue. Our Lord for his great mercy sake grant unto you al the continual assistance of his good and holy Spirit. Amen.

Sir, know you this, that I am (blessed be God) persuaded that this world is but transitory, as S. John rsaith, Mundus transit et concupiscentia ejus. I am persuaded Christs word to be strue, Qui me confessus fuerit coram hominibus, I wil confes him before my father, which is in heaven. And I believe that no earthly creature shal be saved, whom the Redeemer and Savior of the world shal before his Father deny. This the Lord grant that it may be so tgrafted, established, and fixed in my heart, that neither things present, uor to come, high xor low, life yor death, be able to zremove.

things ^bperteynyng to Gods honor and glory. But if ^cye had wished also, that neither fear of death, or hope of worldly prosperity shuld let me to maintein gods word, and his truth, which is his glory and true honour, it wold have liked ^dme very wel.

[Luk. 12.] You desire me for Gods sake to remembre my self. Indeed, Sir, now it is ^etime for me so to do. For so far as I can perceyve, it standeth ^fme of no les daunger, then of the los both of body and soule: and I trow, then it is time for a man to awake, if any thing wil awake him. He that wil not fear him, that threatneth to cast body and soule into everlasting fire, whom wil he ^gfear? Oh Lord, fasten thou together our frayl flesh, that we never swarve from thy Lawes.

You say, you have made much sute for me. Sir, God graunt, that you have not, in sueing for my worldly deliverance, empairod or ^hhindred the furtheraunce of Gods word and his truth.

You have knowen me long indede, in the which time it hath chaunced ⁱme to mislyke some things. It is true, I graunte. For sodeine chaunges without substantial and necessary ^kcauses, and the heady setting furth of extremities, I ^ldid never love. Confession ^lto the minister, which is able to instruct, correct, comfort, and enform the ^mweake and ignorant ⁿconsciencs, I have ever thought might do much good in Christs Congregation. And so I assure you I do think, even at this day.

My doctrin and my preaching, you say, you have heard ^ooft, and after your judgment, have thought it godly, saving of the Sacrament. Which thing, although it was of me reverently handled, and a great deal better than of the rest, as you say, yet in the margent you write (warily, and in this world ^pwysely) thus: and yet methought, not ^qal soundly. Wel, Sir, ^ufantasied for plainness and faithfulness, as much, I ^xensure you, as for your learning. And have you kept this so close in your heart from me unto this day? Sir, I considre mo things than one; and wil not say al that I think. But what need you to care what I thynke, for any thing that I shal be able to do unto you either good or harm?

You geve me good lessons, to stand in nothing against my learning, and to beware of vain glory. Truly, Sir, ^yherein I like your counsel very wel; and by Gods grace I intend to follow it unto my lyves end.

To write to ^zthem whom you name, I cannot se what it wil avayle me. For this I ^awold now have you know it, I esteme nothing avaylable for me, which also wil ^bnot set furth the glory of God.

And now because I perceive you have an entyre zeal and desire of my deliverance out of this captivitie, and worldly misery; if I shuld not bear you a good heart in God again, methynk I were to blame. Sir, how nigh the day of my dissolution and ^cdeparture hence out of this world is at hand, I cannot tel. The Lords wil be fulfilled. How soon soever it shal come, I know the Lords words must be verified on me, that I shal appear before the ^duncorrupt Judge, and be countable to him of al my former lyfe. ^eAlthough the hope of his mercy is my shote ankor of eternal Salvation; yet am I persuaded, that whosoever willingly neglecteth and regardeth not to clear his conscience, he cannot have peace with God, nor a lyvely faith in his mercy. ^fConscience moveth me, considering you were one of my family ^gand of my household, (of whom then I

But blessed be God, which hath geven me grace to se my default, and to lament it from the bottome of my heart, before my departure hence. This Conscience ^palso doth move me now to require both you, and my freynd Dr. Harvy, to remembre your promises made to me in ^qtime past, of the pure setting furth and preaching of Gods word and his truth. These promises, although you shal not nede to fear to be charged with them of me hereafter before the world; Yet look for none other, I exhort you as my freyns, but to be charged with them at Gods hand.

This Conscience, and the love that I bear unto you, byddeth me now say ^rto you both in Gods name; Fear God, and love not the world; for God is able to cast both body and soul into hel fire^s. Cum exarserit in brevi ira ejus, beati omnes, saith the Psalme, qui confidunt in eo. And the saying of S. John is ^ttrue, *Quicquid est in mundo, veluti concupiscentia carnis, et concupiscentia oculorum, et fastus vitæ, non ex patre, sed ex mundo est. If this gift of grace, which undoubtedly is necessarily] salvation, were truly and unfeignedly ^ugrafted, and firmly established in mens hearts, they wold not be so light, so sodaynly ²⁰² to shrink from the maintenance and confession of the truth, ^xas it is now, alas! seen so manifestly, of so many in these dayes.

But here peradventure ye wold know of me, what is the truth. Sir, Gods word is the truth, as S. John saith, and it is [Joh. 17.] even the same that was heretofore. For albeit man doth vary [Ecc. 27.] and chaunge, as the M^oon, yet Gods word is stable and ^yabydeth for evermore. And of Christ it is truly ^zsaid, Christus heri et Heb. 13. hodie, idem etiam in secula.

When I was in office, al, that were ^aesteemed for learned men in Gods word, agreed this to be a truth in Gods word written: that the Common ^bprayers of the Church shuld be had in the common tongue. You know I have conferred with many, and I ensure you, I never found man, so far as I do remembre, neyther old nor new, Gospeller ^cor Papist, of what judgment soever he was, in this thing to be of a contrary opinion. If then it were a truth of Gods word, think you, that the Alteration of the world can make ^dit now an untruth? If it cannot, ^ewhy do men, so many, shrink from the confession and maintenance of this truth, ^fonce received of us al? For what is it, I pray you, else to confes or deny Christ in this world, ^gbut to confes and maintain the truth taught in Gods word, ^hnor for any worldly respect to shrynke from the same? This ⁱone have I ^kbrought but for an example. Other things be in like case, which now particularly I nede not to rehearse. For he that wil forsake wittingly, eyther for fear or gain of the world, any one open truth of Gods word, if he be ^lstrayned, he wil assuredly forsake God and al his truth, rather then he wil endaunger hymself eyther to loose, or to leave that he loveth ^mindeede better, then he doth God and the truth of his word.

But what folly were it then to make such an agreement, by the which I could never escape this death, which is so common to al; and ^palso I might incur the guilt ^qof eternal death and damnation?

and pernicious bothe before God and man ; for they are false to bothe, and true to neyther. To the magistrates they are false, pretending one thyng and meanyng cleane contrary. To god they are most untrue geving him but a peese, whych shoulde have the whole. I woulde they woulde tell me, who made their bodyes. Dyd not God, as well as their spirites and soules? And who kepeth bothe? Dothe not he still? And alas, shall not he have the service of the body, but it must be geven to serve the new found god of Antichristes invention? Dyd not Christe bye both our soules and bodies? And wherwith? wyth any lesse pryce then wyth hys precious blood? All wretches then that we be, if we wyll defyle either parte with the rose coloured whore of Babylons fylthye Masse abhominacion. It had ben better for us never to have bene washed, then so to wallow our selves in the fylthy puddle of popery. It had been better never to have knowen the truth, then thus to betray it. Surely, surely, let such men feare that their later ende be not worse than the begynnyng. Their owne conscience now accuseth them before god (yf so be they have any conscience) that they are but dissemblers and hypocrites to God and man. For all the clokes they make, they cannot avoyde this, but that their going to church and to Masse, is of selfe love: that is, they go thether because they would avoyde the crosse. They go thether because they woulde be out of trouble. They seke neither the Quenes highnes nor her lawes, which in thys poynte cannot bynde the conscience to obey, because they are contrary to gods lawes, which bid us often to flee Idolatrye and worshipping hym after mens devises: they seke neither (I say) the lawes (if there were anye) neyther theyr brethernnes commoditie (for none commeth therby) neyther godlines or good example (for there can be none found in goyng to Masse &c. but horrible offences and woe to them that geve them) but they seeke their owne selves, their own ease, theyr escapyng the crosse &c. when they have made all the excuses they can, theyr own conscience wyll accuse them of this, that their goyng to church is onely because they seeke themselves. For yf there woulde no trouble ensue for taryeng awaye, I appeale to their conscience, woulde they come thether? Never I dare say.

Therefore (as I sayd) they seke themselves, they would not cary the crosse. And hereof their own conscience (if they have any conscience) doth accuse them. Now if their conscience accuse them at this present, what will it doe before the iudgemente seate of Christe? who wyl then excuse it, when Christ shall appeare in iudgement, and shall begynne to be ashamed of them then, which now here are ashamed of him. Who then (I say) wyl excuse these Masse gossellers consciences? wyl the quenes hyghnes? She shal then have more to do for her selfe, then without hartly and spedye repentaunce she can ever be able to aunswer, though Peter, Paule, Marye, James, John the Pope and all hys Prelates take her parte, with all the syngyng Syr Johns that ever were, are, and shall be? Wyl the Lorde Chauncellour and prelates of the realme excuse them there? Nay, nay, they are like then to smarte for it so sore as I would not bee in theyr places for all the whole world. Wil the lawes of the realme, the nobilitie, gentlemen, Justices of peace &c. excuse oure gospell Massemongers conscience there? Nay, God knoweth they can do little there but quake and feare for the heavy vengeaunce of God lyke to fall uppon them. Will their goodes, landes and possessions, the which they by theyr dissemblyng have saved, wyl these serve to excuse them? No, no, god is no merchaunte, as our Masse priestes be. Will Masses or trentals and such trash serve? No verily the haunTERS of thys geare then shall be horribly ashamed. Wyl the Catholike church excuse them? Nay it wyl most of all accuse them, as will all the good fathers, Patriarkes, Apostles, Prophetes, Martyrs confessors and saintes, with all the good Doctors, and good general counsels, al these alredy condemne the Masse and al that ever useth it as it is now, beyng of all idoles that ever was, the most abhominable and blasphemous to Christ and hys priesthode, manhode and sacrifice: for it maketh the prieste that sayth Masse, gods fellow and better then Christ, for the offerer is alwayes better or equivalent to the thyng offred. If therefore the priest take upon him there to offer up Christ, as they boldly affyrme they do, then must he nedes be better, or equal with Christ. Oh that they would shew but one iote of the scripture of god calling them to this dignitie, or of their authority to offer up Christ for the quicke and dead, and to apply the benefyt and vertue of his death and passion to whom they wyl. Surely if this were true, as it is most false and blasphemous, prate they at their pleasure to the contrarye, then it made no matter at all, whether Christe were our frende or no, if so be the Masse priest were our frende: for he can apply us Christes merites by his Masse if he wyll, and when he wil, and therefore we nede litle to care for Christes frendship. They can make hym when they will and where they wyll Loe heare he is, there he is saye they, but beleve them not saith Christ, beleve them not, beleve them not sayth he. For in hys humane nature and body, which was made of the substaunce of the virgins body and not of breade, in thys body (I say) he is and sitteth on the right hand of God the father almighty in heaven, from whence and not from the pixe, shal he come to iudge both the quicke and dead. In the meane season heaven saith S. Peter must receive him. And as Paule saith, he prayeth for us, and now is not sene elsewhere or otherwise sene then by fayth there, until he shalbe sene as he is, to the salvation of them that loke for hys comming, which I trust be not farre of. For if the day of the Lord drew nere in the Apostles time, which is now above xv.C. yeres past, it cannot be (I trust) long hence now: I trust our redemers comming is at hande. Then thes Masse sayers and seers shall shake and cry to the hylles hyde us from the fearce wrathe of the Lambe, if they repente not in tyme. Then wyll neither gold nor goodes, frendshippe: nor fellowship, lordship nor authoritye, power nor pleasure, unity nor antiquity, custome nor counsel, Doctours, decrees nor any mans devise serve. Thys worde of God knoweth no moe oblations or sacrifices for synne, but one onely which Christe hymselfe offered never more to bee reoffered, but in remembraunce thereof hys supper to be eaten sacramentallye and spiritually accordyng to Christes institution: whyche is so perverted now that there is nothyng in it symply according to the iudge, I meane the worde of God. what thyng consent they to Christs doctrine? He biddeth us praye in a tounge to edify: they commaund contrary. He biddeth us cal upon hys father in hys name when we pray: they bidde us runne to Mary, Peter, &c. He byddeth us use his supper in the remembraunce of hys death and passion, preachyng it out tyll it come, whereby he dothe us to witte, that corporally he is not there in the forme of bread: therefore sayeth Paule tyll he come. He willeth us to eate of that bread, callyng it breade after consecration, and drynke of that cup all, making no exception so that we do it worthely; that is take it as the sacrament of his body and blood broken and shed for our sinnes, and not as the body it self and blood it selfe wythout bread, wythout wyne, but as the sacramente of hys bodye and blood, whereby he dothe represent and unto our faythe geve and obsigne unto us, hymself wholly with all the merites and glory of hys body and bloode. But they forbid utterly the use of the supper to all but to their shavelinges, except it be once in the yeare, and then also the cup they take from us: they never preach forth the lordes death but in mockes and moes. They take away all the Sacrament by their transubstantiation, for they take away the element and so the sacrament. To be short they most horribly abuse thys holy ordinaunce of the Lord, by adoration, reservation, oblation, ostentation, &c. In nothyng they are contented with the symplicity of gods word. They adde to and take fro at their pleasure, and therefore the plagues of God wyll fall upon them at the lengthe, and upon all that wyll take theyr parte. They seke not Christ nor hys glory for you see they utterly have cast away his word, and therefore (as the prophet saith) there is no wisdom in them. They follow the strompet church and baudie spouse of Antichrist, which they cal the catholike church, whose foundation and pillers is the devil and his daughter the masse, with his children the pope and his prelates. Their lawes are craft and crueltie: their weapons are lying and murther: their end and studye is their own glory, fame, wealth, rest and possessions. For if a man speake nor do nothing against these, though he be a Sodomite, an adulterer, an usurer, &c. it forceth not, he shall bee quiet enough, no man shall trouble him. But if any one speake any thing to Gods glory, which cannot stand without the overthrow of mans glory: then shall he be disquieted, imprisoned and troubled, except he will play mumme and put his finger Iob. 31. upon hys mouth, although the same be a most quiet and godly man. So that easely a man may see how that they be Antichrists church, and sworne souldiers to the pope and his spouse, and not to Christ and his church, for then would they not cast away gods word, then would they be no more adversaryes to his glory, which chiefly consisteth in obedience to hys word. Therefore my deare hartes in the Lord, seme not to allow this or any part of the pelfe of thys Romishe church and Sinagoge of Sathan. Halt not on both knees, for halting will bring you out of the way: but like valiaunte champions of the Lorde confesse, confesse I say, with your mouth as occasion serveth, and as your vocation requireth, the hope and fayth you have and fele in your harte.

To this I answeare my good brethren, that you have professed in baptisme to fighte under the standard of your captaine Christ, and will you now for perils sake leave your lorde? You made a solempne vow that you would forsake the world, and wil you be forsworne and runne to embrace it now? We sorrow and syghe desiryng the dissolution of our bodyes, and the puttyng of of corruption that we myght put on incorruption. The waye we walke in is straite and narrowe and therefore not easie to our enemye the corrupte fleslie: but yet we must walke on, for yf we harken to oure enemye, we shall bee served not frendly. Let them walke the wyde way that are ruled by their enemyes: let us bee ruled by our frendes and walke the straite waye whose end is weall, as the other is woe. The tyme of our suffering is but short, as the time of their ease is not long: but the tyme of our reioysing shall be endles, as the tyme of their tormentes shal be ever and intollerable. Our breakfaste is sharpe, but oure supper is swete. The afflictions of thys life may not be compared in any part to the glory that shall be reveyled unto us. Thys is certayn, if we suffer with Christ, we shall reygne with hym: if we confesse hym, he will confesse us, and that before hys father in heaven and al hys Aungells and Sainctes saying, Come ye blessed of my Father possesse the kingdome prepared for you from the beginnyng. There shall be ioye, myrthe, pleasure, solace, melodye, and all kynde of beatitude and felicitie, such as the eye hath not sene, the eare hath not heard, nor the harte of man is able in any poynte to conceive it as it is. In respecte of thys and of the ioye set before us, should we not runne our race thoughe it be somthyng roughe? Did not Moses so, the Prophets so, Christ so, the Apostles so, the Martyrs so, and the confessors so? They were dronken with the swetenes of this geare, and therefore they contempned al that man and devils could do to them. Their soules thirsted after the lord and his tabernacles, and therefore their lives and goods were not to dere to them. Read the 11. to the Hebrues, and the .2. of the Machabees, the .7. Chapt. and let us go the same way, that is by many tribulations. Let us labour to enter into the kingdome of heaven: for al that wil live godly in Christ Jesu must suffer persecution.

[See pp. 209, 214 of this volume. This document was first published in the Oxford Edition (1812) of the present work. The editor there quotes the following account of it from archdeacon Todd. "It contains a copy of the official dispatch of Dr. Brokes, bishop of Gloucester, to the cardinal de Puteo, at Rouen, to whom the bishop was subdelegate in the proceedings against abp. Cranmer, (the care of which had been consigned to the cardinal by the pope) and is authenticated in the usual manner by notarial attestation. The document fortunately supplies also what has hitherto been a chasm in our ecclesiastical history. For Mr. Strype, after noticing that witnesses were sworn to deliver their testimony against the archbishop, adds, 'I know not what the depositions of these witnesses were, given in against him the next day; for Foxe relates nothing of them, nor any other, as I know of. Memorials of Archbishop Cranmer, book iii. chap. xix.' These depositions are found in this Processus." The MS. has been collated for the present edition, and literally copied.]

Dr. Jenkyns remarks that this and the following letter were addressed, as may be proved from their contents, to Queen Mary in Sept. 1555, soon after his examination before Brookes; and that Strype is in error, mentioning them as if they were written subsequently to his degradation. The variations in Foxe are given as foot notes.]

ARCHBISHOP CRANMER TO QUEEN MARY AFTER HIS EXAMINATION BEFORE BROKES.

[Letters of the Martyrs p. 3-15. ed. 1564. Foxe, Acts and Monuments. Jenkyns's Cranmer, vol. i. p. 369. Works of abp. Cranmer, vol. i. p. 44.]

The king and queen make themselves no better than subjects, in complaining of their own subiecte to an outward iudge, as though they had no power to punishe hym.

It may please your Majesty to pardon my presumption, that I dare be so bold to wryte to your highness, but very necessity constraineth me, that your maiesty may know my mind rather by mine owne writing, than by other mens reports. So it is that upon Saturday being the ^a.7. day of this moneth, I was cited to appeare at Rome, the .lxxx. day after, there to make answer to such matters as shoulde be obiected against me, uppon the behalfe of the Kyng and youre moste excellent Maiestye: whiche matters the Thursday followyng were obiected against me by Doctor Martin and doctour Story your majesties Proc-tours, before the byshop of Gloucester sittyng in judgement by commission from Rome. But alas, it cannot but greve the hart of ^bany natural subiect, to be accused of the kyng and Queene of hys owne Realme, and specially before an outward iudge, or by auctoryty commyng from any person out of thys Realme, where the king and Quene, as if they were subiects within their owne Realme shal complayne and require iustice at a straungers handes agaynste theyr owne subiecte, beyng already condemned to death by theyr owne lawes: as though the kyng and Queene could not do or have iustice within theyr owne ^crealme agaynste theyr owne subiectes, but they must seke it at ^da straungers hands in a straunge land, the like wherof (I thinke) was never sene. I would have wished to have had som meaner adversaries, and I thynke that death shal not greve me much more, than to have my most dread and most gracious soveraigne Lord and lady (to whom under god I do ^eowe all obedience) to be myne accusers in iudgement wythin theyr owne realme before anye straunger and outwarde power. But forasmuch as in the tyme of the prynce of most famous memory King Henry the .8. your graces father, I was sworn never to consent, that the byshop of Rome shoulde have or exercise any autoritie or iurisdiction in this realme of England, therefore least I should allowe his authority contrary to myne othe, I refused to make aunswer to the byshop of Gloucester sytting here in iudgement by the Popes authority, leaste I should runne into periury.

The first cause why he woulde not make answer to the Pope's commissarye, is to avoyd perjurye.

An other cause why I refused the Popes authority is this, that hys aucthority as he claymeth it, repugneth to the crowne imperial of this realme, and to the lawes of the same, whych every true subiect is bound to defend. Fyrst for that the Pope sayeth, that all manner of power, aswel temporal as spyrytual, is geven fyrst to him of God, and that the temporal power he geveth unto emperours and kinges to use it under hym, but so as it be always at his commaundement and becke. But, contrary to this clayme, the emperial crowne and iurisdiction temporal of thys realme, is taken immediatly from God to be used under hym only, and is subiecte unto none but to God alone.

The second cause is for that the popes laws are contrari to the crown and lawes of Englande.

Moreover ^fthemperial lawes and customes of this realme the king in his Coronation, and al Justices when they receive theyr offices, be sworne, and all the whole realme is bound to defend and maintayn. But contrary hereunto the Pope by his authority maketh voyde and commaundeth to blot out of our bokes, all lawes and customes being repugnant to hys lawes, and declareth accursed all rulers and governours, all the makers,

The oth of the king and Iustices, and the duty of subiectes.

wryters, and executors ^gof such lawes or customes, as it appeareth by many of the Popes lawes; wherof one or two I shall rehearse. In the decrees, Distin x., is written thus: Constitutiones contra canones et decreta præsulum Romanorum vel bonos mores nullius sunt momenti. That is, The constitutions or statutes enacted against the Canons and decrees of the Bishops of Rome or their good customes are of none effect. Also, Extra. de sententia excommunicationis, noverit. Excommunicamus omnes hæreticos utriusque sexus quocunque nomine censeantur, et fautores, et ^hreceptatores, et defensores eorum: nec non et qui de cætero servari fecerint statuta edita et consuetudines, contra ecclesiæ libertatem, nisi ea de capitularibus suis intra duos menses post hujusmodi publicationem sententiæ fecerint amoveri. Item excommunicamus statutarios, et scriptores statutorum ipsorum, nec non potestates, consules, rectores, et consiliarios locorum, ubi de cætero hujusmodi statuta et consuetudines editæ fuerint vel servatæ, nec non et illos qui secundum ea præsumpserint iudicare, vel in publicam formam scribere iudicata. That is to say we excommunicate all heretikes of both sexes, what name soever they be called by, and their ⁱfavourers and receptours and defendours, and also them that shall hereafter cause to be observed, statutes and customes made against the liberty of the church, except thei cause the same to be put out of their bokes or records within two monethes after the ^kpublication of thys sentence. Also we excommunicate the statute makers and writers of those statutes, and also the potestates consuls, governours and counsaillours of places where suche statutes and customes shall bee made or kepte; and also those that shall presume to geve iudgement according to ^lthem or put in to publyke form of writing the matters so iudged. Now by these lawes, if the bishop of Romes authority which he claimeth by God, be lawfull, all your graces lawes and customes of your Realme, being contrarye to the popes lawes be naught, and aswel your maiesty as your iudges, iustices and all other executours of the same, stand accursed among heretickes, which God forbid. this curse can never be avoyded (if the Pope have such power as he claimeth) untill such times as the lawes and customes of this realm, being contrary to his lawes, be taken away and blotted out of the law bokes. And although ther be many lawes of this Realm contrary to the lawes of Rome, yet I^m name but a few: as to convict a clarke before any temporall iudge of this Realme, for debte, felony, murther or for any other crime, which clarks by the Popes lawes, be so exempte from the kings lawes, that they can be no where sued but before theyr Ordinaryⁿ. Also the pope by his lawes may geve al bishoprickes and benefices spiritual, which by the lawes of this realme, can be geven but only by the ^okings and other patrones of the same, except they fal into the lapse^p. By the popes lawes ius patronatus shalbe sued onlye before the ecclesiastical iudge: but by the lawes of ^qthis realme, it shalbe sued before the temporal Judge, and to be shorte the lawes of this Realme do agre with the Popes lawes like fire and water. And yet the kings of this Realme have provided for theyr laws, by the premunire: so that if anye man have let the execution of the lawes of this Realme by any authority from the ^rsea of Rome, he falleth into the premunire. But to mete with this, the popes have provided for theyr lawes by cursinge. For who soever letteth the Popes lawes to have full course within this realme, by the Popes power standeth accursed: So that the Popes power treadeth all the lawes and customes of this Realme under his fete, cursing all that execute them, until such time as ^sthey geve place unto his lawes. But it may be said, that notwithstanding all the popes decrees, yet we do execute still the lawes and customes of this Realme. Nay not all quietlye without interruption of the pope. And where wee do execute them, yet we do it uniustly, if the popes power be of force, and for the same we stande excommunicate, and shal do, untill we leave the execution of our owne lawes and customes. Thus we be well reconciled to Rome, allowing such authoritye, whereby the Realme standeth accursed before God, if the pope have any such authority.

These things (as I suppose) were not fully opened in the parliament house, when the popes authority was received agayn within this Realme, for if they had, I doe not beleve that either the king or Quenes majestye or the nobles of this Realme, or the commons of the same woulde ever have consented to receive againe such a forraine authoritye, so iniurious, hurtefull and prejudiciall, aswell to the crowne, as to the lawes and customes, and state of this realme, as wherby they muste nedes acknowledge themselves to be accursed. But none could open this matter wel but the clergy, and ^tthat such of them as had red the popes lawes, whereby the pope hath made himself as it were, a God. These seek to maintain the pope, whome they desired to have their chief head, to the intent they might have, as it were, a kingdom and lawes wythin themselves, distinct from the lawes of the crowne, and wherwyth the crowne may not meddle, and so beinge exempted from the lawes of the ^ucrowne, might live in thys realm lyke Lordes and kinges, wythout dammage or fear of any man, so that they please their hyghe and supream heade at Rome. For thys consyderation, I weene, some that knewe the truthe, helde theyr peace ^xat the Parliamente, whereas, if they had done their duetyes to the crown and whole realme, they should have opened theyr mouthes, declared the truth, and shewed the perils and dangers that myght ensue to the crowne and realme. And if I should agre to allow suche authoritye within thys realme, wherby I must nedes confesse that your most gracious hygheness and also youre Realme shoulde ever continue accursed untill ^yyou shall cease from the execution of youre owne Lawes and customes of youre realme: I coulde not thyncke my selfe true, eyther to your highnes, or to thys my naturall cuntrye, knowyng that I do know. Ignorance, I know may excuse other men, but he that knoweth howe preiudiciall and iniurious the power and authoritye which he chalengeth every where is to the crown, lawes and customes of thys realm, and yet wil allow the same, I cannot se in any wyse how he can kepe hys due allegeiaunce, fydelity and truth to the crowne and state of this realme.

An other cause I alleged, why I could not allow the authority of the pope, whych is this, That by hys authoritye he subverteth not only the lawes of this realme, but also the lawes of God, so that whosoever be under his authority, he suffereth them not to be under Christes religion purely, as Christ did commaunde. And for one example I brought forth, that whereas by Gods lawes al christian people be bounden diligently to learne hys word, that they may know how to beleve and live accordingly, for that purpose he ordayned holy daies when they ought, leavyng apart all other busines, to geve themselves wholly to knowe and serve God. Therefore Gods wyll and commaundement is, that when the people be gathered ^ztogether, the ministers shuld use such language as the people maye understand, and take profite therby, or els hold theyr peace. For as an harpe or lute, if it geve no certaine sound that men may know what is striken, who can daunce after it, for all the sounde is in vayne? so is it ^avayne and profiteth nothyng, sayeth almighty god, by the mouth of S. Paule, if the priest speake to the people in a language which they knowe not, for els he may profite hymselfe, but profiteth not the people sayeth S. Paule. But herein I was answered thus, that S. Paul spake only of preachyng, that the preacher should ^bspeake in a tongue which the people did know, or else hys preachyng avayleth nothing. But yf the preachyng avayleth nothing, being spoken in a language, which the people understande not, how should any other service avayle them, beyng spoken in the same language? And ^cthat yet S. Paule ment not only of preachyng, it appeareth plainly by his own words, for he speaketh by name expressely of praying, ^dsingyng, praising, laudyng, and thankyng of God and of al other thynges which the Priestes say in the churches, wherunto the people say Amen, which they ^eused not in preaching, but in other divine service: that whether the priestes rehearse the the wonderful workes of god, or the great benefites of god unto mankind above all other creatures, or geve thanks unto god, or make open profession of theyr faith, or humble confession of theyr synnes, wyth earnest requeste of mercy and forgevenes, or make sute or request unto God for any thyng: then al the people understandyng what the Priestes say, ^fmyght ioine theyr myndes and voyces wyth them and say, Amen, that is to saye, allowe what the Priestes saye, that the rehersall of Gods universall workes and benefites, the geving of thankes, the profession of faith, the confession of synnes, and the requestes and petitions of the Priestes and ^gthe people, might ascend up into the eares of god altogether, and be as a swete savour, odour, and incense in his nose: and thus was it used many hundred yeres after Christes ascension. But the ^haforesayde thynges cannot be done, when the priestes speake to the people in a language not knowen, and so they or theyr clarke in theyr name say Amen, but they cannot tell wherunto: where as saint Paule saith, how can the people say Amen to thy well-saying, when they understand not what thou saiest? And thus was S. Paule understood of all interpretours, both the Grekes and Latines, olde and new, scholeautors and ⁱothers, that I have redde, untyll ^kabout xxx. yeres past, at which time one Eckius with other of hys sort began to devyse a new exposition, understanding S. Paule of preachyng only. But when a good number of the best learned men reputed wythin this realme, some favouryng the old some the new learnyng, as they terme it where in dede that which they call the old, is the newe, and that which they call the new, is in dede the old) but when a great number of such learned men of both sortes were gathered together at Wynsor for the reformation of the service of the Church: It was agreed by bothe wythout controversie, (not one sayeng contrary,) that the Seryyce of the Church ought to be in the mother tongue and that Saint Paule in the .14. chapter to the Corinthians was so to be ^lunderstanded. And so is saint Paule to be ^lunderstanded in the civil law more then a thousand yeres past, where Iustinianus a moste godly Emperour, in a synode writeth on thys maner. Jubemus ut omnes episcopi pariter et presbyteri non tacito modo sed clara voce quæ a fideli populo exaudiatur sacram oblationem et preces in sacro baptisate adhibitas celebrent, quo maiori exinde devotione in depromendis Domini Dei laudibus audientium animi m^m efferrantur. Ita enim et Divus Paulus docet in epistola ad Corinth. Si solummodo benedicat spiritus, quomodo is qui privati locum tenet, dicet ad gratiarum actionem tuam, Amen, quandoquidem quid dicas non videt? Tu quidem pulchre gratias agis, alter autem non ædificaturⁿ. That is to say: we commaund, that all byshops and Priests celebrate the holy oblation and °praiers used in holy baptisme, not after a stil and close maner, but wyth a cleare loud voyce, that they may be plainly heard of the faithful people, so as the hearers mindes may be lifted up therby with the greater devotion, in utteryng the prayses of the Lord God. For so Paule teacheth also in the 1 Cor. 14. epistle to the Corinthians: Yf the spirit doe onely blesse or say wel, howe shall he that occupieth the place of a private person, say Amen to thy thankesgeving, for he perceiveth not what thou saiest? Thou doest geve thankes wel, but the other is not edified. And not onely the civile lawe, and al other writers a thousand and fyve hundreth yeres continually together, have expounded S. Paule not of preaching onely, but of other Service saide in the churche: but reason also geveth the same, that if men bee commaunded to heare any thyng, it must be spoken in a language which the hearers understand, or els as S. Paule sayth what avayleth it to heare? So that the Pope geving a contrary commaundement, that the people comming to the churche shall heare they wot not what, and answer they know not wherto, taketh upon him to commaund not only against reason; but also directly against god. And againe I said, Whereas our Saviour Christ ordained the Sacrament of his most precious body and bloud, to be received of all christian people under the p^p formes both of breade and wine, and saide of the cuppe, drinke ye all of this: the Pope geveth a cleane contrarye commaundement, that no laye man shall drynke of the cup of their salvation: as thoughe the cuppe of Salvation by the bloud of Christ, pertained not to laye men. And wheras Theophilus Alexandrinus, (whose workes Saincte Hierom did translate about eleaven hundred yeres passed) saith, that if Christ had been crucified for the Devils, his cup shoulde not be denied them: yet the Pope denieth the cup of Christ to christen people, for whom Christ was crucified: so that if I should obey the Pope, in these thinges I muste nedes disobey my savior Christ. But I was answered ^q hereto, (as commonly the papists do answer,) that under the forme of bread, is whole christes flesh and bloude, so that whosoever receaveth the forme of bread receiveth aswel christes bloud as his fleshe. Let it be so: yet in the forme of breade only, Christes bloude is not ^r drunken but eaten, not ^s received in the cuppe under forme of wyne as Christ commaunded, but eaten with the flesh under the forme of breade, and moreover the bread is not the sacrament of his bloud, but of his fleshe only, ^t nor the cup is not the sacrament of his flesh, but of his bloud only, and so the Pope kepeth from al lay persons the sacrament of their redemption by Christes bloud, which Christ commaunded to geve unto them. And furthermore Christ ordayned the sacrament in two kindes, the one separated from the other, to be a representation of his deathe, where his bloud was separated from hys fleshe, whiche is not represented in one kynd alone; so that the lay people receive not the whole sacrament wherby Christes death is represented as he commaunded. Moreover as the Pope taketh upon him to geve the temporal sworde ^u or royal and imperial power to kinges and prynces; so doth he likewise take upon him to depose them from theyr imperial states, if they be disobedient to hym, and commaundeth the subiectes to disobey their prynces, assoyling the subiectes aswel of their obedience, as of their lawfull othes made unto theyr true kinges and prynces directly contrary to gods commaundemente, who commaundeth all subiectes to obey theyr kinges or ^x other rulers under them^y. But sayeth Saincte Gregorye, if anye one shall exalte himselfe above all the rest to be the universal bishoppe, the same passeth in pryde: but now the bishop of Rome exalteth himselfe not ^aonly above all bishops, but also above all kynges and Emperours, and above ^bthe whole world ^ctaking upon him to geve, and take away, to set up and put downe, as he shall thinke good. And as the deuill havyng no such authoritie, yet toke upon hym to geve unto Christ all the kyngdomes of the world, if he would fall downe and worshippe him: in lyke manner the Pope taketh upon him to geve Em-pyres and kingdomes beyng none of hys, to suche as wil fal downe and worship him and kysse his feete. And moreover his lawyers and glosers so flatter him, that they say he may commaund Emperours and kynges to hold hys stirroppe when he lighteth ^duppon hys horse and to bee hys footemen^e, and that if any Emperour or kyng geve hym any thyng, they geve hym nothyng but that is hys owne, and that he may dispense agaynst Gods word, agaynste the old and new Testament, against S. Paules epistles and against the Gospel. And furthermore whatsoever he doth, although he draw innumerable people by heapes wyth himself into hell: yet may ^fno mortal man reprove hym, bicause he beyng iudge of al men, may be iudged of no man^g, and thus he sytteth in the temple of god, as he were a god and nameth himself Gods Vicar, and yet he dispenseth agaynst God. Christs enemy and adversary, who shall syt in the temple of God, advauncyng hymselfe above all other, yet by hypocrisy and fayned religion shall subvert the true religion of Christ, and, under pretense and colour of Christian religion, shall worke agaynst Christ, and therefore hath the name of Antichrist. Now yf any man lyfte hymselfe hygher then the Pope hath done, who lifteth hymselfe above all the world, or can be more adversary to Christ then to dispense agaynst Gods lawes, and, where Christ hath geven any commaundement, to commaund dyrectly the contrary that man must nedes be taken for Antichrist. But untyl the tyme that such a person may be found, men may easily coniecture where to find Antichrist. Wherefore seyng the Pope thus, to overthrow both gods lawes and mans lawes, taketh upon hym to make Emperours and kinges to be vassals and Subjects unto hym, specially the crowne of thys realme, with the lawes and customes of the same, I see no mean how I may consent to admit ^hthis usurped power within this realme, contrary to myne othe, mine obedience to gods ⁱlaw, mine allegiance and duety to your maiesty, and my love and affection to thys realme. This that I have spoken against the power and authority of the Pope, I have not spoken, (I take God to record and iudge) for any malice I owe to the Popes person, whom I know not, but I shal pray to god to geve him grace, that he may seke above al things to promote gods honour and glory, and not to follow the trade of hys predecessors in these latter dayes, nor I have not spoken it for fear of punishment and to avoyd the same, thynkyng it rather an occasion to aggravate, then to diminish my trouble: but I have spoken it for my most bounden duty to the crowne, liberties, lawes, and customes of thys ^krealme, but most especially to discharge my conscience in utteryng the truthe to gods glory, castyng away all feare, by the comfort whiche I have in ^lChristes wordes, who sayeth, Fear not them that kill the body and cannot kill the Soule, but feare hym that can caste both body and soule into hell ^m. He that for feare to lose this life will forsake the truth, shall lose the everlasting lyfe; and he that for the truthes sake wyll

°As touchyng the Sacrament, I saide p^t that forasmuch as the whole matter standeth in the understanding of these wordes of Christ, This is my body, this is my bloud, I saye, that Christ in these wordes made demonstration of the bread and wyne, and spake figuratively, callyng bread hys bodye, and wyne hys bloud, because he ordeyned them to q^{be} the sacraments of his body and bloud. And where the Papists say in r^{these} two pointes contrary unto me, that Christ called not bread hys body, but a substaunce uncertayne, nor spake fyguratively, herein I sayde I woulde be iudged by the olde church, and which doctrine could be proved the elder, that I would stand unto. And forasmuch as I have alleaged in my booke many olde autors both Grekes and Latynes, which s^{about} a thousand yeres after Christ continually taught as I do, if they could bryng forth but one old author that saith in these two poyntes as they say, I offerd, vi. or vii. yeares agoe, and doe offer yet styl, that I will geve place to them. But when I brynge forthe any author that sayeth in most playne termes as I do yet sayeth the other parte, that the authors meant not so: as who shoulde say, that the authors spake one thyng and mente cleane contrarye. And uppon the other parte, when they cannot fynde any one authour that sayeth in wordes as they say, yet saye they that the authors ment as they say. Now whether t^{thei} or I speake more to the purpose herein, I refer u^{it} to the iudgment of all indifferent hearers. Yea the old church of Rome, aboute a thousand yeres together, nether beleved nor used the Sacrament as the church of Rome x^{done} of late yeares. For in the beginning, the church of Rome taught a pure and a sound doctrine of the sacrament, but after that the church of Rome fell into a new doctrine of ^ytransubstantiation and with the doctrine they chaunged the use of the sacrament, contrary to that Christ commaunded, and the old church of Rome used above a M. yeares. And yet to deface the old thei say that the new is the old: wherin for my part, I am content ^zto the tryal to stand. But their doctrine is so fonde and uncomforable, that I marveile that any man would allowe it, if he knewe what it is, ^aand what soever they beare the people in hand, that which they write in theyr bookes hath nother truth nor comfote. For by their doctrin, of one body of Christ is made two bodies; one naturall having distance of members with forme and proporcion of a mannes perfite body, and thys bodye is in Heaven, but the bodye of Christe in the Sacramente by theyr own doctrine, must nedes be a monstrous body, having neyther distance of members nor forme, fashion, or proporcion of a mans naturall body, and such a body is in the sacrament (teache they) and goeth into the mouth with the forme of breade, and entreth no farther than the forme of bread goeth, nor tarieth no longer than the forme of bread is by natural heate in digesting, so that when the forme of breade is digested, that bodye of Christe is gone. And forasmuch as evil men be as long in digesting as good men, the body of Christ (by theyr doctrine) entreth as far, and tarieth as long in wicked as in godly men. And what comfote can be herein to any Christian man, to receive Christs unshapen body, and it to entre no father than the stomake, and to depart by and by, as sone as the bread is consumed? It semeth to me a more sound and comforable doctrine, that Christe hath but one body, and that hath forme and fashion of a mans true body, which body spiritually entreth into the whole man body and soule, and though the sacrament be consumed, yet whole Christe remayneth and fedeth the receaver unto eternal lyfe, if he continue in godlines, and never ^bdeparte, untill the receaver forsake him. And as for the wicked, they have not Christ within them at al, who cannot be wher Belial is. And this is my faith, and as me semeth a sound doctrine according to Gods word, and sufficient for a Christian to beleve in that matter. And if it canne be shewed unto me, that the popes authority is not preiudicial to the thinges before mencioned, or that my doctryne in the sacrament is erronous (whych I thinke cannot be shewed) then I ^cwas never nor wilbe so perverse, to stand wilfully in mine owne opinion, but I shall (wyth al humility) submit myself unto the Pope not only to kisse hys feete, but an other part also.

An other cause why I refused to take the B. of Gloucestre for my iudge, was the respect of his own person being more than once periured. Fyrste for that he beyng diverse times sworne, never to consent that the B. of Rome shoulde have any iurisdiction within thys realme, but to take the king and his successours for supreames heades of thys realme, as by gods laws they be: contrary to ^dthis lawful oth the said B. sate then in iudgement by authority from Rome, wherin he was periured, and not worthy to sit as a iudge.

The second periury was, that he toke his bishoprike both of the Queenes Maiestye and of the Pope, makyng to eche of them a solemne oth, which othes be so contrary, that ^ein the one he must nedes be periured. And furthermore in swering to the Pope to mayntayn his lawes, decrees, ^faconstitutions, ordinances reservations, and provisions, he declareth him selfe an enemye to the Imperial crowne and to the Lawes and state of this Realme, whereby he declared himselfe not worthy to syt as a iudge within this Realme. and for these considerations I refused to take him for my Judge.

if your Maiesty did make an oth to the pope, I think it was according to the other othes, which he useth to minister to princes, which is to be obedient to him, to defend hys person, to mayntayn his authority, honour, lawes, landes, and privileges. And if it be so, then I besech your majesty to looke uppon youre othe made to the ^gCrowne and the realme, and to expende and way the two othes together, to see how they agree, and ^hthen to do as your graces conscience shall geve you, for I am surelye perswaded that willingly your maiesty will not offend nor do against your conscience for ⁱnothyng. And if your majesty ponder the two othes diligently, I thynke you shall perceave that you were deceived, and then your hyghnes may use the matter as god shal put in your heart. Furthermore I am kept here from company of learned men, from bookes, from councel, from penne and yncke, savyng at thys tyme to wryte ^lto your Maiesty, which all were necessary for a ^mman in my case. POLE CARDINAL LEGATE, TO ARCHBISHOP CRANMER, IN ANSWER

Almyghtie God the Father, by the grace of hys onlye sonne, god and man, that dyed for our synnes, maye geve yow trew

the same grace the more earnestlie I do praye for to be geven tence of condempnation both of your bodie and Sowle, both horroure to here, that if there were onye waye, or mean, or fashion, that I myght fynd to remove you from errour, bryngeng

reason, that the authoritie of the Pope be nott preiudicyall to the wealth of the realme, or that your doctrine in the Sacrement be erroneouse, then you wold never be so perverse to stond wylfullie in your own opinion : but shall wyth all humilitie submytt your selffe to the truthe in al thinges, and gladlie embrace the same." Thise your wordes, wrytten in that lettre, geveth me som occasion, desyereng yowr wealth, not utterlie to dispayr thereof, but to attempt to recover yow by the same waye that yow open unto me, which is, by reason to shoue yow the errour of your opinion, and withall, the light of the treuthe in both causes. Butt whither this maye healpe yow in dede, or bryng yow to revoke the same wyth trew repentaunce, this I know nott. And I feare moche the contrarie, for that I see the grounde and begynneng how yow fell in to errour in both these articles, nott to be of thatt sort, that maketh men comonlie to falle in to errours and heresies, which sort and waye is, by medleng with your wytt and discourse naturall, to examen the Articles of the faith : Makeng your reason iudge thereof, whiche ought to bee iudged, and ruled by the tradition of the faith, which abuse causeth men daylie to falle in to errours and heresies, and the same also is in yow, 207 and is ioyned wyth that yow have done ; But here stondest nott the grownde of your errour, not yett in this other comon maner of faulleng from the trouthe, which S. Paule noteth in the gentiles, and is in al men comonlie thatt followeth their sensuall appetites. Qui veritatem Dei in iniustitia detinent, whiche thing also hath bene occasion of your errour. Butt yett nott this is the verie grownde thereof, butt a further fawte, that you geveng your othe to the truthe, yow mocked wyth the same, as the Jewes mocked wyth Christe, when thei saluted hym saing, Ave Rex Judæorum, and afterward dyd crucifie hym, For so dyd yow to the vicare of Christe, Knowledgeng the Pope of Rome by the words of your othe, to be so, and in mynde entendeng to crucifie the same authoritie, whereof cam the plague of deape ignoraunce and blyndnes unto yow. Whiche is now that bryngeth you to this greivouse peryll, to peryshe both bodie and Soule, from whiche perill no reason can deliver yow. But yow discovereng your selff, touching the entrie, when yow shuld make the customable othe of all legiti-mate Busshops in Christendom, which is the dore for you to entre to the service of God, in the highest spirituall office wythin this realme, and seeing yow made the same but for a countenance, nothing meaneng to observe that yow promised by the othe, this is a dore, that everye thieffe may entre bye. This is not the dore that thei entre bye, that meane earnestlie the service of God, wherein the Prophetes sentence is playne, askeng this question, Quis ascendet in montem Domini? aut quis stabit in loco sancto eius? And then answereng to the same sayeng, Innocens manibus et mundo corde, qui non accepit in vano animam suam, nec iuravit in dolo proximo suo. Hæc est generatio querentium Dominum, querentium faciem Dei Jacob. So that yow now, entryng to the mownteyne of God, whiche was to that highe archbushoprike, and to the Primacye in the realme, by a clene contrarie way, whiche is, as yow confesse your selffe by a fayned othe, by fraud and dissimulation, what more playne sentence can be against yow, if yow have a thowsand reformations in your mynde, then thatt al this doith nott make that this shuld be the waye to the trewe service of God, nor thatt yow useng a false othe shuld be of thatt generation which wyth their hart sought god, butt utterlye concludeth against yow, that if those that absteine from all deceite wyth their neighbour, specyallye in othe, be blessed of God, he thatt confesseth to have used such dissimulation in his othe, not wyth one neighbour or twayne, but wyth the hole realme, wyth the hole churche, what can he receve, butt the malediction of god? What can more evidentlie show thatt man to be none of that generation that seketh god? As if there were none other proffe, that followed in yowr acts, such a deceitfull and shamefull entrie, doith manifestlie declare, and most of all one of the furst actes yow dyd after this, which was to plucke the reste of the realme (of whome yow had chiefe cure) out of the howse of God, bryngeng them furthwith in to the schisme, and that we see now, thatt the hole realme by the high mercie of God beyng brought in to the howse of God again, there to receive his grace and benediction, and this to be done by those princes, and those ministers, qui non acceperunt in vano animam suam, nec juraverunt in dolo proximo suo, yowr person yet remayneng wythout, deprived of the grace graunted to them, 208

what doith this showe, but that it is the iust sentence of god agaynst yow, for your deceitfull entrie into his service, and the mercye of God toward them thatt not wyllenglie went furth, but by your traiterouse meanes were thrust out? So that here nowe I have told yow, whither yow heare me, or no, the verie cause of yowr blyndnes and ignoraunce, Which is the vengeance of god against yow, for your dissimulation and periurie, to hym and to the hole churche, at your entreng to the high service thereof, wherebie yow have deserved to be caste oute of the howse of god, which is the church, in tenebras exteriores, ubi est fletus, et stridor dentium which is the place and state wherein I see yow now lye, and the same I saw so evidentlie in your lettres from the begynneng to the ende, as nothing can be more playne, yow showeng your selffe in the same to be so ignoraunt, that you know nott those thinges, which be evident to everye man: whiche everie man, thatt hathe ony exterior lyght, by experience and knowledge of things past, doith know—— that be oute of the church as deade bodies, when the spirite is oute, but to all thatt be wythin the bodie of the Churche, this geveth comfort and lyffe, as the spirit doith to the bodie. And this shall be sufficient to saye, for everye mannes enformation of the truth in this matter, that wyll beleave, other that old, or late experience, or the contynuall doctrine of the hole churche, hath taught in everye christen realme, whereof none ever founde this fawte, thatt the Popes lawes spirituall were not to be exersised, because the same could nott agree with their politike lawes, but rather founde fawte, when the Pope hymselffe, or his ministers, dyd lett the coorse of those lawes, which agreed wythe everye politike bodie as the sowle of man wyth all complexions, and forme of bodie, and when they were stopped, then semed to be stopped the breath and lyffe of justice, as no realme can gyve, as I sayde afore, gretter or surer testimonye then owrs. For when the authoritie and lawes of the Pope dyd florishe in the realm, all justice florished wythall, and that stopped, and caste owt, as it was thise latter yeares, all good iustice and cyvile maner of lyvyng was stopped and cast furth wythall. So that when yow ^rcome furst to mervayle of a thing never seene, nor harde of afore in this realme, that a Busshop made by the Popes authoritie shuld nott be deposed, wythout his authoritie, what doith this show but a deape blyndnes, and ignoraunce of the use of the law in this realme, ever continuall, and never broken, of ony iuste prynce, untill yow your selffe were made Busshop, which healped them to breake all good lawes and customes of the realme, and then afterward to make this for a greate reason, that the Popes lawes shuld nott be now agayn admytted, for then yow saye, all the hole realme, that caste out his authoritie, must nedes knowledg themselffe accursed, which God, yow saye, forefende. And this yow shoue yow can nott abyde, for nothing ^sby ony maner thatt the realme shuld knowledge themselffe accursed, which thei can not, yow saye, avoide, if thei admytt the Popes 209 law, as good. This word yow shuld have sayd afore the realme had cast furth the Pope's authoritie, for to have letted them from their faulle into the corsse, and this had bene the verie parte of a good Busshop. But after that thei were faullen from the lawes, whiche thei had admytted afore, and therbie ronne in to the cursse, (which you saye can not be avoyded, of them that hath ones admytted them) Then I, wythe all good and catholike men, do saye, god forefend, they after this shuld nott knowledge their state to be accursed, which if thei dyd nott, thei could never be absolved from the cursse. and he that forbeddeth now the knowledge of the same, doith in effect procure, that being accursed in dede, thei remayne ever accursed. And this is your monstrouse and blynde love yow pretend to beare to the realme, being accursed your selffe, and blynded in the knowledge of your state, to have the hole realme remayne styll accursed. those thatt resisted the swarveng from the Popes authoritie, hath obteyned of the high mercye of God, thatt the hole realme hath with repentaunce knowledged theyr evell state thei stode in, syneth the leaveng of the authoritie of the Pope in the realme, and wyth repealing off those lawes, made contrarie, have asked absolution, and received it, and be delivered of al cursse, received into the grace of god, and brought in to the churches lapp again. Thei onlie left out, that doith refuse this grace, and hath nott so moche grace to accept itt, whereof if onye should be deprived, ^xnone hathe desserved itt more by the iuste wrathe of God to be deprived, then he that was chieffe doer to make the realme lese it, as yow by showeng yowr selffe in this to be the verie membre of Sathan, both then, but moste of all nowe, which deprived of grace of repentaunce hymselffe, wold drawe al other to his dampnation, and dissuadeth al retorne to grace. This your charitie you ^ynow show to your contree, whiche as I said hitherto ^zis the verie vengeaunce of God toward yow, of the which this greate blyndnes gyveth a greate testimonye, that yow show in your lettre, writeng of these thinges, as though yow had never knowledge what had bene done in the realme afore your tyme, nor what was the state of your time, nor yett what is the state of the realme at this present, bryngeng for a greate inconvenient, that if the Parliament shuld accept the lawes of the Pope, thei shold be constrayned to repeale those that were done against his lawes and authoritie; as though this were not so done already. And showeng so greate ignoraunce, both touching the doctrine of the Church, and in this poynte touching the Popes authoritie, and the experience of the custome of the realme, yett yow conclude, that ignoraunce myght excuse other men, how prejudicyall the canon lawes be to the wealth of the realme, if they wold accept the same. But you can nott be excused by ignoraunce. And seeing in this the verie trouthe, that ignoraunce can not excuse yow, as in trouthe it can nott, being of thatt kynde it is, but if that do nott excuse yow, then malice doith condempne yow, which is the verie cause to bring yow to ignoraunce inexcusable, both in this poynte of the authoritie of the Pope, as in the doctrine of the Sacrement, wherin it is no lesse monstrouse; and this yow show moste, where yow thinke to speake wyth lesse obstinacye; as where yow saye, that if thei that follow the Popes doctrine 210 herein, could bryng in but one old auncyent doctor of the Church of their opinioñ, you have offred afore, as yow offer yet, to gyve place unto them, and to consent to the same. What a proffe is this, to show your profounde blyndnes? Yff there ^abe no lett but this, because yow see nott of the old doctours, at the leaste one, thatt were against yowr opinion, in the defence of the Popes doctrine, other men seeing so menye, and not one auncyent approved doctor that ever dissented, what a wonderfull blyndnes is this, nott to see one against yow? For this is playne, when the Pope showeth his sence and doctrine in this article, he doith nott speake thereof as of ^ba doctrine, that he hymselffe hath newlie founde, nor yet onye of his predecessours, but thatt all hath uniformallie received one of a nother of their fathers, unto the Apostles tyme, and they of Christe, which argument is so strong, so evident to the condempnation of your opinion, and confirmacyon of the Popes, that menye sage and learned men writing against the opinion yow follow, bring diverse sortes of arguments to confounde the same, sett aparte all forme of reasoneng, and onelie sticke upon the testimonie and uniforme consent of al the old doctours of the Churche to this day, whiche testimonies be so menye, thatt thei fyll up greate bookes, as amongst other, my Lord of Durrham at this present, in his booke wrytten of this matter, taketh this waye, to ground hym selffe most apou the perpetuall consent of the old doctours, continueng unto this age, and all against your opinion, which boke is abrode, and hath bene seene of yow. Then if yee wyll thinke hym of so smale iudgment or knowledge, that in suche a nombre as he bryngeth, there is nott one that maketh to his purpose, but all for yowr purpose, whom he entendeth to oppugne, other this must prove a wonderfull blyndnesse in hym, and nott in hym alone, but in so menye learned men that taketh the same waye, or ells in yow, that amongst so menye testimonies, som more clerer then som, nott to see so moche as one alone, this is an evydent proffe, that ye be starke blynde, for if yee were not, if it were but one brought furth unto yow, as is mentioned in that booke, the condempnation of Berengarius, thatt was of your opinion ; and that done by a generall Counsell, of all the nations in Christendom, growndeng it selffe upon the uniforme doctrine of their forefathers, were nott this enough ; yf yow had yies to see, to showe thatt more then one old doctour were of the Popes doctrine ? and if this be nott sufficient proffe unto yow, the same being enough to Berengarius hymselffe, which was converted therebie, and perswaded to recant hys opinion, what doith this show, but thatt he was nott utterlie blynded, but thatt he sawe some testimonie against hym, yow utterlye to have loste all syght, thatt see nott so moche as one. But of this your monstrous blyndnes I mervell the lesse, the more I see the same to procede of the verie justice and wrathe of God against yow, wyth whome yow mockeng, on that maner as yow showed, in comyng in such a high place in service of the Churche, as was to be Archbushop and Primate of the realme, as to swere, in dolo, not onlye proximo, but universæ Ecclesiæ, wylleng afterward to pervert the olde ordre of the Churche, whiche yow called a reformation, me semeth to here the verie wordes and 211 curse of S. Paule, that lighted upon the false ^cProphett called Barieu, letteng the coorse of the doctrine evangelicall preached by hym, when he then cursseng hym, saide, O plene omni dolo, et omni fallacia, fili diaboli, ^dinimici omnis Iustitiæ, non desinis pervertere vias Domini rectas? et ecce nunc manus Domini super te, et eris cæcus, non videns solem, usque ad tempus. The effect of this I do see hath lighted upon yow, for entreng by deceite to be a chieffe Doctour in the churche, perverteng Vias Domini rectas, to be blynded, I praye God it be but ad tempus. But hitherto I have not known a more deaper blyndnes, and if that was ponnyschement of that false prophett to lese his corporall syght for a tyme, that being an infidelle, for verie ignoraunce dyd putt obstacle to the verie trew doctrine of the faithe never hard of afore, to be blynded corporallie for a tyme, yow thatt first knewe the doctrine, and preached the same, which afterward yow do pervert, if yow were stricken wyth a gretter, and more notable ^eblyndnes of mynde, the whiche yow show now, this is evident to com of the verie hond of God, ^fwhich mannes hond can not heale, but onelye the hond of God, that iustlie ponnysed yow therewithall. And the sorer and more desperate cure is of this your blyndnes, the more yow acquyett your selffe therein, as though yow had a greate gyfte of light above al other, for so yow show in your lettres, persuadeng your selffe to have found a waye in teacheng the doctrine of the Sacrament of the aulter, that other hath not seene, which is to take awaye the absurditie bothe to the sence and reason of man, that is in the catholike doctrine, toucheng the Sacrament of the aulter, as yow saye, in that forme of breade and wyne to be the verie trew reall presence of the bodye of Christ, and that it is ^ghys bodie and bloode that is showed in the forme of breade and wyne, whatt reason will admytt this? What sence? and how moche probable were this, if this doctrine were taught, as yow teache it, to saye, thatt yow see in the forme of bread and wyne, is a figure onelie of the body of Christ that is in heaven, whome in spirit in that fygure yow do honour this maner no doubt were more probable sayeng to the eares of men that iudge things other by reason, or by sence. But the more probable it is, the more false it is, the greate sophister and father of all lyes, ever deceaving us by probabilitie of reason, proponyng ever thatt which is more agreable to the sence, But the trew doctrine of Christ is taught by another way.

being faullen therein not so moche for fawte or abuse of reason, as by malice against reason. And suche, I saye, no hand can cure, no reason, no discourse, but onelye thatt it please the high mercye of god, that doith chastice your malicious handleng of the truthe, with suche ignoraunce and darknes, to wythdrawe his hond of vengeaunce apon yow, for otherwise, you heareng reason, and seeing som lyght thereof, yet yow have, nott so moche grace as to receave it, nor follow it. This is the thyng I greatlie feare in yow, haveng knowledge of your procedyng syneth your furst notable errour, in reiecteng the doctryne of the Popes supremitie, and afterward of the Sacrement, whiche as I saide afore, was nott after the comon maner of faulleng, as 212 other dyd by curiositie, or by frayltie, but by deliberate malice, to forsake the trouthe in both poyntes, to satisfie your carnall appetites, to the whiche you dissembleng furst, and mockeng wyth the treuthe, and afterward openlie forsakeng the same, dyd serve you, whiche as yet yow do nott knowlege, and this muste be the furst thing that you shold knowlege, makeng open confession wyth repentaunce thereof, yf yow shall ever com to receive ony fructe of the mercye of God. So that if I now, that desyre your recover, shuld go about by waye off discourse or argument, to bryng yow from your errour to the truth, this must be the furst poynte to show, how yow fell into the same darkenes, to the entent that God so moche remytteng his hond of iustice, that yow maye see your abhominacion in abuseng the truthe, you myght knowlege by feare the iustice of God in letteng yow faulle ⁱin to so greate darkenesse, and by the hope of his infinite mercye, caulle to hym for grace to be restored to som lyght of his infallible veritie. And this I wyth all ^kmyne harte prayeng for yow, in the meane season, untill God gyve yow the grace to do the same for your selffe, shall wythall open unto yow the maner of your faulle. Touching your furst article of the Popes authoritie, which I nede nott open ony further then you have opened your selffe, nor can nott better expresse it, then you have sett it furth, I haveng no knowlege thereof but by your owne sayng and wryting, for defence of periurie obiected ^lunto yow. And now marke yow well, if yow have onye sence of knowledge lefte unto yow to see your selffe and your owne dedes, if ever there were hard suche kynd of a defence, in ony periurie of ony man, that had lefte hym onye lyght of reason, or knowlege of iustice, which for to knowe, furst yow must be putt in remembraunce of the kynde of your othe, and the maner of makeng thereof, the kynd was such, that it was no new othe, but the verie same thatt al Archbusshops of Canterburie, which be Primates of this realme, al Archbushops, and Busshops, in everye Christen realme, doith accustomed make to the Popes holines, as to the vicare of Christe in earthe, swearing to hym obedience, such was your othe. And as touching the maner of makeng of it, none could be more solempne, being made in the hond of a Busshop, with the testimonye and assistence of other Busshops, openlie in the church, in the presence of as moch people as the church could hold, at suche tyme, as yow arraid wyth the sacred vesture of a Busshop, cam afore the aultre to be consecrated Archbusshop. All this, yow can nott, nor do nott, denye, nor yet that after al this solempne and open othe, yow did directlie and openlye against the same, which muste necessarilie condempne yow of periurie. But this necessarie consequence yow denie, graunteng notwithstanding to have done contrarie to the oth. But yow saye for your defence, thatt where yow went to make the othe, even then yow never thought to observe it, and leaste this shuld be an inconvenient, and a thing moche dommagiouse unto yowr fame and eastimation, if it were nott well knowen, that yow swore one thing in the moste solempne fashion yow could, and ment an other, here yow bryng such a testimonie by wryting, yow bryng furth a previe protestation made with previe 213 witnesses, haveng the hond and signe of the notarie, to prove that when yow went to make that solempne oth, yow were nothing mynded to observe it. Which former protestation, wherto doith it serve, but to testifie a doble periurie, which is to be forsworne afore yow dyd swere, other periurers, be wont to break their oth after they have sworne, yow brake it afore. Quis sapiens et intelliget hæc, et intelliget malitiam Sathanæ? and a wonderfull aggravation of the wrathe of God toward yow. But lett the malice of Sathan be furst considered, in deludeng yow, when yow thought to delude other, this delusion was this, Thatt because it had bene hard som protestations to be made, also of som good men, in a case, when thei nott beyng at their owne choise, and libertie, when, per vim, et metum, qui aliquando cadit in constantem virum, they be made to sweare, to that, which afterward they have done contrarie to their former oth; in which case, a protestation, excuseng the wyll, and alledgeng the feare, hath som colour of defence; This, I saye, yow hearyng, and Sathan putteng yow in remembrance herof, with the similitude of this deluded yow, makeng you beleve, that suche a kynde of protestasion myght serve for a premeditate periurie, whereunto yow were not dryven, nother vi, nor metu, as yow were not in this your case, except yow calle that a iuste feare, that yow dyd see, if yow dyd not sweare, yow could nott satisfie your ambition and covetousnes in haveng the Busshoprick, for so it was, leave yow thise two affections, care yee nott for to be made Busshop, and who dyd constrayne yow to sweare? were ye nott by thatt refuse qwite delivered of all necessitie to sweare? This also ye can not denie, whereunto therefore serveth your protestation made by the hand of a Notarie, but to make your previe periurie more notoriouslie knowen, but to make it knowen to the world, that yow entreng to the rule of a parte of the flocke of Christe, yow entred nott in by the dore; and nott entreng by the dore, but aliunde, what comfort could yowr flocke loke for to have by yowe, but that which Christe saith, to followe of those, qui non intrant per ostium, sed aliunde, to be stealers and thieffs, Qui non intrant, nisi ut mactent, et perdant; as the effect hath shewed by yow. But here yow deceive your selffe again, and wold deceave other, makeng your defence of your simulate othe, that yow dyd the same so for the more servise of God, haveng in your mynd then to reforme the church, to the which being no waye but to make that oth for a countenaunce. this yow thought for such a purpose myght be acceptable afore God, and also entreng by the authoritie of the Pope, called by hym, thatt had authoritie to name yow, then yow think it can not be justelie of onye man obiected unto yow, thatt yow dyd nott entre by the dore, and this truelie, if you could have kept your owne counsell, toucheng me, I durst not obiect the same unto yow, seeyng nothing owtwardlye, but as thatt yow were lawfullie called and institute Bushop. And of your inward, I wold nott make my selffe iudge.

and see, as is the furst poynte in your lettres, where yow make a great mervayle, sayng it to be a thing thatt was never seene 214 in the realme, that to condempne ony subiect thereof, iustice shuld be sought of a forreyne power, as is the Popes. How this is to be called a forreyn power, I wyll declare afterward, for this I do not marvell, if yow do nott well know, nott being so open to them thatt lacketh spirituall doctrine, nor of that ignoraunce I do nott speake now, but of thatt outward light and knowledge which is open to everye man by experience, the which yow nott knoweng, it may be well saide, yow be cast in tenebras exteriores, and thatt yow have loste both interiour and exteriour knowledge of things, for so yow show in this case, where yow saye it was never seene in the realme, that to condempne onye subiect thereof to death, shuld be required ony other sentence then thatt comyth from the Imperiall crowne of the realme, and their temporall lawes, wherein, that which I note furst is this, thatt in thatt place yow seme to lament, that being condempned all redie, as yow saye, by the lawes of the realme, of highe treason, this dilation is geven to your death, not to suffre, afore al such thinges as be layde to your charge were furst knowen at Rome, this being naturall unto all that be in ieopardie of lyffe, if they can nott hope by ony iust defeance to extue the same, att the leaste, to have tyme al desyre, follow-eng that proverb, in space comyth grace, the whiche naturall affect being extinct in yow, this followeth withal, naturall knowledge to be extincte, as in the proheme of your lettre is more declared. And now to com nearer to thatt yow saye was never seene, that onye subiect to be condempned, had nede of ony outward Justice, calleng outward iustice, the Canon lawes, that com from the Pope. To this, I saye, the experience and use of the lawes, and iustice in this realme, doith show clene contrarie to yowr mervell, that it was never seene in the realme, afore the tyme of your malitiouse oth, that there was ever ony man condempned for the crime of heresy, by the mere iustice that comyth from the temporall lawes, but all were furste declared to be suche by the spirituall lawes of the canons, which yow calle forreyne lawes. And this beside, I say, afore that same tyme, of all other crimes, as treason, and other, there was never spirituall man put to execution, accordeng to the ordre of the lawes of the realme, but he were furst by the canon lawes condempned, disgraded, and then gyven to the temporall hondes, wherof there be as menye examples, afore the tyme of breakeng the old ordre of the realme this laste yeares, as hath bene delinquents, let al the recordes be seene, and specyallie this is notable of the Busshop of ——— whiche being emprisoned here for high treason, the king wold nott proceed to his condempnation and ponnysment, afore he had the Popes bull geveng hymⁿ.

And this is the trade of iustice, which the kyng and Qwene use wyth yow at this tyme, beyng condempned of treason, being consecrate Busshop, to have the Popes sentence from Rome afore yow suffre, which maner of proceding, you saye, was never afore in the realm, and the practise and experience in like cases doith show never to have be[ne otherwise, afore] the tyme of your notable periurie. A[nd so Catholick Kings, as it] pertayneth to the priviledge of the [See of Rome,] when 215 thei be crowned doith sweare. And now looke what ignorance is this, to thinke that the like was never seene in the realme, when it was never seene otherwise, amongst those princis thatt were counted to be in the obedience of the lawes of Christ, and of the church. But now to com to thatt yow speake of the Popes lawe and power, which after a seditious maner of speakeng, yow call a forreyne power, this stondesth under such a fashion, if God leave yow so moch sence to understand what I saye, that the Popes power can no more be called forreyn power, comeng nott of man alone, but of hym that is God and man, that was secundus homo, de caelo caelestis, then maye be called a forreyne power, that the sowle of man comyng from heaven, hath in the bodye generate in earth. And so it is in the politike bodye of this realme, ruled with politik-lawes, founded by mannes reason, that be called temporall lawes, °whiche comyth from princis and governours temporall, to them comyng the Popes lawes spirituall, doith no other, but thatt the sowle in the bodie, to gyve lyfe to the same, to con-

firme and strengthen the same. And this is it the aungel speakeng in Christes conception, ^pand declareng what his authoritie shuld be, signified, saing, he shuld sytt super domum David, which was, a temporall reigne, ut confirmet illud et corroboret. And so doith the spirituall lawes, procedyng of his spirite, as be the lawes of the churche, and canon lawes, whiche, wheresoever thei be well observed, doith this effect, ever to confirme and stablish the temporall lawes of the realme, as no realme hath had more experience, then this, ever syneth the tyme they received the faith, and obedience of the Pope, from whome [came] their doctrine of the fayth, there was never notable [trouble] in the realme of onye kynde, if it dured ony space, [but it] was ever lightlie eased, and the realme established by som legate sent from the Pope and the See of Rome, followeng the prescript of the canons, and the spirituall lawe, withoute the whiche no realme can well be governed, butt al be like to the thorne bushe, whereof it ys written, in libro Judicum, when the Sichimites had chosen a Tyrannie over them, against the law of God, then it was prophesyed unto them, what shuld com thereoff, which was, that fyer shuld com furth of thatt thorne, which was their Kyng, that shuld devoure the people, and from the people, to borne hym, as it was, and ever shall be, where mere temporall lawes wythout spirituall doith rule, which state maye be compared to be lyke such a thorne, whereof fyre doith com furth, to the destruction bothe of the governor and the people. And how the lawes of the realme myght be well likened to such a thorne, after thatt the spirituall authoritie was caste furth, the destruction of such a sorte of men, of all degrees, both greate and smale, the greate spoyles, that were taken, maye geve sufficient proffe, to all them that hath onye sence or remembraunce of thinges so late done. And now comyng again to the spiritual authoritie and Lawe to joyne it selfe wyth the temporall, this is like to the fyer that Moyes sawe in rubo, which gave light and dyd nott burne, nor never doith, when it is well used, and if it be nott well used, the faute is in the persones, and nott in the thinge, as the faute is nott in the temporall lawes, when the Prynce doith abuse them,

Non in probabilibus humanæ sapientiæ verbis, ne evacuetur crux Christi. As it shuld be in this case. For if this probabilitie were followed, the sklauder of the cross shold be voyde, For this were no sklauder to the Jewes to here Christ honoured in a figure thei being ever used to the same nor it wolde seame so moch folyshe to the gentiles and infidelles after we had accepted Christ for God, to honor hym in a figurative maner, butt this beyng the counsell of Christe to uttre his greate misterie in forme that he ^rwold have it sklauder to both the Jewes, that seke signes, and were used to be taught by figures, and also the gentiles that stycke upon the judgement of reason, the more probable yow make it, the further yow swarve from the trew doctrin of Christe, and verie trew maner to teache it. But because I have entreated this part more largeleye in an nother epistle, that I send unto yow, wherein I show that stondeng as yow do, wythout repentaunce of the maner of your entrie to the service of the church, yow could never be nother good scoler of this doctrine, and moche less a master, I wyll now procede no further to reason wyth you herein, knoweng al to be in vayne, and no healpe nor meane to recover yow, but onlie prayer, whiche wyth all my harte, as I wold for myn own sowle, I wyll not fayle to use for yow, to hym, whom yow have so greatelie offended, as I never redd of ony Busshop that ever was in the church, But the fownteyne of his mercye is never closed to them thatt wyll call for itt, as myn owne entier prayer is to the infenite mercie of God, thatt yow maye have the grace so to do, sendeng yow for obteynyng of that, his holie spirit, Qui condemnat mundum de peccato, de iuditio, et de iustitia, that seeing furst your soore condempnation, yow maye therewith be sturred with al humilitie and contrite hart to demaunde som comfort, 217 which can[not] be hoped of wythout your former condempnation of your selffe, wherunto to bryng yow, it hath cawsed me by wryting to set furth so earne[stly] som part of your grievouse offences afore yow, wylleng yow no less comfort then I wold to myn owne sowle. And the same I saye, concludeng and eandeng as I beganne, it maye please the paternall love, that God beareth unto all synners, for hys sake, thatt being his onelie sonne, God and man, dyed to paye their raunsome, for to forgeve yow, and deliver yow, ex ore leonis, which hath so devowred yow, that if you be nott plucked oute ^sas the Prophet Amos sayth of Israell, Quomodo si eruat pastor duo crura aut extremum auriculæ, I saye iff you be nott plucked out by the eare, yow be utterlie undone both bodye and Sowle, which yett again, and ever, the infinite mercye of God may defeande you from. See p. 237 of this volume. The MS. in the British Museum, from which the present copy is made, consists of twenty leaves in folio, written in a beautiful Italian hand. There are, throughout, interlineations and emendations, principally with reference to style, in the handwriting of Cardinal Pole himself. The words and passages intended to be struck out are underscored in the MS. These are given as foot notes: though it is not very easy, in all cases, to ascertain the exact corrections meant, from the omission of apparently necessary underscorings &c.

“ Omnis, qui recedit, et non permanet in doctrina Christi, Deum non habet. Qui permanet in doctrina, hic patrem, et filium habet. Si quis uenit ad uos, et hanc doctrinam non affert, nolite recipere eum in domum, nec Aue, ei dixeritis. Qui enim dicet illi, Aue, communicat operibus eius malignis.” Hæc ille dilectus Christo discipulus. Quid igitur ego nunc ad te scribens, quem à doctrina Christi, et ecclesiæ iampridem recessisse tam aperte constat; qui eam omnibus modis oppugnare pergis; an contra hoc præceptum facio? Hoc equidem nolim; etsi non defuerunt, qui, hoc meo ad te scribendi consilio cognito, his Joannis Apostoli uerbis, auctoritateque studerent me ab eo deducere; cum dicerent, hoc ipsum ad te scribere, plus esse, quamsi te in domum reciperem; perinde enim esse, ac si ipse domum ad te accederem, tuoque hospitio uterer: quod si cæteris non liceat, multo minus mihi conuenire, qui in hoc regno eius personam sustineo, ad quem de te iudicandi ius spectat:

neque enim si æquum non est, inquit, iudicem apud reum diuersari æquum uideri debet, ab eo alias ad reum mitti literas, nisi quæ ^aillum ad iudicium citent. Quid igitur? Si tecum non disputem, quo pacto id assequi potero, quod in primis opto, ut te, qui, nisi argumentis uictum, sententiam nunquam mutaturum profiteris, ad ueritatis cognitionem perducam? At non id ego profiteor; hoc eius est, qui lucem creauit, eamque a tenebris diuisit: meæ partes sunt, uiam, quæ eo ducit, ostendere, quod magna iam ex parte feci, cum te ad cognitionem eorum, quæ diuidunt inter te, et Deum, idest, peccatorum, quibus Deum grauiter offendisti, teque ab eo seiunxisti, et ad pœnitentiam atque ad implorandam diuinam misericordiam hortatus sum. Ad quæ si hoc adiunxero, ut tibi fontem ostendam erroris tui in praua ista, peruersaque de sacramento Eucharistiæ sententia, simulque Deum pro salute tua precer, quod sane ex animo facere non desisto, tum quidem munus meum expleuero. Hæc uero ita uoluntatem Dei hac in re ostendit, ut nulla pars orbis terrarum sit, cui non eam declarauerit, cuius rei si testimonia requiris, iam inde ab Apostolorum temporibus usque ad hanc diem omnium ætatum testimonia afferri possunt. qui enim ubique pietate, et intelligentia scripturarum præstiterunt, ac munus docendi in ecclesia sustinuerunt, omnes, quasi unius hominis uox esset, quasi cor unum, et anima una, ^m ita plane de hoc altaris sacramento inter se consenserunt, ⁿ ac cum de reliquis fere omnibus fidei, et religionis nostræ articulis aliæ alijs temporibus excitatæ sint contentiones, et controversiæ, tamen mille annorum ^o spacio, ne mentio quidem cuiusquam inueniatur, qui de eo unquam dubitauerit. Post millesimum iam annum, ut ante dixi, cum res in controuersiam a diacono illo Andegauensi uocaretur, ita eius opinio a multis pijs, et doctis uiris oppugnata fuit, in primis autem à Lanfranco Archiepiscopo Cantuariensi, ut in palinodia canere coactus fuerit. quid ergo? num maius in hac causa testimonium consensus ecclesiæ, et uoluntatis Dei, quæ illi reuelata est, dari potest, quam perpetuum tot ætatum silentium? Et sane singulari Dei prouidentia ita factum ^p uidetur, quasi hoc significaret Spiritus Sanctus, qui ecclesiam regit, si qui postea Satanæ impulsu hac ipsa de re controuersiam excitaturi essent, eos ^q uel hoc uno argumento consensus ^r tot sæculorum conuincendos fore, quo certe nullum maiorem uim habere debet apud ^s eos, qui hanc sententiam sapere uelint, quorum in numero si tu esse pergis, tum quidem ego frustra tecum loquor. quid autem reliquum est, nisi ut aut istam arrogantiam profiteare,

Nam quæ in his traduntur, ⁱ Pet 5 “ non superbis, sed humilibus reuelantur. illis enim Deus resistat, his dat gratiam.” Apostolus etiam quos superbiæ notat, eosdem inscitiae damnat, cum dicit, eos nihil scire et languere circa quæstiones et pugnas uerborum. Tuæ autem ^xignorantiæ et languoris quod maius argumentum afferri potest, quam quod eam rem in quæstionem et controversiam reuocas, de qua nemo qui de fide recte sentiret, unquam dubitauit ? Hanc ^yvero ignorantiam et languorem ex uitio superbiæ longe grauissimo existere, nonne id maxime indicat, quod in ea parte scripturæ quæ doctrinam maximi mysterii religionis nostræ continet, tibi uni plus intelligentiæ ^zassumis, quam tota ecclesia per mille annos, uel potius ex quo constituta est, ad hanc diem habuerit : nec enim ullus unquam inuentus est, qui uerba Christi hoc sensu, quem tu sequeris, interpretarentur, præter illos, qui ab universa ecclesia impie recesserunt, meritoque damnati sunt. qui primi donum Spiritus acceperunt, et Christi doctrinam ex ipsius ore hauserunt, tum etiam per illum qui cum in terris cum Christo uersatus non esset, raptus est usque ad tertium cœlum, ubi arcana illa uerba audiuit, quæ effari non licuit; quæ uero enunciauit, ea sane omnia ad consilium Dei in Christi doctrina explicandum pertinent, quod eo scilicet spectat, ut perdat sapientiam sapientum, et prudentiam prudentum reprobet, sicut idem Apostolus docet. “ Quia non cognouit mundus per sapientiam Deum, placuit Deo per stultitiam prædicationis saluos facere credentes.” Ecce ⁱdivinum consilium in homine servando, quod Deus, postquam homo peccauit, statim exequi cœpit, ut cum is perijsset, Deum per sapientiam ^kipsius non agnoscens, ita scilicet ut eum glorificaret, seque ei gratum præstaret, per id, quod stultum uidetur homini, seruaretur. qua nimirum est uerbi Dei, “ et crucis Christi uictoria, ut quod stultum est Dei, sapientius sit hominibus;” hæc enim præcipua ^lsunt arma, quibus homo assidue cum Deo pugnat. ^msapientia, et prudentia carnis, quæ arma dux aduersariorum Dei, et princeps Satan, homini primum dedit. Hæc prima nostra mater accepit, cum Deum non agnoscens, ut debuit, in operibus sapientiæ consilium, quod serpens ei dederat, secuta, felicitatem suam augere uoluit, ut et corpus pernicioso cibo pasceret, et animam scientiæ non boni tantum, quam solam ei Deus tribuerat, sed etiam mali, quam idem lege, et mandato suo prohibuerat. hic primum Satanæ opera cum Dei uerbo institutum est bellum, quod ille perpetuo deinceps fouit, et aluit, hoc uno consilio, ut persuadeat, sapientiæ, et prudentiæ suæ hominem confidere oportere, cuius rei contrarium spiritus Christi suadet, ut spei scilicet nihil in sua homo sapientia, et prudentia constituat, ⁿsed uni Dei patris sapientiæ, bonitatisque plane confidat, et eius legi tanquam paruulus pareat. Hoc spiritûs Dei consilium cum caro aspernaretur, nullus fuit belli inter Deum, et hominum finis, quod secundus ille homo de cœlo cœlestis, quem Esaias propheta magni consilij Angelum uocat, in terras descendit, ut arcanum illud consilium in sinu Dei patris temporibus æter-

I.} placuit illi per stultitiam prædicationis saluos facere credentes, ut hoc modo perderet sapientiam sapientum, et prudentiam prudentum reprobaret, per quam mundus perditus fuerat, et reprobatus.” Christus autem consilium hoc non solum enunciauit, sed etiam est executus, quemadmodum Esaias prædixerat, “Et uoluntas Domini in manu eius dirigetur,” quod ^{Cap 53} ipse quidem cum in omni uita, tum uero præcipue in morte sua præstitit, quæ huius consilii finis atque perfectio fuit, sicut ipse cruci affixus, iamque spiritum emissurus, dixit, “Consummatum est.” Cum uero quæ ad nostram salutem ^{Ioann 29.} pertinebant, omnia ex Christi morte penderent, ex hac etiam effluxere uniuersa sacramenta, quorum cum nullum sit, in quo per uerbum Dei, quod homini uidetur stultitiæ uerbum, non id euertatur, quod ad sapientiam, et prudentiam carnis pertinet, tum uel maxime hoc fit in baptismi, et Eucharistiæ Sacramentis, quorum alterum ad salutis nostræ initium, alterum ad perfectionem spectet, ita enim utcunque in sacris Literis traditur, ^o ut constet, quo magis ea quis ad sensum hominis, uel intellectum accommodare uelit; hoc eum abesse longius ab eorum intelligentia, quique iudicio rationis, ac prudentiæ humanæ maxime dociles uidentur, hoc ad percipienda ea, quæ de his sacramentis traduntur, minus idoneos esse. Quis enim, si personam Nicodemum cum Christo loquentis spectemus, et iudicium rationis ac ^{Ioann 3.} prudentiæ humanæ sequamur, aptior eo discipulus esse potuit? qui quidem, ^p cum primum ad Christum noctu se contulisset, ea re ^q magnum discendi studium indicauit, quod excitarat fides ex Christi miraculis concepta, quæ ipsum in admirationem doctoris adduxit, accedebat etiam scientia ^r legis, quæ est pædagogia ad Christum. Num maiora signa docilis atque idonei discipuli humana ratio et prudentia requirat? Magna quidem hæc sunt, uerum si ob ea quis de uerbo crucis, quo uniuersa Christi doctrina continetur, se iudicare posse existimet, non modo hæc illi non proderunt, sed magno etiam erunt impedimento: ad mysteriorum enim Dei intelligentiam plus confert paruuli fides, qui nihil iudicat, nihil quærit, omnia credit, ac simpliciter accipit, quam omnis humana uel sapientia, uel prudentia, qua qui est præditus, eam relinquat necesse est, ut uerbi Christi idoneus sit auditor, sicut ait Apostolus, “ Si quis uestrum uidetur esse sapiens in hoc seculo, stultus fiat, ut sit sapiens. Christus enim Apostolos, et discipulos suos alloquens, Nisi, inquit, conuersi fueritis, et effeciamini sicut paruuli, non intrabitis in regnum cœlorum; et, si quis non receperit regnum Dei sicut paruulus, non intrabit in illud.” Quamdiu enim, quis, audito Christi uerbo, quærit, quomodo hoc uel illud fieri possit, sicut Nicodemus, cum illud audisset, “ Nisi quis renatus fuerit denuo, non potest uidere regnum Dei; quæsiuit, Quomodo potest homo nasci cum sit senex? Nunquid potest in uentrem matris suæ iterato introire, et renasci?” quamdiu, inquam, aliquis ita quærit, uel hac una re, se non idoneum doctrinæ Christi discipulum reddit, etiam si abunde ei adsint reliqua omnia, quæ iudicium rationis humanæ in discipulo requirit, quemadmodum hoc Nicodemi exemplum ostendit, qui quo magis quæreret, et ^sdubitaret, eo tardior ad ^tintelligendum, atque obtusior est factus, ut tandem ne terrena quidem (quod ei Christus obijcit, satis perciperet, nedum cœlestia. ex quo, quid impediatur, quominus quis idoneus Christi discipulus fiat, quid contra adiumento sit, facile intelligere possumus. Sed quid hæc ego nunc ad te, qui non de baptismo, sed de Eucharistia a nobis dissentire profiteris? ut nimirum, cum nos asseramus corpus, et sanguinem Christi sub specie panis, et uini a sacerdote consecrati uere, ac re ipsa contineri: tu contra, hæc signa tantum esse, idque ex scripturæ et Christi uerbis constare affirmes, ostendam, te non idoneum doctrinæ Christi discipulum, ac multo minus doctorem esse posse. Id autem nonne satis probauero, si ^uad ea, quæ iam dixi, addam, te, cum minus malitia corruptus uidebare, idem, quod nos sensisse; tum uero sententiam mutasse, cum iam per iurus palam esses factus, cum impurior uita accederet. An his te artibus in lectione scripturæ profecisse putas, ut abditos sensus uideres, quos ante non uideras? nonne uel hoc unum satis

uidetur ad probandum te minime dignum cui fides habeatur, novos sensus afferenti, sed hoc potius putandum, si quid antea recte intellexeris, hanc tibi lucem, ueritatemque impuræ uitæ sordibus ereptum, malitiaque mentem tuam esse obcœcatam? Atque ita sane res habet, “quia initio cum cognouisses Deum, ^{Rom 1} non sicut Deum glorificasti,” aut gratias egesti, primum in passionibus ignominia a diuina iustitia merito es traditus, deinde in reprobum sensum, qui sensus in primis hic est, quem sequeris de sacramento corporis Christi, quo sensu nihil potest esse magis reprobum, atque (id quidem in te) non modo grauissimum est peccatum, sed pœna etiam maxima peccati. Hæc, inquam, non satis esse debent, ad persuadendum, ne tibi ipse credas in nouis sensibus diuinæ scripturæ probandis, atque sectandis, ac multo minus cæteri? Sed hæc nolo satis sint, quin addam, etiam si anteacta uita tua in conspectu hominum probata esset (quod de nonnullis hæreticis fertur) etiam si studiosissimus esse scripturarum, si ^x cupidissimus ueritatis, si ingenio ^y plurimum ualeres, tamen hæc omnia in hac doctrina sacramenti altaris, si unum illud abesset, ut quæ a Christo, et ecclesia de eo sunt tradita, ita acciperes quemadmodum paruulus solet ^z, quæ a magistris, et parentibus sibi traduntur, nihil omnino prodesse, atque hoc amplius dico, nisi hæc ita acciperes, ut iumentum solet a domino suo pabulum, nunquam profecto ea intelligeres, ut postea ex scripturis ostendam. Tuus igitur iste error inde oritur, quod tu, ut sapiens ^a et prudens hæc audis: talibus uero doctrinæ suæ mysteriæ esse abscondita, lætatus est Christus, atque exultauit. Dico autem te, ut sapientem ^b et prudentem hæc audire, quia ^c si in hoc altaris sacramento dicatur esse non uerum corpus, sed signum, et figuram tantum ueri corporis Christi, ut tu affirmas, iam non solum Judæis, sed omnibus etiam mundi sapientibus, nihil absurde dici uideatur. Cum enim Judæi, cum sapientes audiunt, panem illum, et uinum converti in corpus et sanguinem Christi; id illis ^d ita uidetur absurdum, ut nihil ab humano ingenio excogitari possit absurdus. Tu uero, scilicet ut sapiens doctor, ad hoc absurdum tollendum, sic rem interpretaris, ut dicas, panem, et uinum esse tantum signa, quibus admonemur mortis^e, quam Christus pro nobis passus est. Ita omne quidem absurdum tollitur, at illud tolli^f certe non potest, quod tanquam fundamentum totius religionis^g nostræ positum est, Christum filium Dei pro peccatis nostris in cruce esse mortuum. Atqui hunc non esse uerum de sacramento corporis, et sanguinis Christi sensum, uel hoc ipsum declarat, quod is humanæ rationi magis accommodatus est. Paulus enim Apostolus cum de uerbo crucis loquitur, non minus ueretur Judæorum, et gentium offensionem in ijs, quæ ad fidem spectant, tollere, quam in iis, quæ ad mores pertinent, afferre. negat enim “ se docuisse in persuasibilibus humanæ sapientiæ uerbis, ne euacuaretur crux Christi,” hoc est, ne tolleretur scandalum, atque offensio, quæ sapientibus, et prudentibus huius mundi ex ea doctrina oriebatur. Hinc apparet, quo pacto non modo scandalum non uitauerit, sed necessarium esse duxerit, ne inanis fieret eius prædicatio. Fit autem inanis, ut eius uerba, quæ sequuntur, ostendunt, cum mysterium crucis, et passionis Christi ita prædicatur, ut neque Judæis scandalum, neque Græcis, id est, huius mundi sapientibus, stultitia esse uideatur. Quod si dixeris^h, non de cruce, et morte Christi, sed de eius corpore, quodⁱ nos sub specie panis et uini continere^k asserimus, nunc agi, at illud negare non poteris, si Christo, cum uenisset in mundum, propositum hoc fuit, ut perderet sapientiam sapientum, et prudentiam prudentum reprobareret; id quidem multo magis fieri, cum docetur, eius corpus nobis sub specie panis manducandum dari, quam cum idem, qui Deus esset, et homo in cruce pro humani generis salute mortuus esse traditur. hæc enim doctrina non ita perdit hominum sapientiam, et prudentiam, quia non ita^l stultitia ijs uidetur, ut qui ante crederent, Deos se humana specie in terris ostendisse: nam si illud uidetur absurdum, Dei filium mortem pro hominum salute pertulisse, at homines sæpe extitisse, qui sese^m pro aliorum salute deuouerint, idque dig-num laude habitum fuisse gentiliūⁿ historiæ tradunt. Itaque cum proprium Dei sit, benigne facere, si Deus aliquis, hominis forma, naturaque suscepta hoc idem pro humani generis salute passus diceretur; ne id quidem ab humano sensu atque intellectu prorsus alienum uideretur. Ergo non ita Christus hac doctrinæ parte, qua eius mors prædicatur, humanam sapientiam, et prudentiam perdidit: at cum traditur^o, sub specie panis, et uini contineri uerum ipsius corpus, quod cruci affixum fuit, et sanguinem, quem pro nobis effudit, hic uero stupet tam sensus, quam intellectus. hoc utriusque captum longe superat. Quod si Christus lætatus est, doctrinæ suæ mysteria sapientibus, et prudentibus esse abscondita, et reuelata paruulis; ecquid illum magis quam hoc delectare potuit? quod quidem nemo credat unquam, nisi qui paruulus, et tanquam iumentum efficiatur: lætatus est autem Christus, atque ut ait Euangelista, exaltauit in spiritu, propterea quod ex ijs, quæ docuerat, uideret iam quasi initium uictoriæ uerbi sui contra humanam sapientiam, et prudentiam, cum paruuli, qui ad eius disciplinam dociles erant, undique ad ipsum confluerent, sapientes autem, et prudentes offensi auerterentur. qua de re gratias egit patri, idque antequam uenisset hora, qua corpus et sanguinem suum sub specie panis et uini discipulis manducandum, et bibendum daret. quæ hora postquam uenisset, quasi adesset illa, quam diu optauerat, perfecta uerbi sui uictoria, “tum discipulis, Desiderio, inquit, de-

Luc. 22 sideraui hoc pascha manducare uobiscum, antequam moriar,” ac de quo prius patri gratias egerat, cum hanc ipsam uictoriam prospiceret, de eo tunc rursus eidem gratias agens pane, et calice in manus sumpto, sic uerbo uicit, ut panem, ac uinum, in corpus et sanguinem suum admirabili sua ui et potentia conuersum discipulis id ipsum credentibus in cibum, et potum daret, quæ quidem perfecta fuit uerbi crucis uictoria. Tunc enim Christus plane perfecit, quod Apostolus de uictoria uerbi, deque potestate sibi, ut uerbi ministro concessa ait, “Arma militiæ meæ non carnalia
2 Cor. 10. sunt, sed potentia Dei ad destructionem munitionum, consilia destruentes, et omnem altitudinem extollentem se aduersus scientiam Dei, et in captiuitate redigentes omnem intellectum in obsequium Christi.” Quod quidem in nulla alia Christi doc-trinæ parte plane profectum fuerat, antequam uentum esset ad hoc sacramentum, quod ideo sacramentum sacramentorum appellatur, quia ad ipsum tanquam ad finem reliqua omnia sacramenta referuntur. At hoc dices à nobis excogitatum fuisse, ad scripturam scilicet, prouocans. Ego uero te ideo scripturas ignorare dixi, quia ostendis, te consilium, ac uoluntatem Dei in eis minime intelligere, quod quidem non omnibus datur, quinimo nulli datur, nisi Christi amicis, ut ipse paulo ante mortem Apostolis declarauit, qui ex seruis facti iam erant eius amici. Sic enim ait, “Jam non dico uos seruos, sed amicos: seruus enim non nouit uoluntatem Domini sui, uobis autem, quæcumque audiui a patre meo, omnia nota feci.” Atque id tum dixit, cum, ultima cœna peracta, corpus, et sanguinem suum in cibum illis et potum dedisset, et quidem reuelato hoc mysterio, quo uno reliqua omnia mysteria continerentur^p, tempus erat, ut hoc diceret, quod antequam nunquam dixerat. Discipulis autem suis datum esse, quod aliis erat negatum, ut mysteria regni Dei intelligerent, ostendit Christus, cum sententiam cuiusdam parabolæ eis explicans dixit, “Vobis datum est nosse mysteria regni cœlorum, cæteris autem in parabolis, ut uidentes non uideant, et audientes non intelligant.” Tu igitur cum in hoc sacramento ex ipsa re parabolam facis, ostendis, te nec rem, nec parabolam nosse, longeque ab eorum spiritu abesse, quibus datum est, ut Christi doctrinæ mysteria cognoscant. atque hi quidem sunt, qui eius consilium, et uoluntatem nouerunt. ad huius autem mysterii, et sacramenti cognitionem his gradibus peruenitur, ut primum quis tanquam iumentum, deinde ut seruus, siue puer, qui nihil differt a seruo, tandem uero ut amicus fiat. primum gradum tum Christus significauit, cum recens natus se conspiciendum pastoribus obtulit, qui ad eum quærendum uenerant in Bethleem, quæ domus panis interpretatur, pannisque inuolutum in præsepi inuenerant. Sic enim Christus utcumque significauit, se et natum esse, ut cibus fieret, et salutarem cibum illis fore, qui ad eum, tanquam iumenta ad præsepe accederent, eumque pannis inuolutum inuenirent, sed tanquam iudices, et acres huius mysterii perscrutatores, hi omnes corpus quidem Christi manducant, et sanguinem bibunt, sed in iudicium sibi manducant, et bibunt. hoc modo te iam pridem ad altare uenisse, qui ante ut iumentum, et paruulus uniuersam Ecclesiam sequens accesseras, noua hæc sententia, quam sequeris ostendit. Nam cum sensum, et intellectum tuum excitasti, ut de hoc sacramento ipse iudicares, inueniens humanis auribus id magis probari, quod a quibusdam dicitur, in signum ueri corporis et sanguinis Christi hoc sacramentum nobis esse datum, sensum iumentum et paruuli amisisti, atque in reprobum sensum eo traditus, id quod omnibus accidit, qui, quod Apostolus monet faciendum esse ab ijs, qui hoc sacramentum accipiunt, non obseruant, ut annunciant mortem Domini donec ueniat. qui^q quidem de pane illo edentes, et de calice bibentes, iudicium sibi manducant et bibunt, et rei sunt corporis et sanguinis Christi, et eo quidem magis, quam uel Judas fuerit, qui Christum prodidit, uel Judæi, qui cruci affixerunt, quo maius est scelus, Christum post partam corporis sui contra mortem uictoriam, etenim tollere, quam ante cum corpus mortale gereret. Ideo autem in hoc tu scelus una cum cæteris, qui nouam impiam doctrinam sectantur, incidisti, quia, cum corpus Christi acciperes, non ita accepisti, ut Paulus Apostolus docet, ab ijs accipi oportere; qui salutarem fructum ex eo sunt percepturi, ut scilicet mortem Domini annuncient donec ueniat. Annunciant autem, qui Petri optimi horum uerborum interpretis^r hoc præceptum sequuntur, “Christo igitur passo in carne, et uosⁱ Pet. 4. eadem cogitatione armamini, quia qui passus est in carne, desijt a peccatis, ut iam non desiderijs hominum, sed uoluntati Dei, quod reliquum est in carne uiuat temporis.” Tu uero non uoluntati Dei, sed hominum desiderijs te totum adduxisti, quo circa tantum abest, ut^s ipse te mortem Domini annunciaueris^t, ut illum iam a morte excitatum, et uitam hominum factum (quod nec Judas, nec Judæi fecerint) prodere, et cruci affixum e terris tollere conatus^u sis; idque postquam ipse^x Christus per hanc doctrinam ijs, qui mortem eius digne annunciant, in cibum se ad immortalem uitam adipiscendam conseruandamque dederit. At hic te defendas, me accusabis, quod recte sententiam et opinionem tuam interpreter. Nec enim te negare, Christum se nobis in cibum dedisse, in quo scripturæ ^yuerba sunt aperta, faterique in hoc sacramento corpus, et sanguinem Christi a nobis sumi, uerum fide tantum, et in spiritu, Christum enim in cœlo esse, non sub specie panis et uini, quæ signa tantum sunt eius corporis, et sanguinis, nobis ab eo relicta in commemorationem mortis, quam ipse pro nobis in cruce pertulit, quod uerba illa significant, Hoc facite in meam commemorationem. Hæc quidem probabiliter dici uidentur, partimque uera sunt, partim uero ita falsa, atque impie dicta, ut nihil sit, quod omnem Christi doctrinam magis evertat; nam quo id probabilius dici uidetur, hoc perniciosius est, quod tu quidem pertinaciter ita defendis, ut non uerearis idololatriæ eos omnes condemnare, qui in hoc sacramento uerum Christi corpus adesse affirmant, et adorant. An si cogites, quod dicas, et quibus tantum crimen obijcias, non dicti tui te pudent? Non totus horreas? Si Deus idololatriæ crimine semper in quouis hominum genere maxime est offensus, quanto idem magis offenderetur, si id illi admitterent, qui profitentur se eius filij doctrinam sequi, quem ipse ad omnem idololatriam tollendam e cœlo in terras demisit! an non si in cæteris hoc crimen graue admodum semper fuit, in iis esset longe grauissimum, qui Christi nomine hoc sacramentum cæteris administrant, ipsique suscipient? neque enim id tu uulgo tantum, sed omnibus ^zsacerdotibus et episcopis, ^aquicunque in ecclesia Christi extiterunt, obijcis, ut aut sua sponte illi, ac scientes idololatræ fuerint, aut cum tantum ij quidem idololatriam admitterent, eandemque cæteris sequendam proponerent, tamen id se facere ignorarent. quantæ uero hæ tenebræ fuissent, annon crassiores non modo tenebris Judæorum, qui scientes idololatriam admittebant, sed Ægyptiorum, qui cum idololatriæ dediti essent, in eo se peccare ignorabant? at nos, qui ueri cultus et religionis lucem a Christo Dei filio nobis oblatam, accepisse profiteamur, in idololatria tot secula uersati sumus, neque id unquam sensimus? profer, si potes, uel unum iam inde ab ipso ecclesiæ primordio, qui unquam idololatriæ ob eam causam damnatus sit, quod corpus, et sanguinem Christi in sa-

Quid ergo? an uerus scripturarum sensus hac tantum ætate patuit, qui semper antea latuisset? an cum illæ ab omnibus passim tegerentur, nemo eas ad hanc diem in tanta re intellexit? aut si quis intellexit, quid tandem est, quod in tam longo tempore, ex tot sanctis, et doctis uiris, ex omni hominum genere nemo sit inuentus, qui eius modi idololatriam uel deprehenderit, uel deprehensam ^darguerit? plus ^hquam cæteri uides? an non potius cum id audeas contra tantum, perpetuumque totius ecclesiæ consensum asserere, quo maiorem ueritatis lucem tibi oblatam existimas, hoc te maioribus circumfusum tenebris, atque in reprobum sensum plane traditum esse ostendis? sic quidem est; in has uero tenebras tum scilicet incidisti, cum sapiens in scripturis interpretandis uideri noluisti. Tua autem hæc fuit sapientia, ut ecclesiæ sententiam, quæ ab omni sensu, et intellectu humano plane abhorret, dum credit, et credendum proponit, sub specie panis, et uini in sacramento altaris non uerum esse corpus, et sanguinem Christi, asperneris, atque reijcias, aliamque sequaris probabilem, et humanæ rationi accommodatam, cum ais, hæc signa tantum esse, quæ quidem sententia humano sensui facile probatur, sed a spiritus Dei sensu ita est aliena, ut ei nihil magis repugnare possit. quod omnes facile norunt, qui diuini huius spiritus non sunt expertes, quod nouit ecclesia, quæ ab hoc ipso spiritu regitur, ea uero nullos unquam grauiores hostes habuit in ijs, quæ ipsa credit a Dei Spiritu edocta, quam illos, qui iudicium intellectus, et sensus humani secuti sunt. In primo enim fidei nostræ articulo, quo Deum ex nihilo omnia creasse asseritur, aduersarios habuit philosophos omnes. in eo autem, quod fundamentum Christianæ religionis est, quo profitemur nos credere in Jesum Christum filium Dei, Deum uerum ex Deo uero, et consubstantialem patri, ecquem grauiorem aduersarium habuit, quam eum, qui ex Platonica philosophia sumptis armis contendit, Christum, etsi Deum, non tamen æqualem patri sed minorem esse, et creaturam? Quantas uero hæc hæresis turbas commouerit, et quam grauius uniuersam ecclesiam exagitauerit, nimis constat, quæ quidem eo magis uenit, quo altiores radices egerat, nixa humani iudicij rationisque fundamentis. Fuerunt præterea, qui ecclesiæ sententiam hac de re secuti, faterentur quidem Christum Deum uerum de Deo uero, et patri prorsus æqualem, sed quo magis hoc affirmabant, eo absurdus putarunt, illum uere passum fuisse; atque ideo corpus ei quoddam phantasticum attribuerunt. at quia contra hanc hæresim nimis aperta erant testimonia, et eorum, qui cum Christo ipso essent uersati, et omnium, qui de eius passione et morte scripsissent, ea plane reiecta fuit, atque explosa, sicuti multe eiusmodi aliæ. Quæ iccirco commemoravi, ut ostenderem, hæreses omnes ab eodem humanæ rationis fonte effluxisse, dum eam tantum homines, spiritu Dei, et ecclesiæ sensu relicto, sequuntur. hinc manavit ⁱprimorum nostrorum parentum error, quos hac uia, et ratione serpens fefellit, ab eis, tanquam Dei præcepti iudices essent, quærens, “ Cur ^{Gen 2} præcepit uobis Deus, ut non comederetis ex omni ligno paradisi?” simulque eorum sensum excitans, quo se ad aspiciendam arborem, quæ erat prohibita, conuerterent, cuius poma, ut ad aspectum pulchra, atque iucunda uidebantur, sic ratio ad gustandum suavia esse ostendebat. atque ita rationis, et sensus humani iudicium eos a iudicio, et sensu spiritus in præcepto Dei perpendendo abduxit, ex quo peccatum intrauit in mundum, et per peccatum mors. cum autem uellet Deus opt: a peccato et morte hominem liberare, statuit, ut quemadmodum cum cibus perderat, ita cibus seruaret, sed talis, qualem sensus, atque intellectus plane ignorarent, qui priore cibo probato humani generis perdendi causa fuerant. Itaque tantum abest, ut de hoc cibo recte ab his quicquam iudicari possit, ut qui uelint fructum ex ipso capere, eos oporteat, omni sensu atque intellectu ^kcaptiuato, ad eum sumendum accedere, nihil ambigentes, nihil quærentes, sed desiderium tantummodo afferentes diuini huius cibi, quo uitam spiritualem tueri possint. Quare ubi Christus de eo ^{Joan 6} apud Joannem euangelistam loquitur, omnia eius uerba huc spectant, ut fidem, et desiderium illius excitet, fidem ex miraculo ^lmanni è cælo demissi, quod cælestem eius carnem significabat; desiderium ex eo, quod non breuis, et caduca, sed æterna uita, quam omnes maxime expetant, hoc cibo comparatur. In eo autem sermone Christus ^mtria uidetur habuisse auditorum ⁿgenera, unum eos, qui ipsum cibi causa, quam eis dedisset, sequebantur; alterum eos, qui curioso quodam ^ostudio, illum

Quod Judæi cum audiissent, tum magis murmurare cœperunt, remque humanæ rationis, et sensus iudicio perpendentes, inter se quærere. “ Quomodo potest hic carnem suam nobis dare ad manducandum ? at s̄Christus huic eorum murmurationi non alia ratione occurrit, nisi at t̄idem reciteret, ac magis magisque ūaffirmaret, “ Amen, Amen, dico uobis, nisi manducaueritis carnem filij hominis, et biberitis ejus sanguinem, non habebitis uitam in

Tales nimirum in illo Christi sermone se se ^zostenderunt reliqui omnes eius auditores præter Apostolos. Talibus scandalum ex Christi uerbis augetur, quo magis horum sententia explicatur, sicut ostendit eorum exemplum quorum offensio ijs, quæ Christus adiunxit, non modo non imminuta est, sed ita aucta, ut ab eo tandem recederunt, cuius rei causam ipse docuit, quia scilicet non crederent. Hæc erant autem, quibus illi offendebantur. quod Christus se e cœlo descendisse ^adiceret, et in cibum carnem suam daturum, quam qui manducarent, æternam vitam consequerentur. Huic eorum offensionem Christus occurrens, Hoc inquit, uos scandalizat? Si ergo uideritis filium hominis ascendentem, ubi erat prius? non ne scilicet id argumento erit, me de cœlo descendisse, nec hominem tantummodo esse, sed etiam Deum? Quomodo autem ipsius caro comedenda esset, et edentibus vitam daret, declarat, cum addit, spiritum esse, diuinum scilicet, qui eius carni coniunctus, hanc sumentibus æternam uitam det, modo uerbis eius fidem habeant, quæ credentibus spiritus et uita sunt. At Judæi, post hanc eorum, quæ dixerat, explicationem, quia fide carebant, duriores effecti sunt, eumque statim reliquerunt. Sic enim est apud Evangelistam, "et multi discipulorum eius abierunt retro, et iam non

QUOD nullam adhuc grati animi significationem ob acceptum beneficium fecerim, vereor ne quid de me mali suspiceris. Nam cum tanta tua in me fuit benevolentia, quantam in nemine adhuc sensi, valde dubito, ne magnitudo tuorum in me meritorum id quod negligentiae crimen vix effugere possit in majoris sceleris periculum volet. Nam ut in omnibus rebus naturaliter evenire videmus, ut quæque res sit affecta ita plerumque se statim ostendat, sic a gratis animis beneficij accepti aliqua significatio haud multo post subsequi debeat. Præsertim si hujusmodi sit in quo singularis benevolentiae insigne argumentum extitit. Nam cujus animus in recenti beneficio languescit illum diuturnam beneficij memoriam retinere non est verisimile. Hæc me valde perturbant, et eo magis quod ab hoc vitio quam longissime abesse desidero cujus suspicione meâ culpâ non omnino careo. Ut enim aliæ meæ res sese habeant, optimorum virorum gratiâ multum adjutus sum, ut omittam singularem Cantuariensis Munificentiam, quam in me multis annis sine ullo meo merito exercuit. Chæci vero tam egregius animus et constans voluntas in me fuit, cum id nec ullâ officiorum necessitudine nec familiaritatis conjunctione effectum sit, an ejus virtuti et singulari humanitati id tribuere debeam aut deorum voluntati et meæ fortunæ non facile dicere possum. Sed de tua benevolentia quid dicam quâ omnes meas fortunas et amicorum studia complexus es. Nam quod illi mihi cupiebant id tu solus reluctantibus inimicis, confecisti. Quare sicut

Festino enim ut ante hiemem in Galliam revertar, earumque rerum cognitione me instruam, quarum mihi olim in Anglia usus esse posset. Hanc enim patriam non minus diligo, quam si in ea natus essem, cumque de studiorum meorum fine cogito, non minus Angliam quam Germaniam mihi propono. Quidquid igitur Regia Majestas hoc tempore in me contulerit, id mihi loco arcissimi vinculi erit, quo me in totam reliquam vitam huic regno obligatum arbitrabor. Benè et fæliciter Vale.

MILES WILSON TO SECRETARY CECYL, LAMENTING THE SPOILS

PITALS. TO WHICH ARE ADDED HIS ARGUMENTS AGAINST THIS SACRILEGE^z.

Ornatissimo Clarissimoque Viro Gulielmo Cecilio, Regio Consiliario prudentissimo, et Literarum patrono maximo.

Cum in Aula nuper essem, vir Ornatissime, et sermones cum tua dominatione cederem de multis variisque rebus, partim ad Christi religionem propagandam, partim ad remp. conservandam ac augendam imprimis pertinentibus; tradidi (ut scis) tibi lectitandam Orationem quandam de rebus ecclesiæ non diripiendis, a me superioribus hisce diebus confectam, et in publicis academiæ scholis recitatam, in præsentem causæ defensionem quæ jam tum tractabatur in publica disputatione. Sed cum animadverterem te hominem in gravissimis Reip. negotijs semper occupatissimum, nec tum satis quietum fuisse ad^b mea perlegendum opus, paulo longius quam pro tantillo spacio temporis, cumque te percupidum esse intelligebam audiendi et videndi quid de tam inusitato argumento ex sacris scripturis proferri potuisset, existimabam me et te tuo paululum posse levare onere, et etiam ea tecum communicare, quorum particeps fieri vehementer cupidus mihi videbare, si ea in angustas et concisas argumentandi formas conjicerem, quæ ibi fusius ac liberiore Orationis cursu jam tum prosequebar. Itaque ex eo tempore racionia nonnulla et sillogismos contexui, 221 eorum longitudinem, et infinitas tuas occupationes legere non liceret, saltem hæc brevia dialecticorum consecraria quæ sequuntur cum vacet inspectares. Cujus mei laboris me fructum satis magnum percepisse arbitrabor, si tantum apud tuam dominationem effecerint, ut quæ Scholæ percelebres sint nuper dirutæ in Academiæ ruinam maximam, hæc tuo labore extrui mandentur: ut quæ Sacerdotia sunt miserè despoliata per avaros patronos ad acerbissimum ecclesiæ vulnus ea restituantur in integram ad incredibile reip. decus; ut que Hospitia delumbata fuerint perditè, ac extirpata funditus per importunitatem non ferendam cupidorum hominum, ea quantum fieri potest per te adjuventur apud concilium Regium, quo ad pristinum redeant statum nempe in subsidium verè pauperum.

Valeant enim valeant Academiæ perexiguæ nunc certè, sed brevi futuræ nullæ, si earum nutrices, scholæ, negligantur, Seminarium et seges florentis academiæ. Ut enim mare citò exarescit non influentibus undiquaque rivulis ac fluminibus: sic absorbebuntur statim academiæ, et in nihilum recident si ex scholis aditus illis præcludantur, sic ut illinc ad Academiæ nullus aut quam paucissimi commeant. Doctrina omnis generis conticescet, papismi regnum, et plusquam Gothicus barbarismus omnia pervadet loca, si non eruditis melius, quam jam est consulatur, si præmia eruditionis, rectoriæ, præbendæ, et omnia auferantur. An dimicabit miles stipendium si negetur? An tellurem proscindet aut bos aut arator si pabulum illis non satis abundè præbeatur? An trajiciet mare mercator spe questus omni sublatâ? An terra profundet herbas, imbribus non depluta? An molendinum ^d mollere possit, si alveum interturbes et aliorum cursum ejus vortas? Nequaquam certè. Sic neque quisquam acrioribus studijs doctrinæ operam navabit, nisi ager suus aliquo quasi rore amœno irrigetur, et præmijs ac muneribus condignis feriatur. summo Angliæ Cancellario ; cui, te absente, consarcinata multa obtuli vel ab Episcopo Eboracensi apud quem etiam ista omnia diligentissimè explorata deposui. Tua dominatio novit oppidum haud pròcul a nobis dissitum, nomine Childerlay; hic una generosa domus sed hic multum degener, (quæ est Magistri Cuttles) exedit universum oppidum, nè unâ quidem domunculâ relictâ, excepta suâ domo ; hic quia desunt homines quos templum capiat, recipiuntur equi, quos pro hominibus templum pro stabulo contineat : et quia triticum domini non est quod in tectum recipiatur, i. e. homines Christiani, recipitur hordeum et avena, et stramentum omnis generis. Sic oves Christi minuuntur, sic pecudes augentur, sic perit bonus pastor, et pastoris virtus : sic templum partim fit horreum pro frugibus condendis, partim vero stabulum pro custodiendis equis.

Argumenta hic subjungo quæ prius pollicitus fueram. Longior sum quam vellem, sed magnitudo causarum, et zelus huc me vel invitum produxit. Quare ignoscet spero tua dominatio cui omnia prosperrima in Domino precor. 3^o Februarij 1552.

^f Argumenta, quibus ostenditur impium esse, bona ecclesiæ ab ecclesijs divelli. 222

Quicquid Domino consecratum est in usum sacratissimi sui ministerij sive homo sive animal, sive ager fuerit nec vendi potest, nec redimi a quoquam. 27. Levitici. I.

Levit. 27.

Bona ecclesiastica ut aurum, argentum, ædes, prædia, domino consecrantur in usum sacri ministerij.

Ergo, bona ecclesiastica nec vendi, nec coemi possunt. Et per consequens nec auferri nec mutari debent. Minor liquet. Nunquam enim agrorum possessores agris suis et bonis ecclesias dotassent suos exhæredando, nisi ut ministris dei abunde prospiceretur, in ministerium suum probe incumbentibus. Ac 2^o, communia facientes omnia.

Quod nostrum non est abripere nefas est, et contra justitiam omnem, quæ est virtus sua cuique tribuens. 2.

^f [The rest is in a different hand, and on a fresh sheet.]

Bona ecclesiæ nostra non sunt, nullius sunt quam & Christi, cui dicata et donata sunt.

Ergo iniquum est bona ecclesiæ diripere quovis modo.

Levit. 27.

Probatur minor tum lege divinâ, tum imperatoriâ. Quicquid enim fuerit consecratum sanctum sanctorum erit Domino. Domino dicabitur et non redimetur. Et jure civili quæ domini juris sunt, ea in nullius bonis computanda sunt.

3. Quod cum lege naturæ pugnat legitimum non est.

Divellere terras sacerdotum cum lege naturæ pugnat.

Ergo eas divellere legitimum non est. Minoris probatio.

Gen. 47.

Pharao sub lege naturali vivens, non patiebatur terras et possessiones suis adimi sacerdotibus, aut allevari pretio ullo; sentiens secundum naturam id maximè esse ut indè viverent undè laborarent.

Prætereà ex horreis publicis gratuitò aluit sacerdotes, cum suæ res parum sufficerent sibi.

Et cum omnem terram Ægypti quintas pendere coegit Joseph, unicas sacerdotum terras exemit, quas liberandas censuit omni dura conditione.

4. Nemo civis bonus est qui ex communibus privata facit qui non magis communitati studet quam proprijs adaugendis commodis.

Qui opes ecclesiasticas et prædia sacra distrahunt ex communibus privata faciunt, sua commoda quærunt, publicum negligunt bonum.

Ergo, qui ecclesiæ bona abstrahunt civium bonorum numero ponendi non sunt, sed civitatis eversores et reip. putandi sunt.

5. In omni bene administrata rep. semper summa cura fuit religionis conservandæ et bonarum artium.

Direptio bonorum ecclesiæ et religionem quatefacit, imo demolitur et artes bonas vigere impedit.

223 Ergo direptio opum ecclesiasticarum in benè temperata rep. consistere nequit.

Minor ostenditur. quod nullus in vinea Domini opus faciet portans pondus et æstum diei, nec in præmijs hujuscemodi ætatem suam conteret, nisi præmio ad laborem aliquo concitetur ; Nullus artes consecrabitur ingenuas sublatis illis præsijs unde sustentarentur : Honos enim alit artes. Nec triturbabit bos, si obligetur os, nec pastor pascet oves, si de lacte non bibat, nec militabit miles, si stipendium subtraxeris nec in vinea faciet opus qui de denario non conducitur.

Si conferatur nostra respub. cum Judæorum quæ per Dominum nostrum instituta est, minus reperietur nostris ministris dari, quam veteris testamenti Levitis fuerat deputatum. Nam numerorum 3^o. Levitarum viginti duo millia tantum recensentur, qui tabernaculo Domini tum temporis inserviebant. Et hic exiguus numerus universas per omnem Judeam decimas, primitias, oblationes recepit in viaticum et victum suum, cum 48 urbibus atque suis suburbanis locis ad tria circumcirca milliaria.

At nostrorum ministrorum numerus quadruplo major est, ut apparet ex parrochiarum limitacione et numero. * 50 enim cum * Quid per hanc notam, Quære a. duobus Templis vulgariter connumerantur hic in Anglia, et duo ad minimum in singulis sacerdotes sunt, omnibus simul collatis.

Ergo cum solum decimas recipiant sacerdotes Anglicani idque immunitas et delumbatas valdè, non detractio sed additio potius facienda esset, si par ratio utrobique retineretur.

Nulla pauperum bona eripienda sunt. Proⁱ pauperibus enim Paulus ubique collectiones facit. 7.

Bona ecclesiæ sunt bona pauperum.

Ergo, bona ecclesiæ eripienda non sunt.

Si diripere aliquid privato sit impium, si commune civitatis ærarium expilare sit nefarium, unde robur et præsidium urbis pendeat ; quanto magis scelestum et iniquum erit capitis nostri Christi bona divellere et ministris ecclesiæ opes despoliare, quæ sunt nervi religionis et spiritualis regni Christi. 8.

At privato detrahere impium est, et gazas urbis exinanire sceleratum mortèque plectendum in omni benè temperata repub.

^h [This quere refers to the first character, which is like an S in the original. It is evidently 5 ; but the passage is difficult to understand, if it means that there were then 52000 churches in England.]

ⁱ [Pro omitted.]

Ergo, scelere carere non potest publica ecclesiæ et Christi capitis bona ad istum modum miserè dilacerare.

9. Qui vendentes in templo et ementes ejecit ipsum templum, et omnia in templo ad vendendum proponentes, impunitos opinor nunquam permittet.

At cum flagello in templo vendentes et ementes ejecit Christus, magno percitus furore.

Ergo, non connivebit ad eos qui omnia diruunt, et ex domo orationis speluncam latronum faciunt.

10. Quæcúnque ad sabbatum rite sanctificandum et celebrandum spectant conservanda et retinenda sunt. Est enim pars Decalogi Sabbati Sanctificatio.

224 Bona ecclesiæ ad sabbatum rite sanctificandum pertinent.

Ergo, bona ecclesiæ integra conservanda sunt. Minor sic probatur.

Sabbatum rite celebratur evangelii prædicatione, Sacramentorum administratione, precum profusione, et pro pauperibus diligenti provisione.

Sed ecclesiastica bona et verbi prædicationem fovent, et Sacramentorum administrationem alunt, et pauperes in ecclesia sublevant, dum eos sustentent ministros qui et hæc peragunt officia, et indigentibus necessaria subministrent.

Ergo, bona ecclesiæ pernecessaria sunt ad festum rite sanctificandum.

11. Unicuique ad perfectionem contendendum est. Estote enim perfecti, sicut pater Vester cælestis perfectus est.

At Christianæ perfectionis est vendere quæ habemus omnia, et pauperibus dispertire. Nam, si vis perfectus esse, Vade et vende omnia, quæ habes, et pauperibus dato.

Ergo de Christo et ecclesia nihil detrahendum, sed pauperibus potius Indies adjiciendum erit.

12. Bonum quò communius è melius, quò multiplicatius è laudatius.

Sed pastores ecclesiæ et episcopi, bonum sunt^k.

Ergo, augendus eorum numerus, non minuendus existit. Ergo, quò plures Episcopi eo rectius est. Et per consequens plures constituendi, potius quam deponendi, et abjiciendi qui nunc constituti sunt.

Major liquet. minor sole clarior est. Nam siquis episcopatum appetit bonum opus desiderat. Certe episcopus esse non potest non esse bonum.

Balthazar graviter punitus est ob vasorum Deo consecratorum direptionem et¹ per profanum eorum usum. 13. Daniel 5.

Achan insigniter plectebatur ob sacrilegam distractionem. Josue 7.

Antiochus horribili mortis genere perit ob impiam sacrorum² Macha. 5. diripiendi voluntatem et conatum.

Lysimachus Lapidibus obruitur propter consimile facinus. 2 Machab. 9.

Heliodorus gravissimis vulneribus conficitur a Deo, quod sacra³ Macha. 4. templi vasa abducere conaretur. Et sic de universo numero Sacrilegorum dici potest.

Ergo, omnes qui Sacrata Deo divellunt gravissimas pœnas expectent oportet.

Sic divus Paulus ratiocinatur. 14.

Sub spe debet is qui arat arare et qui triturat sub spe, spei 1 Cor. 9. sua particeps esse debet.

Ergo, qui in agro Evangelico arat, et qui in area Domini sedulò triturat sub spe percipiendorum fructuum et arare et triturare debent.

At quæ relinquitur spes, cum aufertur res?

Qui non seminant spiritualia carnalia ne metant. 15.

Laici Spiritualia non seminant. Quippe quia nec verbum annunciant nec Sacramenta administrant.

Ergo, laici non debent metere carnalia. iniquum est ut indè 225 quis vivat, undè non Laboret. Et Paulus dicit, qui non laborat non manducet.

Dignus est operarius mercede sua. Ergo qui non operatur, 16. dignus non est. Et per consequens, neganda esset merces non Mat. 10. omninò operanti. Sic pellantur omnes inutiles fuci, sive Laici sive Clerici extiterint, qui alienis insidiantur laboribus, quique mel exugunt omne, parùm aut nihil mellis relinquentes hijs, qui verè apes sunt, valdéque laboriosæ.

17. Dominus ordinavit, ut qui Evangelium annuntiant, ex Evangelio vivant.

Ergo è contrario, de Evangelio nè victitent, qui Evangelium aut nolunt, aut non possunt denuntiare.

18. Paulus inter Ecclesiasticos ita se gerebat, ut gratis panem a nemine acciperet, sed cum labore et sudore nocte diéque faciebat opus, nè cuiquam eorum oneri foret.

Præcepit item illis, Ut si quis nollet operari, is nec ederet.

Ergo, quâ conscientîâ de ecclesiasticis bonis vivere illi possunt, de prebendarum fructibus, de rectorijs, de hospicijs de episcoporum patrimonijs et reliquis ecclesiæ proventibus, qui nullo ministerio ecclesiastico inserviunt, nec prædicando evangelium, nec sacramenta exhibendo, nec ecclesiasticam disciplinam, ut par est, exercendo?

19. Qui bene^m præsent presbiteri, duplici honore digni sunt, maximè qui laborant in verbo et doctrina. Qui duplex honos duplicatum designat subsidium, et ut putavit Theophilactus, abundans, præter stipendium commune.

Ergo, tribuatur hic duplex honos sedulis ministris, nec ita minuantur quotidie victus eorum, ut sibi et suis parùm sufficiant in propria vocatione et munijs obeundis.

20. Quæ sunt militibus stipendia, ea sunt bona ecclesiæ et earum ministris.

Sed militibus stipendia detrahare iniquum est. Ergo, iniquum bona ecclesiæ.

21. Vinitori fructum et vinum, opilioni lac, agricolæ fruges eripere non licet. Sed quod vinitori vinum, opilioni lac, agricolæ fruges, id ecclesijs opes suæ.

Eas ergo subducere, et hijs vitæ adjumentis fraudare Verbi ministros nullam profectò habet æquitatem.

Ministris ecclesiæ omnia ad vivendum necessaria suppeditanda sunt. 22.
1 Tim. 3.

Necessaria autem definitio, quæ sibi, uxori, liberis familiæ satis sunt, quæque hospitalitati servandæ et exhibendæ sufficiunt peregrinis, egentibus, mancis claudis cœcis, decrepitis, orphanis et viduis. Deut. 25. 1 Cor. 7. 1 Tim. 3.

Ergo, bona ecclesijs aliquando deputata, adimenda non sunt: ne fortè his singulis satis relinquatur, et ita necessarijs vitæ 226 præsijs despolientur hi, quos Spiritus Sanctus præcepit ut de ecclesiæ viverent.

Qui ecclesiæ bona spoliant hij ministros verbi et Dei spoliant. 23.

Qui ministros Dei spoliant hij Christum ipsum despoliant. nam quod uni horum feceritis, et mihi feceritis.

Ergo ecclesiæ bona diripere est Christum ipsum et ejus ministros victu suo defraudare, et Christi tunicam ac patrimonium in partes dissecare, quod quam horribile sit sacrilegij genus omnes pij norunt.

Irritum esse non debet quod testator piè et secundùm scripturas testamento suo condidit. At multi pij morientes testamentis legaverunt sua bona ecclesijs in earum necessarios usus. 24.
Gal. 4.

Ergo impium est hoc spernere testamentum vel frustrari quovis modo, sic ut surripiatur avarè quod munificè quod sanctè præbitum fuerat.

In nascenti ecclesia Christi, apostolorum in temporibus pij terras et possessiones et omnia vendiderant ut pauperibus ut publicantibus evangelium abundè prospiceretur. 25.
Ac. 2.

Ergo jam diu donata et ad longum tempus confirmata ecclesijs in hos ipsos usus nec vi nec dolo rapienda sunt ut conferantur in eos, qui nec paupertate ulla premuntur nec ullo ministerio sacro ecclesijs deserviunt.

ⁿ [This reference is in another hand. The three references are given in the margin by Strype.] ^o [et]

26. Ac. 5. Quod vel promittitur, vel destinatur in usum ecclesiæ subtrahendum non est nec callidè submovendum. id quod probatur ex Anania et Sapphira 5^o actoum^p duo horrenda exempla.
At bona ecclesiarum destinantur in maximè necessarios usus in sustentationem pauperum et in subsidium ministrorum.
Ergo non astu non vi avellenda sunt dicta ecclesiæ bona nè fortè id avellentibus accidat quod Ananiæ et Sapphiræ supra eveniebat.
27. 2 Mac. 1. 3. 9. Qui templum Ierosolumitanum spoliaverunt^q pœnas Sacrilegij gravissimas luebant 2 Mac 1^o.^r
Ergo^s qui Christianorum templa diruunt ac despoliant, et ex illis ut scopis omnia everrunt, impunè nunquam opinor ferent.
28. Est in hijs abusus. reformentur ergo.
Alunt Superstitionem. nutriant ergo exin veram et sinceram Christi religionem.
Indignis tribuuntur ecclesiæ prædia, ergo dignioribus concedantur, fuci pellantur, telluris inutile pondus.
29. Homicidæ putantur qui violentas manus injiciunt in alienum corpus et illi vitam corporis eripiunt. Ergo erunt multò magis qui pabulo cœlestis doctrinæ animas piorum orbant atque destituunt sic ut æternum pereant quod Laici faciunt, qui victus ministorum sibi rapiunt, qui soli illos rore cœlestis verbi pascerent et ità impediunt ne possint hoc facere.
30. Sacerdotes Judæorum impij qui in nece domini consenserant 227 pretium sanguinis recipere nolebant in eos per Iudam rejectum, sed eo mercandum decernunt agrum in sepulturam peregrinorum.
Ergo nostri Scribis et Pharisæis deteriores sunt qui patrimonium Crucifixi, i. e. Christi tunicam, etiam non oblatam sibi auferunt et quoque jure quoque injuria sibi attrahant.

^p [50. Actorum omitted]
omitted]

^s [certe]

^q [spoliebant]

^r [2 Mac. 10.]

Nullum Sacrilegum impunitum sinet Deus.

Bona ecclesijs divellere sacrilegum est.

Ergo hæc ecclesiæ bona diripere ultionem Dei gravem commeretur.

Minoris probatio. Omnis ablatio sacri de sacro sacrilegum est. A definitione.

Diripere bona ecclesiæ est rem sacram de sacro auferre.

Ergo bona ecclesiæ divellere Sacrilegum est.

Id autem accidit in Alpibus: est oppidum ijs locis, Rutam vocant: ibi futurus erat delectus militum qui pro Cæsare cogebantur: Mauritius autem antevertit, et novem signa profligavit, deinde celeriter progressus aditum quendam in angustijs Alpium, et arcem ibi positam, Erenbergum, cepit. CONCERNING THE AFFAIRS OF GERMANY; AND PARTICULARLY OF THE COUNCEL OF TRENT.

Ornatissimo Viro D. Gulielmo Cæcilio, Serenissimi Regis Angliæ Secretario.

Sir W.
H[ickes's]
MSS.

Sal.

De rebus actis Tridenti, non dubito quin ex Aschami Rogeri literis, ad quem scripsi, cognôris, Vir Ornatiss. Post impetratum fidem publicam, quod fuit sub finem Januarij, Dux Mauricius putabatur omnino missurus esse Philippum et alios. Norenbergam enim usque præmiserat. Sed cum aliquandiu fuissent ibi commorati, sub finem Februarij revocavit eos, ad maturitatem jam prope deductis belli consilijs et apparatu. Dux Christophorus autem Wirtembergicus, qui doctrinæ Confessionem exhibuerat antea per Legatos Tridenti, Brentium eò misit cum tribus collegis, quibus se conjunxerant duo nostræ civitatis Theologi; et hi quidem Tridentum venerunt, ad xviii diem Martij. In alterum diem fuerat indicta, quam vocant, sessio. Sed nihil tum fuit actum: eaque sessio fuit ad Calend. usque aij prorogata. Postquam ergo Legati Wirtembergici, qui nuper eò venerant recentes, et ego, nostræ Reip. nomine, Theologos nostros, apud Cæsaris treis Oratores ibi, certis legibus, ad futuram actionem obtulimus et admisimus: Ego, qui jam in quintum mensem ibi fueram, sed finem Martij discessi, et ad xii Aprilis huc redij. Priusquam abirem, de voluntate Sociorum egeram diligenter apud alterum Cæsaris Oratorem, de modo processus, et urgebam ut Theologi nostri publicè audirentur, aut super articulis ibi definitis, aut super capitibus doctrinæ, juxta seriem Confessionis exhibitæ. Hoc autem invitisimi faciunt; neque publicum ipsis auditorium, opinor, facilè concedent. In quo quidem si perseverent, tum nostri discedent. Et hic quidem fuit, me discedente, rerum status. Qui sunt ibi doctiores, Brentium norunt ex scriptis, et ipsius expetunt colloquia. Sunt ibi Hispani Episcopi xxv, Itali totidem aut plures: et hi quidem actionis atque moræ pertæsi, spectabant abitionem; illi verò, Cæsaris authoritate, qui cœtum illum dissolvi non temerè patitur, continentur. Jam Episcopi nostrates omnes abierant, præter Curiensem et Constantiensem, qui tamen et ipse paucis post me diebus dicebatur esse discessurus.

Videt Cæsar, quam non facilè recolligi possit ejusmodi cœtus posthâc, si nunc eum dissipari contingat: ideóque tantopere studuit hactenus eum continere. Digressus, cum venissem Ænipontem, D. Legatum Morisinum Halæ conveni Calendis Aprilis. Postridiè continuato itinere intelligebam obsideri Augustam Vindelicorum ab duce Mauricio, filijsque Lantgravij, et Alberto Brandeburgico. Biduo post occurrit mihi in via D. Morisini Conjux, quæ per Augustam huc profectura, cum difficilem fore transitum audisset, ad maritum redibat. Eodem die deditio- nem fecerunt Augustani, qui fuit hujus mensis dies quartus. Erant in urbe tria peditum signa, ductore Walthero Hirnheincio: qui omnes liberaliter, nullâ devincti lege dimissi fuerunt. 237 Postridiè sunt urbem ingressi principes, qui veteri restituto Senatu et tribubus, uti in reliquis etiam oppidis fecerant, et constitutâ novâ Rep. et tormentis tum Civitatis, tum Cæsaris, quæ sunt ibi plurima, perquisitis, die Aprilis septimo discesserunt. Quibus autem conditionibus pacti sunt cum Oppidanis, adhuc quidem ignoro. Fuggerus Antonius pridie deditio- nis excesserat urbe, et quatuor ab Æniponte milliaribus, mane mihi occurrit, tribus tantum comitatus. Ulma post iter feci, qui tunc præsidium habebant, tria signa peditum, et videbantur ad defensionem omnino spectare. Postridiè quam illinc abij, nempe octavâ hujus mensis die, Principes, Mauricius, Lantgravij filius, et Megelburgius, datis ad eos literis, commeatum et alimoniam, et alia quædam, ab ipsis petebant. Eas ad literas cum nihil illi responderent, Principes undecimâ hujus denuò scripserunt, seque ipsos appropinquaturos nunciabant; et hoc ipso tempore oppidum obsident. Est autem ea civitas valdè locuples, et quia magnam obtinent circùm ditionem, arces, castella, oppidula, prædia, vix opinor tolerabunt obsidionem. Proximus est impressioni Dux Wirtembergicus, qui sanè pacem libenter coleret, si per tempora liceret: ab eo rectum est iter ad nos. Altera ipsorum pars exercitus petit Alpes, credo, ut aditus occupent, nequis externus miles egredi possit. His copijs, opinor, præest Albertus Brandeburgicus una cum Hedeckio.

Quid Cæsar agat, aut ubi sit, nescimus. Ego cum essem Æniponti, nihil quicquam vidi apparatus; magnumque tum erat ibi silentium in aula, magnaue solitudo, nisi quod eo ipso die nonnullis fuit datum negotium conscribendi copias. Dubium tamen non est, quin Italum et Hispanum militem Cæsar evocarit. Electores Rhenani suos habent apud principes Legatos de pace: sed plerique putant difficillimam esse futuram tractationem. Æniponte mihi dicebatur, Cæsarem in hoc esse totum, ut Mauricium placaret. Et hic quidem paroxysmus nobis imminet ab oriente sole: jam vero ab occidente multò ferè terribilior instat. Nam Metim urbem Gallus tenet, et per vicinum nobis agrum iter faciens, volet etiam hanc nostram urbem fortassis videre, multúmque hoc ad suam gloriam pertinere putabit, eóusque signa promovisse. Quod si alter exercitus, occupata Ulma, cæterisque domitis, ad nos etiam propius accedet, vides in quantis simus angustijs. O! quis erit hujus tragediæ tandem exitus? Gorziam oppidum et Abbatiam prædivitem Galli, ante diem octavum, vi ceperunt, diripuerunt, incenderunt, opinor, præfecto Hispano, cum 38 militibus, suspenso. Theonis villa, Lucemburgicæ ditionis oppidum munitum, quatuor à Meti miliaribus, ad Mosellam flumen, habet equitum peditumque præsidia, et nuper emissis fæminis atque pueris, obsidionem tolerabit. Eo enim capto oppido, nihil ferè est ijs locis, quod vim ullam majorem diu sustinere possit.

Hæc est rerum apud nos facies. Vos multòs fæliciores, qui festinam pacem colitis in pulcherrima regione. Socer meus, quem nosti, datis ad me literis (nam est in agro Metensibus vicino) multam tibi salutem nunciat, seque diligenter vobis omnibus commendat, et jussit ut hæc, tam suo quam meo etiam nomine, tibi scriberem, quandoquidem ex ijs locis, ubi nunc est, et in hac temporum asperitate, non ita commodè potest ipse ad 238 vos dare literas. Quod cum ità sit, nolui hoc officium prætermittere, ut de ipsius apud vos observantia studioque perpetuo cognosci posset. Quanquam et ipse, pro meo in vos affectu, mea sponte scripturus eram: et spero vos in optimam partem hæc accepturos esse, quæ fortasse jam aliundè etiam accepistis.

Attamen quia rebus ipsemet tractandis interfui Tridenti, puto vobis tanto futurum esse gratiorem hanc qualemcunque narrationem. Quod superest, ut meum negotium, quod aliquot nunc annis agitur, et de quo Reverendiss. D. Cantuariensis, anno superiori, Socero meo certum quid dixit, promoveas, Vir ornatissime, etiam atque etiam rogo. Sereniss. Scis rem omnem haud dubiè, alioqui prolixior essem: et priusquam irem Tridentum, scripsi eâ de re D. Chæco, sicut etiam Reverendiss. D. Cantuariensi. In his most humble wise, shewith and declarith unto your most excellent Majestie your highnes humble subject and Orator Raphe Morice, sometime servant unto that worthie Prelate of godly memorie, Tho. Cranmer, late Archbishop of Canterburie. That whereas your highnes said Orator for the space of 20 yeres and above, being reteynid in service with the said most Reverend father, in the rowme of a Secretary, bestowed and spent both his time, youthe and prosperitye of his life, not so much in writing of the private busynes of the said most Reverend father, as in travailing with his pen aboughte the serious affaires of the Prince and the Realme, commyted unto him by those most noble and wurthie princes, K. Henry the eighth, and K. Edward the Sixth, your Majesties dere father and brother, concerning aswel the wrytyng of those great and weightie Matrimonial causes of your highnes said dere Father, (the good effecte, successe and benefit wherof to Godds glory, this hole realme with the Subjects therof, in your highnes most noble and royal personage, do now most happilie enjoye,) As also aboute thexstirpation of the Bishop of Rome his usurped power and authoritie, the reformation of corrupte religion, and Ecclesiastical Lawes, thalteration of Divine Service, and of divers and sundry conferences of lernid men, for thestablishing and advancement of sincere religion, with such like. Wherin your highness said Orator most painfullie was occupied in writing of no small Volumes, from tyme to tyme. As in that behalf divers lernid men now lyving can testifie; namely Dr. Hethe, Dr. Thirleby, the Bissshopes of Elie, Chichester and Heriford. And for that the said most Reverend Father was myndeful and desirous some deale to recompence the payneful service of your said Orator, he of his own mere motion and good disposition procurid for your highnes said Orator, a lease of the parsonage of Ospringe within the Count of Kent, ympropriated unto the Colledge of S. Johns in Cambridge: which towards the mayntenance of your said Orators lyving was better than 40 markes by the yere de claro, when Wheat was but a Noble the quarter. Which lease of the said parsonage being so grauntid, and redie to be sealid by the Master and felowes of the same Colledge, one Hawkyns of the Garde, by his ymportunate sute, made unto your highnes said dere father the Kinges Majestie, so wan his highnes favour therin, that his Majestie obteynyd the said Lease to be sealid to the use of the said Hawkyns. His Majestie nevertheles promising unto D. Day, then Master of the said Colledge, and sone after unto the said most Reverend, that his 240 highnes wolde otherwise recompense your said Orator for the same with like valewe or better: as the said Hawkyns now lyving can testifie the same. This notwithstanding, most dere Sovereigne Lady, Almighty God preventing the time of any such recompence by calling your highnes said father unto his mercy, your highnes said Orator remayneth as yet unrecompenced to his great hinderaunce, and ympoverishmente. For now being declyned unto age, and having 4 daughters left by thair mother marriageable, your said Orator is neither of habitie to bestow them according to his vocation, as he might have done, yf that small lyving so prepared for him might have remayned to his use; Nor hymself to lyve withouten danger, onles your Majestie, of your benigne great goodnes, do extende your highnes liberalitie, aide and succour unto hym. And for that your highnes said Orator doeth understand, that one Mr. Wilbore, sometye Prior of the Monasterie of S. Austens, departed this transitorie life before Mighilmas last past, who hath a yerelie pension of your majestie of now by reason of his death in your gracious disposition, It may please your highness in consideration of the premisses, and for that it is reported, that your said most noble, and dere father provided and willed in his last testamente, that such of his subjects, as by his highnes did susteyne any maner of damage or hinder-ance sholde be satisfied for the same; to be so good and gracious Sovereaigne Lady unto your said Orator, in the further-ance of his said poor daughters marieges, as to graunte unto hym the said pension during his life, with tharrerages of this last half yere deu at the said feast of S. Michel tharchangel last past. In accomplishing wherof your highnes shal not only do a right charitable and a meritorious deed, but also therbie throughlie satisfie and recompence your said Orator for the said lease so surrendred at the request of your highnes said dere father. Although the said Orator hath lost in forbearing of the same above M. mark for the space of these eighteen yeres and above, corn being at such a price as it hath byn: And final-lye bynde both hym and al his, during thair lyves, dailie to pray unto Almighty God for the most prosperous estate of your Majestie in moche honour and felicite to indure.

[See pp. 269, 391 of this volume. The text here given is taken from the copy in the British Museum which has 1541 in the title page, and Nov. 1540 in the colophon: printed by Grafton. This has been collated with the April and July copies in the British Museum, the particulars of which follow, as they are not accurately distinguished in the Catalogue. April 1540. Whitchurch: lettered, "Grafton 1540." July 1540. Grafton: lettered, "Grafton: Fynissed July 1540." It does not appear that Strype was supported in his peculiar variations by any existing copies: at least not by those of May and Dec. 1541. The variations in the April and July copies are indicated by A. and J: those of Strype by S. No important difference exists, as will be seen, between these copies as to matter. The marginal references and headings are not given in the April book, but are to be found in the others. The chief differences consist in corrections of misprints, occasional changes of capitals for small letters, and vice versa, the introduction of Italics in the July and Nov. copies, typical recomposition, and variations in the orthography. The latter indeed afford a curious illustration of the very unfixed state, at this time, of English spelling, which seems to have abandoned all rules, having manifestly deteriorated since the 15th century. The November book bears on the title page 1541, but in the colophon Nov. 1540. This confusion of dates is well known to English bibliographers. See Dr. Cotton's List of the Editions of the Bible, especially Introd. p. ix. The well known magnificent vellum copy which belonged to Henry VIII, is of April 1540. The title page is illuminated, but has no printer's name.

Connected with this subject, it may be serviceable to reprint here a valuable extract from the late Mr. Rae Wilson's rare Catalogue of his collection of English Bibles, furnished by a learned correspondent, (S. R. M.) to the Notes and Queries, vol. ix. p. 120. "As this volume" (that of April 1539) "is commonly called the first edition of Cranmer's, or the Great Bible, I class it with the six following," (viz. April, July and Nov. 1540: May, Nov. and Dec. 1541,) "although in fact the archbishop had nothing whatever to do with either the translation or publication. It was put forth entirely by Thomas Lord Cromwell, vide Herbert's Ames, p. 1550. vol. iii, who employed Coverdale to revise the existing translations. The first wherein Cranmer took any part is the large folio of April 1540, the text of which differs from this edition materially. The pages of this volume and of the four next following begin and end alike; and the general appearance of the whole five is so very similar, that at first sight, one may be mistaken for another by those ignorant of the fact that they are all separate and distinct impressions: the whole of the titles, of which there are five in each book, and every leaf of kalendar, prologue, text, and tables being entirely recomposed, and varying throughout in orthography, &c. The desire to make perfect copies out of several imperfect, has also caused extreme confusion, by uniting portions of different editions without due regard to their identity. These remarks apply equally to the editions of Nov. 1540, and Nov. 1541, of which, in like manner, each page begins and ends with the same words. Although the distinctive marks are very numerous, yet being chiefly typographical ornaments or arrangements, it is impossible to give here sufficient guides to ensure the integrity of each volume." Mr. Wilson subjoins a fac simile of the same verse of Scripture from each edition, which curiously illustrates the remarks made above.—See Jenkyns's Remains of abp. Cranmer, vol. ii. p. 104. ^b A PROLOGUE OR PREFACE, MADE BY THOMAS CRANMER,

¶ A Prologue or preface made by the moost reverende father in God, Thomas Archbyshop of Cantorbury Metropolytan and prymate of Englande.

^c For two sondrye sortes of people, it semeth moche necessary, that somthyng be sayde in the entrye of thys booke, by the waye of a preface or prologue wherby herafter it maye be both the better accepted of them which hitherto coulde not well beare it: and also the better used of them, which hertofore have mysused it. For truly, some there are that be to slowe, and neede the spurre; some other seme to quycke, and nede more of the brydell. Some loose theyr game by shorte shotyng, some by overshotyng. Some walke to moche on the lefte hand, some to moche on the ryght. In the former sorte be all they that refuse to reade, or to heare redde the scripture in the vulgar tongue, moch worse they that ^falso let or discourage the other from the readyng, or hearinge therof. In the latter sorte be they, whiche by their inordynate readyng, un-discrete speakyng, contentyous disputyng, or otherwyse, by theyr licencyous livyng, slaunder and hynder the worde of God, moste of all other, wherof they wolde seme to be greatest furtherers. These two sortes, albeit they be most far unlyke the one to the other, yet they both deserve in effect lyke reproche. Neyther can I well tell whyther of them I maye judge the more offender, him that doth obstynately refuse so godly and goodly knowledge; or him that so ungodly and so ungoodly doth abuse the same. And as touchynge the former, I would mervayle muche that any man shulde bee so mad, as to refuse in darke-nes, light: in honger, foode: in colde, fire: for the word of God is light lucerna pedibus meis, verbum tuum*^g. Foode, †Non *Psal. 119. o. in solo pane vivit homo, sed in omni verbo^h dei. Fyer, Ignem Mat. 4. a. *veni mittere in terram et quid volo nisi ut*ⁱ ardeat? I wolde Luke 12. g. mervayle (I say at thys) save that I consyder how muche custome and usage maye doo. So that yf there were a people as some wryte, de cymeriis, whyche never sawe the Sunne, by reason that they be sytuated farre towarde the North pole, and be enclosed and overshadowed wyth hye mountaynes; is it credyble and lyke ynough, that yf by the power and wyll of God, the mountaynes shoulde synke downe and geve place, that the lyghte of the Sunne myghte have entraunce to them: at the fyrste, some of them wolde be offended therwith. And the olde proverbe affirmeth, that after tyllage of corne was fyrste founde: many delyted more to fede of maste and acornes, wherwith they had bene accustomed, then to eate bread made of good corne. Suche is the nature of custome, that it causeth us to beare all thynges well and easelye, wherewyth we have bene accustomed, and to bee offended with all thynges thereunto contrary. And therefore I can well thynke them worthy pardon, whyche at the commynge abroad of scripture douted and drewe backe. But suche as wyll persyste styll in their wylfulnesse, I must nedes judge not onely foolyshe, frowarde and obstinate: but also pevyshe, perverse, and indurate. And 242 yet, yf the matter shulde be tryed by custome, we myght also allege custome for the readyng of the scrypture in the vulgare tonge, and prescrybe the more auntyent custome. For it is not much above one hundreth yeare ago, sence scrypture hath not bene accustomed to be redde in the vulgar tonge within this realme: and many hundred yeares before that, it was translated and redde in the Saxones tonge, whych at that tyme was oure ^kmothers tonge: whereof there remayne yet dyverse copyes, founde lately in olde abbeys, of such antique ^lmanners of wrytynge and speakyng, that fewe men now ben able to reade and understand them. And when this langage ^mwaxed olde and out of comen usage, bycause folke shulde not lacke the frute of readyng, it was agayne translated ⁿinto the newer langage. Wherof yet also many copyes remayne, and be dayly founde. But nowe to let passe custome, and to weye as wyse men ever shulde, the thyng in his owne nature. Let us here discusse, what it avayleth scripture to be had and redde of the laye and vulgare people? And to this questyon I entend here to saye nothyng: but that was spoken and wrytten by the noble doctour and most morall divyne, sayncte John Chrisostome, in his thyrde sermon *de Lazaro, albeit I wyl be somethyng shorter, and gather the matter into fewer wordes and lesse rounge then he doth there: because I wolde not be tedyous. He exhorteth there his Audyence, that everye man shulde reade by hymselfe at home in the meane dayes and tyme, betwene sermon and sermon: to the entent they myght both more profoundly fyxe in theyr myndes and memoryes that he had sayde before upon suche textes, wherupon he had already preached; and also that they myghte have theyre myndes the more readye and better prepared to receyve and parceyve that whyche he shulde saye from thensforth in his sermons, upon suche textes, as he had not yet declared and preached upon: therefore sayeth he there: My comen usage is to geve you warnyng before, what matter I intend after to entreate upon, that you your selves in the meane dayes may take the booke in hande, reade, weye and perceyve the summe and effecte of the matter: and marke what hath been declared, and what remayneth yet to be declared: So that therby your mynde maye be the more furnyshed to heare the reste, that shal bee sayde. And that I exhorte you (saith he) and ever have, and wyl exhorte you, that you, (not only here in the Church) geve eare to that, that is sayde by the preacher: but that also, when ye be at home in

Let no man make excuse and saye (saith he) I am busyed aboute matters of the comenwelth, I beare this offyce or that, I am a craftes man, I muste applye myne occupacyon, I have a wyfe, my chyldren muste be fedde, my householde q̄ must I provide for. Breifly I am a man of the worlde, it is not for me to reade the scriptures, that belongeth to them that have bydden the worlde farewell: which lyve in solitarynes and contemplacyon, aud have been brought up and continually r̄nosyllled in learninge and relygion. To this answeyng: what sayest thou man (sayeth he) is it not for the to studye and to reade the scripture: because thou arte encombred and destract with 243 s̄cures and busynes? So much the more is it behovefful for the to have defence of scriptures: how much thou art the more dystressed in worldly daungers. They, that bene fre and farre from trouble and entremedyng of worldly thynges, t̄lyve in savegarde and tranquyllytye, and in the calme, ūor within a sure haven. Thou arte in the myddest of the see of worldely wyckednesse, and therefore thou nedest the more of ghostly succoure and conforte: they syt farre from the strokes of battayle, and farre out of gunne shote, and therefore they be but seldome wounded: thou that standest in the forefront of the hoost, and nyest to thyne enemyes, must nedes take nowe and then many strokes, and bee grevously wounded. And therefore thou hast most nede to have thy remedees and medicynes at hande. Thy wyfe provoketh the to anger, thy child geveth the occasyon to take sorrow and pensyvenesse, thyne enemies x̄lye in wayte for the, thy neyghboure mysreporteth the, or pycketh quarels agaynste the, thy mate or partener undermyneth the, thy lord judge, or justice threteenth the poverty is paynful unto the, the losse of thy deare and welbeloved causeth the to morne.

Prosperyte exalteth the, adversitye bryngeth the low. Brefly, so dyverse and so manyfold occasions of cares, tribulacyons and temptacyons ^ybesette the and besege thee rounde about. Where canst thou have armour, or fortrees agaynst thine assautes? Where canste thou have ^zsalves for thy sores, but of holy scrypture? Let us ^bareade and seke all remedyes that we can, and all shalbe lytle ynough. Suppose thou understande not the depe²⁴⁴ and profounde mysteries of scriptures, yet can it not be, but that much frute and holynes must come and growe unto the by the readyng: for it cannot be, that thou shuldest be ignoraunt in al thynges alyke. For the holy ghost hath so ordered and attempred the Scriptures, that in them, as well publycanes, fyshers, and shepheardes maye fynde theyr edifycacyon, as greate doctours theyr erudicyon: for those bookes were not made to vayne glorye, like as were the wrytinges of the gentile phylosophers, and rhetoricyans, to thentent the makers shulde be had in admiracyon for their hye styles and obscure ^kmaner and wrytyng, wherof nothyng can be ^lundestande without a master or an exposytoure. ignoraunce of the same is ^dthe greater ruyne and destruccyon of them that wyll not know it. That is the thyng that bryngeth in ^eheresy: that is it, that causeth all corrupte and perverse Livynge: that is it, that bryngeth all thynges out of good order.

Hytherto al that I have sayde, I have taken and gathered out of the foresayde sermon of this holy doctoure saynte John Chrisostome. Nowe yf I shulde in lyke maner bringe-fourth, what the selfe same Doctoure speaketh in other places, and what other doctours and wryters saye, concernynge the same purpose, I might seem to you to wryte another Byble, rather then to make a preface to the Byble. Wherefore in fewe words to comprehende the largenesse and utilytie of the scripture, howe it conteyneth fruteful instruccyon and erudicyon for every man, if any ^fthyng be necessarye to be learned of the holy scripture we maye learne it. Yf ^gfalsheed shall be reproved, thereof wee may gather wherwithall. Yf any thyng be to be corrected and amended, yf there nede any exhortacyon or consolacyon, of the scrypture we maye well learne. In the scryptures be the fatte pastures of the soule: therein is no venymouse meate, no unholosome thyng, they be the very dainty and pure fedyng. He that is ignoraunt, shal fynde there what he shoulde learne. He that is a perverse synner, shal there fynde his damnacyon to make hym to tremble for feare. He that laboureth to serve God shall fynde there his glorye, and the promissyons of eternal lyfe, exhortyng hym more dilygently to laboure. Herein may Princes learne how to governe theyr subjectes. Subjects obedience, love, and dredde to theyr Prynces. Husbandes howe they shulde behave them unto theyr Wyves: how to educate theyr chyldren and servants. And contrary the wives, children and servants, maye knowe theyr dutye to theyr husbandes, parentes, and masters. Here maye all maner of persons, men, wemen, yonge, olde, learned, unlearned, rych, poore, prestes, laymen, lords, ladyes, offycers, tenaunts, and meane men, virgyns, wyves, wyddowes, lawers, marchauntes, artifycers, husbandmen, and all maner of persones of what estate or condicyon soever they be, maye in this boke learne all thynges what they ought to beleve, what they ought to do, and what they shulde not do, as well concernynge almyghtye God, as also concernynge themselves and al other. Briefly, to the readyng of the scripture none can be enemye, but that eyther be so sycke, that they love not to heare of any medecyne; or els that be so ignoraunt, that they knowe not scripture to be the moost helthful medecyne. Therefore as touching this former part I wyl here conclude, and take it for conclusion:

^h The conclusion

sufficiently ^kdetermyne and ^lappoynte, that it is convenient and good, the ^mscripture to be red of all sortes and kyndes of people, and in the vulgar tonge wythout further allegations ⁿor probations for the same, which shal not nede, synse that thys one place of Jhon Chrysostome is ynough, and sufficyent

The Kynges hyghnes hath allowed the scripture as necessarye for us.

What is there above, better then the sunne, the moone, and the starres? Yet was there that toke occasion, by the great beawty and vertue of them to dishonoure God, and to defyle themselves with ydolatrie, gevyng the honoure of the lyvyng God and creatoure of all thynges, to such thynges as he had created. What is there here beneth better then fyre, water, meates, drinkes, metalles of golde, sylver, yron and stile? of wysdome and proydence of them that suffer evell, as by the malyce of them that ^rworketh the evyll. Thus to them that be evyll of themselves everye thyng setteth forwarde, and increaseth theyr evyl, be it of hys owne nature a thyng never so good lyke as contraryly, to them that ^sstudieth and endeavoureth themselves to goodness, everye thyng prevayleth them, and profyteth unto good; be it of hys owne nature a thyng never so bad. As saynct Paule ^tsayd, Hiis qui diligunt deum, omnia cooperantur in ^ubonum, even as out of most venymouse wormes is made triacle, the moost soveraygne medecyne for the preservacyon of mans helth in tyme of daunger. Wherefore I wolde advyse you all, that come to the readyng or hearyng of thys booke, whych is the worde of God, the moost preciouise Juel, and moost holy relyque, that remayneth upon earth, that ye brynge wyth you the feare of God, and that ye do it wyth ^xall due reverence, and use your knowlege therof, not to vaine glory of frivolouse disputation: but to the honour of God, encrease of vertue, and edificacyon both of yourselves and other. And to the entente that my wordes may be the more regarded, I wyll use in thys parte the auctoritye of sayncte Gregory ^y Nazianzene, lyke as in the other I did of S. Jhon Chrisostome. It appeareth that in hys tyme there were some (as I feare me, there bene also nowe at these dayes a greate nombre) whiche were ydel bablers, and talkers of the scrypture out of ceason, al good order, and wythout any increase of vertue, or example of good lyvyng: to them he wryteth al hys fyrst booke, de theologia.^{*} Wherefore I shall brefely gather the whole effecte, and recyte it here unto you. There ben some (sayeth he) whose not onely eares and tonges, but also theyr fystes ben whetted and ready bent all to contention and unprofitable disputation, whom I wolde wyssh as they ben vehement and earnest to reason the matter with tonge; so they were ^zalso redy and practyve to do good dedes. But forasmoch as they, subvertynge the order of al godlynesse, have respecte only to thys thyng, howe they maye bynde and lose subtile questions, so that nowe, every marketplace, every alehouse, and taverne every feasthouse: brefly, everye companye of men, everye assemblye of women is 247 fylled with suche talke. Sens the matter is so (sayth he) and that our fayth and holy relygyon of Chryst begynneth to waxe nothyng els, but as it were a sophestrye, or a talkyng crafte, I can no lesse do but saye somethyng therunto. It is not fyttē (saith he) for every man to dispute the hygh questions of divinitye, nether is it to be done at al tymes: nether in every audience must we discusse every doubtē: but we must knowe whan, to whom, and howe farre we ought to enter into suche matters. Firste it is not for every man: but it is for suche as be of exacte and exquisite judgements, and suche as have spentē theyr time before in study and contemplatyon and suche as before have clensed themselves aswell in soule as bodye: or at the leaste endeavored themselves to be made cleane. For it is daungerous (sayeth he) for the uncleane to touche ^athat thyng that is mooste cleane: lyke as the sore eye taketh harme by lokyng upon the sunne. Secundarelye, not all tymes, but whan we be reposed, and at reste from all outwarde dregges and trouble; and when that our headdes ^bben not encombred with other worldely and wanderyng ymaginations: as yf a man shuld myngle balme and dyrte together. For he that shal judge and determyne suche matters and doubtēs of scriptures, must take hys tyme, when he maye applye his wyttēs thereunto, that hee maye therby the better see and dyscerne, what is trueth.

Thirdly, where and in what audience. There, and amonge those ^cthat bene studyous to learne: and not amonge such as have pleasure to tryfle, with such matters, as wyth other thynges of pastyme, which repute for theyr chefe delicates, the disputacion of hygh questions, to shew their wyttēs, lernyng and eloquence in reasonyng of hygh matters. Fourthly, It is to be consydred how farre to wade in such matters of difficultie. No further (sayth hee) but as every mans owne capacitye wyl serve hym: and agayne no further, then the wekenesse or intelligence of the other audience may beare. For lyke as to great noyse hurteth the eare, too much meate hurteth ^dthe mannes body, heavy burthens hurte the bearers of them, to much rayne doth more hurte then good to the ground: breffly, in all thynges, to much is noyous: even so weake wittes and weake consciences may sone be oppressed with over hard questions. I saye not this to dissuade men from the knowledge of God, and readyng or studying of the scripture. For I saye; that it is as necessary for thy lyfe of mans soule, as for the body to breath. And yf it were possible so to lyve, I wold thynk it good for a man to spend al his lyfe in that, and to do none other thyng. I comende the lawe, which byddeth to medytate and study the scryptures ^ealwayes, both night and daye: and sermons and preachinges to be made, both mornyng, noone, and eventyde. And God to be lauded and blessed in al tymes, to bedwarde, from bed, in our journeyes and all our other workes: I forbyd not to reade, but I forbyd to reason. Neyther forbyd I to reason so farre as is good and godlye. But I alowe not that is done out of season, and out of measure and good ordre. A man may eate to much of honeye, be it never so swete, and there is tyme for every thyng, and that thyng that is good is not good, yf it be ungodly done. Even as a floure in winter is out of season, and as a womans apparel becometh not a man: neyther contraryly, the mans the woman, neyther is wepyng convenient at a brydale, neyther laughynge ^fat a buryall. Nowe yf we can 248 observe and kepe that is comely and tymely, in all other thynges, shall ^gnot we then the rather do the same in the holy scryptures? Let us not runne forthe as it were wylde ^hhorsses, that can suffre neyther brydle in their mouthes, nor sytter on theyr backes. Let us kepe us in our boundes, and neyther let us go to farre on thone syde, lest we retorne into Egypte, neyther to farre over the other, lest ⁱye be caryed awaye to Babylon. Let us not synge the songe of our Lorde in a straunge lande, that is to say, let us not dispute the worde of God at all adventures, aswell where it is not to be reasoned, as where it is: and aswell in the eares of them that be not fyt therefore, as of them that be. Yf we can in no wise forbear, but that we must nedes dispute, let us forbear thus much at the leest, to do it out of time and place convenient. And let us entreate of those thynges, which be holy, holyly: and upon those thynges that be mystical, mystically: and not to uttre the devyne mysteryes in the eares unworthy to heare them, but let us know what is comely, as well in our sylence and talking, as in our garmentes wearynge, in our feding, in our gesture, in our goinges^g, in^h all our other behavyng. This contention and debate about ⁱscriptures and doubttes thereof (specyally when such as do pretende to be the favourers and studentes therof, cannot agre wythin themselves) doth moost hurte to oure selves, and to the fortherynge of the cause and quarrelles that we wolde^k have forthered above al other thynges. And wee in this (sayth he) be not unlyke to them that beyng mad, set theyr owne houses on fyre, and that slaye theyr owne children, or beat their owne parentes. I marvayle much (sayth he) to recount wherof cometh all this desyre of vayne glory, wherof commeth al thys tongeitch, that we have so much delyte to talke and clatter. And wherein is our communication? Not in the ^lcomendations of vertuous and good dedes of ^mhospilitie, of love betwene Christian brother and brother, of love between man and wyfe, of virgynitie and chastytye, and of almesse towardes the poore. Not in Psames and godly songes, not in lamentyng for our synnes, not ⁿin repressyng the affections of the body, not in prayers to God. We talke of scripture, but in the meane tyme we subdue not our flesh by fastyng, ^owalking, and wepyng, we make not this lyfe a meditation of death, we do not stryve to be lords ^pover our appetites and affections. We go not about to ^qput downe our proude and hygh myndes, to abate our fumishe and rancorous stomackes, to restrayne our lustes and bodely delectations, our indiscrete sorowes, our lascivious myrth, our inordynate lokynge, our insaciabie hearyng of vanities, our speakyng without measure, our inconvenient thoughtes, and brefely to refourme our lyfe and maners: but al our holynesse ^rconsysteth in talkynge. And we pardon eche other from al good lyvyng, so that wee may styck fast togyther in argumentation, as though ther were no mo wayes to heven but thys alone, the waye of speculation and knowledge (as they take it,) but in verye dede, it is rather the waye of superfluous contention and sophistication. Hytherto have I recyted the mynde of Gregorye Nazianzene: in that booke which I spake of before. The same Author sayth also in another ^{*}place, that the learnynge of a Christen man ought to begyn of the feare of God to ende in matters of hye speculation: and not contrarylye to begynne wyth speculacyon, and to ende in feare. For speculation (sayeth he) ^sother hye conninge ^tand knowledge, if it be not stayed with the brydle of feare to offende God is dangerous, and ynough to tumble a man headlynge downe the hyll. Therefore sayeth hee: the feare of God must be the fyrst begynnynge, and as it were an A. B. C. or an introduction to all them, that shall entre into the verye true and moost frutefull knowledge of holy scriptures. Where as is the feare of God, there is, (sayeth he,) the kepyng of the ^uComaundementes: and whereas is the kepyng of the commaundements there is the clensynge of the fleshe: which fleshe is a cloude before the soules eye, and suffereth it nat purely to se the beame of the heavenly lyght. Where as is the clensynge of the fleshe, there is the illumination of the holy goost, the ende of all our desyres, and the very lyght wherby the veritie of scryptures is sene and perceyved. This is the mind and almost the wordes of Gregorie Nazianzene, doctoure of the Greke church, of whom Saynct Jerome sayth [†]that unto his time the Latyn church had no wryter hable to be compared, and to make an even match with him. ^yTherefore to conclude this latter part, every man, that commeth to the readyng of this holy booke, ought to bryng with hym fyrst and formost this feare of almighty God,

But alas, if any means cowde be made for hym, or for my Lorde Russel, it were not to be omitted, nor in any wise neglected. But I am utterly destitute both of counseil in this matter, and of power, being in the same condemnation that they be. But that onely thyng which I can do, I shal not ceasse to do, and that is only to pray for theym, and for my selfe, with al other, that be now in adversity. Whan I saw you at the courte, I wolde fayne have talked with you, but I durst not: nevertheless if yow cowde fynde a tyme to come over to me, I wolde gladly commen with you. Thus fare you hartely well, with my Lady your wife. From Lamhith this 14 day of this month of August.

A LIST OF ARCHBISHOP CRANMER'S WRITINGS, SPEECHES, AND OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS.

[See p. 265 of this volume. It has been thought advisable to insert the following chronological list as an article in the Appendix, instead of encumbering the text with a long note. It is compiled from the lists of Bale, (Scriptorum illustrium majoris Britanniae catalogus; Basil, 1559,) of Tanner, (Bibliotheca Brit. Hib.) and of Todd (Life of Cranmer, vol. ii. 519): all of which are inserted in Dr. Jenkyns's edition of Cranmer's Remains. These names are given in Italics. Then follow notices of the originals or MS. copies of each document, and then of the publications in which they occur, as far as the Editor is aware.]

1531—1555. Letters.—Bale mentions

“Epistolae ad viros eruditos, lib. i.” but Dr. Wharton (as quoted by Dr. Jenkyns) considers this a mistake; as no collection of Cranmer's letters was made in his time.

Tanner mentions

“Epistolas varias,” and specifies a few. The originals, or MS. copies, are scattered through the following repositories: the Lansdowne, Cotton, and Harleian libraries in the British Museum: the Registers at Lambeth, Canterbury, &c.: the Chapter House, Westminster: the State Paper Office: the Bodleian and Ball. Coll. Libraries at Oxford: the Libraries of Corpus Christi and Emmanuel, Cambridge: the Archives of Zurich and Strasburgh, &c. Of these some were published in the following works: Foxe’s Acts and Monuments;—Certain Letters to Queen Mary, 1558;—Calvini Opera;—Buceri Scripta Anglica;—Dudithii Orat. et Epist.;—Columesii Epist. Clar. Viror.;—Gabbema illust. et clar. viror. epist. 1669;—Letters of the Martyrs;—Lord Herbert’s Life of Henry 8;—Cranmer’s Catechism;—Brief examination of a certain declaration &c. 1564;—Wilkins’s Concilia;—Lord Somers’s Tracts;—Collier’s Eccl. Hist.;—Burnet’s Hist. of the Reform.;—Strype’s Cranmer;—Strype’s Parker;—Strype’s Annals of the Reform.;—the Archæologia;—Ellis’s Original Letters;—the State Papers;—Todd’s Life of Cranmer;—Theological Tracts;—Weaver’s Funeral Monuments;—Le Bas’ Life of Cranmer, &c. It was reserved however for Dr. Jenkyns, in his admirable edition of Abp. Cranmer’s remains, to collect, for the first time, in a regular chronological series, the greater part of the accessible letters, whether published or unpublished. These amount to 301 in number, and form the greater part of his first volume. These letters are also published in the second vol. of the Parker Society’s edition of Abp. Cranmer’s Works. They follow very nearly the same order as Dr. Jenkyns’s collection; with the addition of about 20 hitherto unpublished.

1533. Abp. Cranmer’s Oaths and Protestations at his Consecration.—Tanner; who inserts it twice.

WHARTON'S OBSERVATIONS

[VOL. III.]

^aPage 307. l. 10. [p. 18. l. 1.] ‘So on the day appointed, Aug. 27, 1553, the archbishop, together with Sir Thomas Smith, king Edward’s secretary, and Dr. May, came before the queen’s commissioners; and the archbishop brought in his inventory. We are left to guess what he was now cited for. I suppose it was to lay to his charge heresy, and his marriage.’] It was undoubtedly to charge him with treason, for what he had done in the business of queen Jane; which the appearance of Smith and May at the same time with him confirmeth. It was too early yet to object to him either heresy or marriage.

^bPage 310. l. 7. [24. l. 3. ab imo.] ‘Cuthbert bishop of Durham, formerly deprived, was restored. Edmond Boner, bishop of London, restored: Nicolas Ridley being removed from the said see, and cast into prison, &c.’] These words are said to be verbatim described out of the register of the church of Canterbury. I know not, Sir, whether you inspected that register with your own eyes; but I assure you, that register relateth the matter otherwise; viz. that Boner was restored to the see of London, then canonically void by the translation of Ridley ^c, the bishop of it, to the see of Durham, (made in the very end of king Edward’s reign;) and that Tunstall was restored to Durham, void by the deprivation of Ridley, deprived thereof for heresy and sedition.

Ibid. l. 13. [25. l. 7.] ‘How they proceeded with the clergy in general for being married, may be measured, &c.—Some were deprived, never convict nor called, (I use the words of an author that then lived, Dr. Parker.)—Some induced to resign upon promise of pension; and the promise, as yet, never performed.’] Over against these latter words are placed in the margent the names of Dr. Ponet, Tayler, Parker. Of Ponet and Tayler it had been said immediately before, in this and the foregoing page, that they were deprived of their bishopricks. If then they were deprived, they were not induced to resign upon promise of pension. Of Poinet particularly it was related from the register of Canterbury, that he was ejected, and imprisoned, and deprived of episcopacy for being married. I sup- 262 pose the words of the register are privatus episcopatu, which ought to be rendered, deprived of his bishoprick, (viz. of Winchester,) not of episcopacy; for the order is indelible, and so allowed to be by those who deprived him. The causes of Tayler’s deprivation are reported from the same register; but marriage is not mentioned among them. Nay, we are assured by undoubted testimony, (vide supra, page 156. [vol. ii. p. 38.]) that he never was married. Farther, this account, said to be taken from the words of Dr. Parker, is not his, but they are the words of the anonymous large Defence of Priests’ Marriage, published by him.

Page 318. med. [55. l. 2. ab imo.] ‘In the first year of queen Mary, a very foul scandal was blown about of her, that she was with child by bishop Gardiner; however it was raised, whether of her enemies, to render her odious, or of some zealots of popish religion, to shew the desire they had of her matching with him.’] It will be very difficult to persuade the world, that any zealots of the popish religion, who are so prejudiced against the marriage of the clergy, should desire the marriage of a queen, whom they loved so much, with a bishop of their own communion, whom they no less admired.

Page 324. l. 2. [77. l. 1.] ‘Cardinal Pole, in answer to both queen Mary’s letters, thought fit to send his mind at large by his messenger Thomas Goldwel, who was once, if I mistake not, prior of the church of Canterbury; but long since fled out of England, and lived with Pole, and by the queen afterwards preferred to the bishoprick of St. Asaph.'] The prior of Canterbury, and bishop of St. Asaph, had nothing common but their names. The one was a regular, the other a secular. The first, doctor of divinity before the other was born, and dead before the other was made bishop.

^d Page 328. l. 4. ab imo. [88. med.] 'This is some account of the church of Canterbury's doings, in pursuance of the queen's instructions before mentioned; viz. against the married clergy.'] This account relateth only the proceedings of that chapter against the married clergy, members of the cathedral church, or incumbents within the deanery of the Arches. The same register of that church (from whence this account is taken) relateth at large their proceedings against all the married clergy within the whole diocese of Canterbury, and in the other deaneries of the peculiar jurisdiction of that see.

^f Page 331. l. 12. [94. l. 2.] 'The said Poinet, late bishop of Winchester, but now an exile, very learnedly answered this book (of Dr. Martin against Priests' Marriage) in two several treatises.—The second treatise he lived not to finish: but the copy falling into the hands of Matthew Parker, archbishop of Canterbury, he published it, in the beginning of queen Elizabeth's reign, with very large and excellent additions of his own.'] The same book is ascribed to Poinet, infra l. 39. [p. 95, l. 6]; with some doubt, page 330. med. [vol. iii. 93] page 53, [vol. ii. 112] 69, [vol. ii. 154] &c.] This book was most certainly none of Poinet's; for the author of it saith of himself, more than once, that he was a layman; had designed indeed to 263 enter into holy orders, but was prevented by the death of King Edward, and the iniquity of the times succeeding to it. He lived in or about either Norwich or Lincoln; and died before the end of queen Mary's reign. Archbishop Parker, in publishing it, did not adjoin his own additions to all the printed copies, but only to a few of them.

Page 331. l. 9. ab imo. [95. l. 10.] 'The other thing thought hard concerning these orders taken with the married clergy, was, that, after these poor men had thus done their penances, the imposers of these penalties were not so good as they pretended they would be, &c. towards them, not restoring them to their ministrations.' This is not universally true. § All secular married clergymen, who desired it, were restored after such penance undergone, unless some other great demerit intervened. But no regulars could obtain that favour; marriage in them being accounted apostasy from their vow and order.

Page 369. l. 3. &c. [203. l. 4.] 'Latimer's character is best taken from them who best knew him, and lived in his time. One of these (Thomas Becon) thus speaks of him, while he was yet alive, in the beginning of king Edward. Latimer was very famous for the sincerity and goodness of his evangelical doctrine; which, since the beginning of his preaching, had in all points been so conformable to the teaching of Christ and his Apostles.——His fame began to grow apace, while he was at Cambridge, some years before 1530, doing abundance of good there among the students by his sermons.——Before them he did, by invincible arguments, &c. prove, that the holy Scriptures ought to be read in the English tongue of all Christen people, whether they were priests or laymen, &c.' ^h Good Mr. Becon did herein either want true information, or hath imposed upon his readers. Latimer was so far from maintaining this doctrine ever since the beginning of his preaching, that he was one of those divines who (being deputed by the University of Cambridge) joined with archbishop Warham, and other bishops and divines, in condemning all English translations of the Scripture; and solemnly subscribed this determination: The publication of the holy Scripture in the vulgar tongue, is not necessary to Christians ; and the king's Majesty and the bishops do well in forbidding to the people the common use of the holy Scriptures in the English tongue. This was done in the year 1530ⁱ.

Page 383. l. 16. ab imo. [240. l. 8.] ‘The queen would not alter her determination to have archbishop Cranmer burnt, by the instigation, as I suppose, of Pole the legate.’] I would not have remitted you to so obscure an author as Anthony Harmer^k, if yourself had not mentioned him in your Preface. He hath offered some reasons, (in his Specimen, page 144.) not altogether contemptible, to clear Cardinal Pole from this imputation. I am so charitable as to be willing at least to assent to his reasons ; yourself can better judge of the validity of them.

Page 398. l. 9. [275. l. 7.] ‘Among archbishop Cranmer's writings are reckoned, (from Bale,) Letters to learned Men, one book ; and thereto is added, This I cannot hear any tidings of.’] The archbishop's Letters to learned Men never were, either by himself or others, collected into one or more books, especially at that time. But it was Bale's foolish way to account to every great man, whom he hath placed in his rhapsody of writers, One Book of Epistles.

And Arundel, when he preached this sermon, was not archbishop of Canterbury, nor one of Cranmer's predecessors, as is here supposed. But, after all, the judgment of archbishop Arundel in this case is better declared by an authentic decree, than by a rhetorical passage in a sermon, wherein he was obliged to commend the deceased queen. He was so far, then, from favouring the translation of the Scriptures into the vulgar tongue, or the use of them by the laity, that, in the year 1408, he made this famous decree in the synod of Oxford ;

ⁿ Periculosa res est, &c. It is a dangerous thing to translate the holy Scripture.—We decree therefore and ordain, that henceforth no man by his own authority translate any book of holy Scripture into the English, or any other tongue, by way of book, libel, or treatise ; and that no such book or translation be read by any one, upon pain of the higher excommunication. I might also observe to you, that the case of ^o archbishop Chichely, which you had mentioned immediately before this, is mistaken, he doing therein nothing more than what was usual ; as also the case of archbishop Islip, who decreed, in the case by you mentioned, nothing but what was consonant to the rules of canon law, and the papal definitions ; it being a rule in both, 264 that Simplex votum impedit matrimonium contrahendum, sed non dirimit contractum. But I fear I have been too long already. I will only put you farther in mind, that when, in the following pages, you compare the archbishops of Canterbury preceding to, and succeeding the Reformation, and accuse the former to have minded chiefly great worldly pomp and appearance ; but praise the latter for regarding little or nothing the vain shows of exterior grandeur and glory ; the comparison is not altogether just : for Parker and Whitgift (whom you choose to instance in) lived in as great state, pomp, and magnificence, and were attended with as large a retinue, as most of their predecessors.

ⁿ [“ Periculosa quoque res est, testante bono Hieronymo, textum sacræ scripturæ de uno in aliud idioma transferre : (Const. vii.) Statuimus igitur et ordinamus, ut nemo deinceps aliquem textum sacræ scripturæ auctoritate sua in linguam Anglicanam, vel aliam transferat, per viam libri, libelli, aut tractatus, nec legatur aliquis hujusmodi liber, libellus, aut tractatus. sub majoris excommunicationis poena.” Wilkins Conc. iii. 317.]

^o [See Strype's Observ. Addenda No. 1.]

And that in your Preface, page vii. [xxx.] instead of an Augustine monk of Canterbury, should be substituted, a monk of St. Augustine's in Canterbury. And lastly, that, page xi. [xxxvii.] Edward Howes should (if I mistake not) be changed into Edmund Howes.

These, Sir, are the only errors which I have discovered in your history. That the observation of them may in any measure contribute to the illustration of your work, (as I doubt not but your work will highly contribute to the information of the curious, and the justification of our Reformation,) is the hearty desire of,

SOME notes of the Reverend Father ^bEvans, the Lord Bishop of Bangor, upon Cranmer's Memorials, and Mr. Wharton's observations thereupon. Sent by him to me. Received from Mr. Dale of the Herald's Office, April 23. 1700.

Whoever reads Bishop Bulkeley's last will, and ^ecannot P. 268. Bangor d. believe the story of his selling the bells, nor his blindness. But I am sure he was neither dead nor resigned in this year, but acted as bishop himself throughout the whole year ; as appears by the Registers here at Bangor, and so he did throughout the year 1552. And I find the will of Hugh Peke of Conway proved before the Bishop himself that year on the 3^d day of March, and the will of one Hugh David ap John proved before him the 5th of the same month, and year 1552 ; and this indeed was the last act done by him or in his name, and he lived but 9 days after this ; for thus saith the Register ; Decimo quarto die mensis Martii A. Episcopus prædictus. Sedit annis undecim et diebus 22^o.—After this there is an hiatus in the Register of Institutions till Apr. 1554. But in the Register of Wills I find that in that April immediately upon the Bishop's death, Dr. Rowland Meyric K. D. acted by the style of R^{mi} Patris Domini Tho. Cant. Archiepiscopi Vicarius in Spiritualibus Generalis pro Dioces. Bangor sede vacante sufficienter Constitut. So he is once stiled, but afterwards Custos Spiritualitatis in all acts that are in his name or by his surrogate, William Roberts; the last of which is dated July 7th 1553: and then I suppose his authority ended with the life of King Edward, who was dead the day before July the 6th. But here is no mention of Leyson Glynne at all in these Registers. The Bishoprick continued vacant till September 1555. On the 8th of which month Bishop Glynne was consecrated, and in the rest of the vacancy after Queen Mary's coming to the crown William Roberts and Thomas Bulkeley acted as Custod. Spirit. commissioned by the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury from April 1554 till September following; and then Thomas Yule In Jure Licentiatus acted by the same style and authority till the See was filled.

between Shrewsbury and Salop, which differ like Sarum and Salisbury; but by the Observator's leave, this Lewis Thomas, who was Rector of Llandwroe and Suffragan to the Bishop of Bangor, is in Bishop Meyric's Register styled expressly Episcopus Suffraganeus de Salop. This observation was right tinker's work, making a hole where there was none.

The severe treatment given here to Bishop Ball and E. P. ^{P. 259.^j obs. on p. 161.} and the great concern to excuse the Popish Clergy, tho' all grown to an extraordinary height of wickedness, looks a little odd, to say no worse of it.

If this be true, then I am sure the observation is very ^{Obs.^k on ibid. line 11th &c.} frivolous; for if Turner was settled so near Canterbury and preached often in it, and was one of the Preachers in ordinary there, then I see no reason in the world why he might not be reckoned among the Preachers with which Canterbury was supplied.

Thomas Young was bishop of St. David's; Consecr. Jan. 22. ^{P. 260.^l obs. on p. 184.} 1559, and translated to York Feb. 25. 1560.

Rowland Meyric was never bishop of St. David's, but of Bangor; consecr. 21 Dec. 1559. Sat there 6 years, 1 month and 3 days, and died Jan. 24. 1565. He had been either chanter or residentiary of St. David's.

Both here and in his last observation on the comparison ^{Obs.^m on p. 208.} between the Archbishops before and after the reformation, the observator shews his teeth against our first Reformers; as indeed he doth on all occasions endeavour not only to lessen but bespatter them. What he says of Staunton's patent is gratis, and I believe false; for though the Archbishop's receivers are patent officers, I never heard that any other Bishops are so; but if this was no instance of kindness, those many others mentioned by the author certainly were not; and it was very impertinent to cavil at this.

This is most certain and plain in many instances in the register of Bishop Glynne, and in the vacancy before he came hither: but the truth is, they were favourably enough used here, for when they were deprived for being married, they were soon after preferred to other livings; of which there are many instances in the Register of Institutions at Bangor.

So that even then the book was taken to be Poynet's, and the observations made by the Observator against it are of no weight; those passages mentioned might be inserted for disguise. Bishop Evans was then Bishop.

And upon Wharton's Observations.

Observations upon Mr. Wharton's Observations.

In the Epistle dedicatory, I had said of Archbishop Chicheley, P. 263.^u that he refused to exercise his power legantine further than he should be authorised thereunto by the King. Mr. Wharton's observation or censure hereof was, that the case of Archbishop Chicheley had been mistaken, he doing therein nothing more than what was usual. I produced this passage of Archbishop Chicheley to shew how some Archbishops of Canterbury in former times stuck to their own Princes against the encroachments of Popes in their own Dominions. Agreeing hereunto in this account given of that Archbishop in his life wrote by Dr. Duck, translated in English and set forth 1699. When mentioning his Letter to the King, [which is there set down at length] he shewed "That the Power of the Pope's Legates did P. 124. derogate very much from the Dignity of the King, from the laws of the land, and from the Privileges of the Church of England." And afterwards "He was a most vigorous Defender of the King's Authority, and the rights of the Kingdom, against the Ambition of the Popes, and the oppressions of the Court of Rome.

"He despised wealth, was free from aspiring, and asserted the Rights of the Crown, and the Liberties of this Church against Papal Usurpations." Epist. dedicatory of the English Translation of the Life of the said Archbishop Chicheley.

Mr. Wharton saith Boner was restored to the see of London then canonically void by the translation of Bishop Ridley to the see of Durham. But he never in truth had Durham, though he were nominated to it. As appears by his Farewell Letter. Acts and Mon. p. 1611. "For the space of King Edward's reign, which was the time of mine office in the sees of London and Rochester."

And that London was not canonically void, as Mr. Wh. but that bishop Ridley was removed thence violently, appears by what himself saith in the same letter; viz. "O London, London, &c. that I speak of the See thereof wherein I late was placed almost and not fully by the space of three years. But what may I say to it, being [as I hear say] I am deposed and expelled by judgment, as an unjust Usurper of that room? O judgment, judgment! Can this be just judgment, to condemn the chief Minister of God's word, the Pastor and Bishop of the Diocese, and never bring him into judgment, that he might have heard what crimes were laid to his charge," &c.

P. 262.^b

I am assured that Ponet was not the Author of the answer to Dr. Martin's book against Priests' Marriage, but that it was some Layman, his name unmentioned.

P. 331.^c

I spake indeed in the Memorials somewhat waveringly whether that learned bishop (Ponet) was the writer. But since having seen the first part of that learned book against Martin, I make no doubt at all to attribute it to him. It is entitled, "An Apology fully answering by Scripture and ancient doctors a blasphemous book gathered by D. Steph. Gardiner, of late Lord Chancellor, D. Smith of Oxford, and other papists, as by their books appeareth and of late set forth under the name of Tho. Martin, Dr. of Civil Law, against the godly marriage of Priests, &c. By John Ponet, D.D. and Bishop of Winchester." It was printed beyond sea (where Ponet was then in exile) at Strasburgh, Anno 1556.

This book is but as it were a preliminary to what was afterwards to come forth to complete the answer, for it treats only of Martin's dedicatory Epistle to the Queen, of the title page and some part of his first chapter. The rest he seemed to have ready to follow this shortly after. For so it is in the title page, viz. "The author desireth the reader will content himself with this first book, until he may have leisure to set forth the next, which should be by God's grace shortly."

But this right reverend bishop died soon after, and (if I mistake not) in this very year 1556, wherein the first book was published; and that prevented the publishing the second part.

Now that this book "The defence of Priests' marriage, was indeed Ponet's second part, I gather particularly from some passage in the preface to the reader, and partly from the book itself. In the preface the publisher writes "that it was gathered and written in the reign of K. Philip and Q. Mary, and that by a learned man of that time, who shortly after died; meaning, if God had lent him longer life, to have confuted more of the sandy grounds and principles of that civilian," (Martin.) And "that the writer was in adversity." This out of the preface.

And in the book itself, the quickness and sharpness of his style, together with the great learning whereby the confutation is managed, seems exactly agreeable to Ponet's first book. And as Ponet's first book ended at the examination of Martin's first chapter (wherein that learned writer made only some entrance) so doth the defence begin at Martin's first chapter. And it is all verbatim the very same with what was printed in the first book to p. 57, where after a conclusion that book endeth CC. p. 178.

Whereas it is said there from the Lord Herbert's History, ^d Page 18.

that Cranmer was present at the Lady Anne Bolen's wedding, it appears to be an error, from a passage in a letter of the said

And what is now said there, that the King married the said understood favourably. For he returned the 14th of November

Archbishop of Canterbury Sept. 26, 1535, in the cathedral church, the bishops of Winchester and Sarum assisting, as appears from a register book of Heref. pen. D. Johan. Ep. Norwic. where he is said to have been Archdeacon of Leicester and Dorset, great almoner to K. Hen. 8. and privy counsellor. Vide C. C. p. 13.

William Barlow.

The acts of his confirmation are set down at length in Cranmer's Register, yet the very date of the day omitted. Divers instruments relating thereto are dated in the months of January and February 1535. Two whereof may fix us in the matter within a day. The one is the Archbishop's mandate to Dr. Cocks his vicar general to proceed to Barlow's confirmation; and this bore date Feb. 22: the other the Archbishop's certificate to the King of his confirmation, dated Feb. 23. So that upon one of these two days the confirmation must happen. Now considering the Sunday next happening after any confirmation was commonly the day whereon the confirmed person was consecrated, in all probability the next Sunday following after the 22d or 25th of Feb. must have been the day of his consecration. And perhaps the very day of Barlow's consecration is set down in the Register of the See of S. Asaph, as Fox's is in the Register of Hereford. [But that Register of S. Asaph is lost, as Dr. Beveridge late bishop there signified to me by his letter.]

The Archbishop's children that survived him were a son and ^{i P. 418. l. 11.} a daughter, named Thomas and Margaret.

Bartholomew Scott, Esq. a gentleman of good reputation at ^{Ibid. l. 13.} Camberwell in Surrey, married Margaret the Archbishop's widow. This Bartholomew Scott was grandson of John Scott, Esq. one of the Barons of the Exchequer in the reign of Henry the Eighth, who died 7 Sept. 1582, and lies buried in the same church of Camberwell. Vide Aubrey's Antiq. of Surrey, vol. i. p. 169, where, p. 174, is the whole inscription as followeth:

ⁱ [ante, p. 330.]

“ Bartholomew Scott (the son of John Scott) Esq. and Justice of the Peace in the County of Surry, having no issue of his body begotten, liveth notwithstanding after death by the never dying commendation of his virtues, being a valiant, wise, and religious gentleman, and leaving behind him Peter Scott, his nephew (the son of Acton Scott his brother) whom he had carefully and lovingly fostered up from his youth, the heir of his lands, and the hope of their family.

This gentleman was married to 3 wives, the first was Margaret, the widow of Right Reverend Prelate and Martyr, Thomas Cranmer, Archbishop.”

In Cranmer's Catechism, [which was printed by Gualter Lynne 1548] at fo. ccxxvi. is a sermon of his entitled “ A Sermon of the Authoritie of the Kayes ;” which is lately printed again 1708 in Dr. Hicckes's Preface to the “ Divine Right of Episcopacy,” at p. xxv.

This Catechism was dedicated by the Archbishop to King Edward VI, wherein he tells him, that he wrote it with a design to instruct the youth of the realm, thereby to help forward the Reformation. And in his preface he declares, he designed it for a short uniform instruction of children and young men, to prevent sundry and different forms of instruction, which otherwise would happen, if every pastor were left to devise a form for his own flock. Besides these mentioned in Herbert, there was employed in Italy in procuring subscriptions, one friar Thomas and another friar of Florence, more friars, viz. Ambrose, Franciscus, Dionysius, Leonicus.

There was one Raphael wrote for the unlawfulness of the marriage, and afterwards wrote again the contrary, against the king: which writing came out, publickly in print; excusing himself, that what he wrote before he wrote ex aliorum mente, et ad ingenii exercitationem. But this may be seen more at large in a letter sent to the king ^eby Croke: who was the king's chief agent in this affair.

This Croke, to give here a short character of him, as he deserves to be remembered to posterity, was born in the city of London, and was admitted a student of King's College Cambridge anno 1506: went away, being scholar, and afterward followed the study of the Greek tongue, wherein he so excelled, that going beyond sea, he became public reader thereof at Leipsic in Germany. He excelled also in Latin oratory, and at his return into England, was in great favour with king Henry VIII, and most of the nobility that were learned.

He was the first Greek Professor in Cambridge after Erasmus, (who came thither by the persuasion of Dr. Fisher, then bishop of Rochester) and for the love he bore to King's College, whence he had his beginning, in his first oration he made he confessed it. ^fIn short space after the University of Oxford, by great means of honourable friends and fair promises of large allowance, invited him thither to be their reader.

Bucer also wrote a book in Latin De Regno Christi, and dedicated it to king Edward VI, being his advice for the Reformation of this church about the year 1549: and was printed again at Basil in folio, with this title, "De Regno Christi Jesu Salvatoris nostri Libri ii. ad Edwardum VI. Angliæ Regem, Annis ab hinc Sex Scripti: non solum Theologis atque Jurisperitis profuturi, verum etiam cunctis Rempublicam bene et feliciter administraturis cum primis necessarii."

“Bucer wrote his book [De Regno Christi] in England, but a stranger, yet of England most aptly, touching the state of it, to the king of England. And they were the same which now are archbishops of York* and Canterbury,† bishop of London,‡ Bradford, and such like. NUMBER II.

In the Oxford Edition of this work, first printed in 1812, among many valuable additions, a list of the MSS. preserved in the library at Lambeth Palace, relating to Archbishop Cranmer, forms the first number of the Addenda. The Editor of this volume has thought it desirable to insert in this place a more detailed account of these MSS. with references to the copies of any which have been published, and to duplicate MSS. The numbers in small Roman letters are taken from the printed Catalogue of the Archiepiscopal Library.

A copy of these collections forms the third number of the Addenda. It occupies 80 leaves. The portion down to fol. 75 inclusive has never been printed. The remainder is an abstract or compendium of the foregoing collections. This portion has been given in Burnet's Hist. of the Ref. vol. i. p. iii. No. 27. [vol. i. p. ii. p. 391. Ed. describes it as "a draft of the articles (of 1536) on images and praying to the Saints, with corrections in the handwriting of Cranmer and Tunstal. He remarks that "one of these corrections is very characteristic of the sentiments of the two prelates. Tunstal inserted a sanction of the practice of praying to saints, upon which Cranmer added a qualification, that it must be done without any vain superstition." Both clauses are retained in the printed copies. Many parts are scored out, and several corrections made, apparently at a different time. Part of fol. 132 verso is in the handwriting of Bishop Tunstal.

Dr. J. observes that the additional copy of these queries is written by a clerk, but corrected by Cranmer: to which he now adds the 10th and 11th of the original queries, and also a new one, "He seems to have renewed his interrogatories on this point, because they were not answered on the former occasion. In the latter publication the document is printed in the order in which the leaves of the MS. are at present bound up: but Dr. Jenkyns begins at the passage, "St. Paul saith that we be justified freely by faith" &c. as he thinks the other passages seem more naturally to follow; and have been transposed. ARCHBISHOP CRANMER'S COLLECTIONS FROM THE CANON LAW.

[For a notice of this document, see vol. i. of this edition, p. 47 and 330 of this volume. See also Addenda No. ii. p. 737. This Collection, written with the Archbishop's own hand, and now for the first time published, has a peculiar and intrinsic interest. It contains the principal passages in the authoritative code of the Church of Rome which support the usurpations of the Roman pontiff, and exhibit its politico-religious creed. These extracts are often accompanied by the marginal observations of the Archbishop. But it is clear that all the extracts were not made with a view of exposing error. There are several, especially from the ancient Fathers and Bishops of an earlier age, which are evidently collected for the purpose of exhibiting those sounder principles which the corrupt practice of the Church in after times contravened. It would seem that the Archbishop had this twofold object in view, and that the reformation of the ecclesiastical law was a favourite object with him, long before he was officially called up to undertake it.

The text is given exactly as it occurs in the Lambeth MS. This has been collated by the Editor with the Corpus Juris Canonici, Leipsic edition, 1839; and the variations are given as foot notes. Where all the editions collated by the Leipsic editors agree with Abp. Cranmer's text, the Leipsic correction is simply given without remark: where there is a want of agreement among these editions, a specific statement is made: but where the Archbishop's text is unsupported by any of them, the correct reading is given in Italics. For the purpose of this work the Leipsic collation is assumed to be correct. As the glosses are not contained in that edition, the Editor has collated them with the Paris edition of 1561, and the Antwerp of 1573.]

De jejunio ^y autem quatuor temporum hanc certitudinem statuimus, ut si calendæ ^z Martii in quarta feria sive antea evenerit, eodem hebdomada jejunium celebretur. Si autem Calendæ ^a Martii in ^b quinta feria, aut sexta, aut in sabbatum distendantur, in ^c sequenti * ebdomada jejunium differatur. Simili quoque modo, si calendæ Junii in quarta feria aut antea evenerint, in subsequenti ebdomada jejunium celebretur; et si in quinta, aut sexta feria, ^d aut in sabbato ^e contigerit, jejunium in ^f tertia ebdomada reservetur. Et hoc sciendum est, quod, si quando jejunium mensis Junii in vigilia Penthecostes secundum prædictam regulam evenerit, non ibi celebrandum erit, sed in ipsa ebdomada solenni Penthecostes, quia vigilia simul et jejunium celebrari non debent, et tunc propter solemnitatem ^g Sancti Spiritus diacones * dalmaticis induantur, et Alleluya ^h decantatur, et Flectamus genua, non dicatur. Eodem modo septimi ⁱ mensis jejunio constitutum est, ut, si calendæ Septembris in quarta feria evenerint aut ^k antea, in tertia ebdomada jejunium celebretur, et si in quinta, aut sexta, aut sabbato contigerint, in quarta hebdomada jejunandum erit. In Decembri vero illud observandum erit, ut in proximo sabbato ante vigiliam natalis Domini celebretur jejunium, quia si vigilia in sabbato evenerit, simul vigiliam et jejunium celebrare non convenit.

Nec illi, qui sua quidem possidentes dari sibi aliquid volunt, sine grandi peccato suo unde pauper victurus erat accipient. De clericis quidem ^cdicit Spiritus Sanctus: Peccata populi mei comedunt. Sed sicut nihil habentes proprium, non peccata sed alimenta quibus indigere videntur, accipiunt, ita possessores non alimenta quibus abundant, sed aliena peccata suscipiunt. Verum ^{GRATIANUS} his autoritatibus prohibentur ab ecclesia suscipi non illi, qui quondam fuerunt divites sed ^dpostea omnia reliquerunt, ut Petrus et Matthæus et Paulus, aut pauperibus distribuerunt, ut Zachæus, aut ecclesiæ rebus adjunxerunt, sicut illi, qui prædia sua vendentes ponebant pretia ante pedes apostolorum, ut essent illis omnia communia: sed illi, qui in domibus parentum residentes vel sua relinquere nolentes ecclesiasticis facultatibus pasci desiderant.

SI QUIS

Si quis propter hoc sua ^erelinquere non vult, ut habeat unde vivat, ut quid accipit, unde rationem reddat? ut quid de peccatis alienis sua multiplicat? Non est meum dicere, ^fquale ^gpeccatum est, qui cibos pauperum præsumendo suscipiunt, qui ecclesiam, quam juvare de propriis facultatibus debuerant, suis expensis insuper gravant, propter hoc fortassis in congregatione viventes, ne aliquos pauperes pascant, ne advenientes excipiant, aut ne suum censum quotidianis ^hexpensis minuant. Quod si aliquid de fructibus suis ecclesiæ velut pro ipsa expensa sua contulerint, non se præferant inani jactantia illis, quos nihil habentes pascit et vescit ecclesia, ⁱquia profecto perfectior est ille, qui se mundi rebus expoliat, aut qui, cum nihil habuerit, Placuit, ut quisquis episcoporum, presbiterorum, et diaconorum, seu clericorum, cum in ecclesia ei crimen fuerit intemptatum, vel civilis caussa fuerit commota. Si derelicto ecclesiastico iudicio, publicis iudiciis purgari voluerit, etiamsi pro ipso prolata fuerit sententia, locum suum admittat. Et hoc in criminali actione, in civili vero perdat quod evicit si locum suum obtinere maluerit, siquidem ad eligendos iudices inique de ecclesie consortio iudicat qui de universa ecclesia male sentiendo de iudicio saeculari possit* auxilium, cum a privatorum etiam caussas b Apostolus ad ecclesiam deferri, atque ibi determinari praecipiat.

[Id. c. xlv.]

Si quis clericus in causa pecuniaria conveniendus est cum episcopo. Si quis cum clerico litigium habuerit, si quidem de causa pecuniaria, adeat pius episcopus, cuius iudicio clericus suppositus est. Ille autem sine damno et sine dilatione competentem finem liti impositurus est.

[Id. c. xlvii. Palea.]

Clericum: et mox: Ex his omnibus datur intelligi, quod clericus ad publica iudicia, nec in civili, nec in criminali causa est producendus, nisi forte civilem causam episcopus decidere noluerit, vel in criminali causa, non sui honoris cingulo eum denudaverit. Illud autem quod in epistola Clementis dictum est; non cognitorum saecularium negotiorum te vult Deus esse, ex episcopali unctione intelligendum est, non enim in episcopum ungitur, ut cognitor saecularium negotiorum resideat, sed ut procurator animarum et distributor spiritualium existat. Prohibetur ergo saecularibus negotiis occupari, non ad tempus sequester fieri, vel saecularia iudicia non de rebus saecularibus sed saecularium virorum intelligenda sunt. Iudicia de rebus saecularibus saecularia appellantur juxta illud Apostoli: Saecularia igitur iudicia

Et mox, Ceterum ex vi literæ satis patet, prædictas auctoritates intelligendas esse tantummodo de adultis, qui habent multitudinem peccatorum; cum de parvulis non possit intelligi, qui peccato tantum originali tenentur. Similiter et illaⁿ auctoritas est solvenda: Qui crediderit, et baptizatus fuerit^o, salvus erit, etc. cum non possint credere parvuli, sed adulti. Et ob hoc tota auctoritas hic intelligenda ^pest de adultis, ^qne ad alios prima, et ad alios secunda clausula referatur; quam vis nonnulli concedant, quod parvuli credunt non per usum, sed per habitum fidei, quem suscipiunt in baptismo, sicut et alia multa verba secundum communem usum loquendi non ad actum, sed ad aptitudinem referuntur. Illud vero, quod opposcentes inducunt, fidem aut charitatem, aliasque virtutes parvulis, utpote non consentientibus, non infundi, a plerisque non conceditur absolute; cum propter hoc inter doctores theologos quæstio referatur, aliis asserentibus, per virtutem baptismi parvulis quidem culpam remitti, sed gratiam non conferri; ^r nonnullis dicentibus, dimitti peccatum, et virtutes infundi habentibus illas quoad habitum, non quoad usum, donec perveniat ad ætatem adultam. Et mox, Tunc ergo characterem sacramentalis imprimit operatio, cum obicem voluntatis contrariæ non invenit obsistentem.*

Per venerabilem fratrem vestrum, Arelatensem Archiepiscopum, tua nobis humilitas supplicavit, ut filios tuos legitimationis dignaremur titulo decorare, quatenus eis, quo minus succederent, natalium objectio non noceret. Quod autem super hoc, apostolica sedes plenam habeat potestatem, ex illo videtur, quod, diversis causis inspectis, cum quibusdam minus legitime genitis, non naturalibus tantum, sed adulterinis etiam dispensavit, sic ad actus spirituales illos legitimans, ut possint in episcopos promoveri. Ex quo verisimilius creditur et probabilius reputatur, ut eos ad actus legitimare valeat sæculares. Et mox, Per simile quoque id videtur posse probari, cum eo ipso, quod aliquis ad apicem Episcopalis dignitatis attollitur, eximitur a patria potestate. Et paulo post, Rationibus igitur his inducti regi gratiam fecimus requisiti, causam tam ex veteri quam ex novo testamento trahentes, quod non solum in ecclesiæ patrimonio, (super quo plenam in temporalibus gerimus potestatem,) verum etiam in aliis regionibus, certis causis inspectis, temporalem jurisdictionem casualiter exercemus. Non quod alieno jure præjudicare velimus; sed quia sicut in Deuterono. continetur. NUMBER IV.

[The volume from which this document is printed is a transcript of orders made at different periods. The first document, which extends to the end of p. 69, and contains the orders and statutes of Abp. Cranmer, was written in Abp. Parker's time, as appears from the date of 1561 in pp. 8 et seqq. and also from the mention of Matthew Archbishop of Canterbury in p. 15, and in p. 18 of the Cardinal's executors. The second document extends from p. 61 to 73 inclusive: several blank pages having been inserted between this and the first, in the last century. This is in a more modern hand, and, as appears from p. 73, was compiled after 1622. The third document extends from p. 74 to 78 inclusive, in a neater hand; no date. The fourth document occupying pp. 79 and 80 was made in 1663 in Abp. Juxon's time. The fifth document, p. 80 to the end, contains directions in Bishop Juxon's time in 1662.

This notice is written on the fly leaf. "These directions &c. very probably have been originally drawn up in Archbishop Cranmer's time; but from page 73 it appears that these were issued in Archbishop Abbot's time, and after the year 1622. M. L."]

EVERY Mondaie morning, the gent' Usher for that weeke came to the Counting house, and toke a note of such as were to attend the weeke following in the greate Chamber (lykewise the Marshall, or yoman ussher of the hall) and according to that note, A bill was made wherein, every mans name, and chardge was sett downe, and that byll was fastned on the back side of the greate Chamber doore: to be seene of every man, that none could pleade ignorance of his chardge.

THE Gentleman Ussher was to see good order kepte in the greate Chamber, and every morning both winter and sommer to be ther betwene six and vij in the sommer, and vij and viij in the winter, bothe to see that the Gromes, and yomen usshers of the Chamber did their office, and also to send for the gentlemen wayters that were absent, to gyve their Attendance. Neyther was yt lawfull for the gentleman Ussher in his wayting weeke unlesse he attended upon the Lord hym selfe to goe any where owt of the howse without the lycence of a hedd Officer, nor owt of the greate chamber at any tyme unles a hedd Officer were in place, and made privy unto yt, or that he had in his absence substituted his fellowe to waight for hym tyll his retorne. Soe that from the howres before mentioned both winter and sommer untill ix of the clocke at night, he and his company were bounde to gyve their Attendance in the greater chamber, not to depart thence without a reasonable cause and intimacion thereof gyven to a hedd Officer, yf he were present, or the Gentleman Ussher in the hedd Officers absence, and that onely within the howse: but without the howse never, except the hedd Officer were made privie unto yt.

THE hedd Officers likewise, were as often as they could for waightier affaires, to make their abode in the greate chamber, both to see how well the gentlemen Ushers executed their duties: And also for other causes touching the Lo: honour: in causes of interteyning of strangers, or otherwise.

THE hedd Officers had commaundment throughout the howse without lymitacion (respecting alwaies both the Lo: profitt and honour) inferior Officers, and gentlemen wayters were all stinted in the Counting howse every man according to his calling.

AT the Counting house dore, when the hedd Officers satt about the Lo: affaires, one of the yoman Ushers did ever attende with a white rod in his hand, to be sent by them to and fro, as occasion required.

THE Statutes, and the Leiger boke, and all other records of the Counting howse were in the custody of the Clerk of the Kytchyn, who kept the key of the Counting howse dore and by his man gave all the hedd Officers intelligence of every Counting house daie, as often as he was enjoyned by the Steward, Threasorer, or Comptroller so to doe.

THE TREASURERS OFFICE.

THE Treasurer in place was next the Steward, and was for the Lo: between the Steward and the Comptroler. His office, (beside his chardge in seeing good order observed in the howse which (in his place) was equall with the Stewards Comptrollers, or any hedd Officers) was to receyve and keepe all money that was yerely to be spent in howshold causes within the howse. So that when any paiment was to be made, either by Steward, or Comptroller, of any bill or otherwise theie came or sent unto the Treasurer with all bills subscribed with their hand, with probatum est, and hee after due examination of them, write under the said bills Examinatum est per H. M. So that the bills had first their allowance and Probatum est of the Steward, and Comptroller: and after that, Examinatum est of the Treasurer, And so payment was made.

THE Treasurer at the Audit charged Steward and Comptroller upon severall titles (as will after appeare) And then came the Treasurer with all the money he had received.

BESIDES every quarter in the Counting house the Treasurer brought in his account, and there it was recorded, And an extract of that record both under the Stewards and Comptroller's hands, and the other head Officers brought to the Audyt.

HOUSEHOLD STATUTE.

AN INDENTURE tripartite was made of all the Lo: goods that should be occupied in the household. The one parte whereof remained with the Lo: the other with the Steward, and the third with the Comptroller.

THE Steward made out of his Indenture other Indentures betwixt hym and the particular Officers, As betwixt hym and the yoman of the wardrobe, the yoman of the horse, of the Seller, of the Pantry, of the Buttry, of the Ewery &c. Of all which yearly against the Audyt a due reckoning was made.

THE COMPTROLLER made a booke and divided it into certayne titles, as Wardrobe, Stable, Kytchyn, Ewery, Journeyng, ^aNeccs, Borde wages, Rewards, Wages, and liveries, Pulia, Exemes, Provisions, Spicery, and Reparacions.

WHEN any thing was bought wherewith the wardrobe was to be charged, A bill was made thereof according to the forme hereafter written, The which bill the Comptroller examined over, and wrott to the totall some as appeareth.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

^{} Insert the following at p. 731. after line 3. " As touching &c.

The beginning of the Archbishop's letter, No. lxxv. ran in Page 159.^a these words.

" After my veray hartie commendations, I thancke youe for your Newes; but speciallie that ye advertise me that the King's Majestie is in good health: wherein I besече God long to continue his highness, as he hath twice [as I trust] restored me to the same.

" Yt seamithe by your letters, that a peace should be concluded betwixt th' Emperour and Duke Morise, which whether it be according to th' Articles that afore ye sent unto me, or otherwise, I would gladlie understaunde.

" The commoditie that might arise by printing the boke of Common Praier and Administration of Sacraments in the French tongue (if any be) I reckon it were meet that it should come to them which have already taken paines in translating the same which first was done by Sir Hugh Pallets [Paulets] commandment, and overseen by my L. Chauncellor and other at his appointment; and now altered according to that which must be put in execution at the Feast of All Saints next, at th' appointment of my L. Chancellour by a learned French man, a Doctor in Divinitie: and therefore needles of any other to be travailed in.

was undoubtedly to charge him with treason in the matter of queen Jane.' But these commissioners sat in the consistory of St. Paul's. And therefore we may conclude them ecclesiastical commissioners, who had nothing to do with matters of treason, but about some church matters rather. And as for the matter of queen Jane, he was afterwards charged with that at Guildhall.

Anno 1553, p. 368^d. A convocation is there spoken of to be held under Cardinal Pole. But that was a Synod Legatine, [as the author of the Rights, Powers, &c. of an English Convocation shews, p. 373.] For which he had a license under the broad seal, dated Nov. 2. And upon it he issued out his mandate to Bishop Boner, Nov. 8, for the province of Canterbury to meet, that of York on the 2^d of December following. Accordingly both provinces met in the King's Chapel at Whitehall, and from thence adjourned back again to Paul's, and afterward to Lambeth; and continued sitting there till February the 11. which was two months after the Parliament was dissolved, which was Dec. 9.

But the Parliamentary Convocation met Oct. 22. at Paul's, convened by the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, as was usual in the vacancy. And Bishop Boner, by commission from the chapter, presided. There they sat and did business till Oct. 30. when they offered their subsidies and complaints to the Queen.
